Former Hungarian Premier Executed

Nagy And Other Revolt Figures Put To Death

LONDON (AP) — Ex-Premier Imre Nagy and three associates in Hungary's 1956 revolt against Soviet rule have been executed, Radio Moscow announced Tuesday.

A Hungarian people's court was reported to have imposed the death sentences and ordered prison terms of five years to life for five other Hungarians as traitors.

Executed with Nagy were Maj. Gen. Pal Maleter, hero of the uprising who was captured by a trick, and two Communist journalists.

Most prominent of those drawing prison terms was ex-Premier Zoltan Tildy, a non-Communist.

The announcement came at a time of worsening relations between the Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia, which had watched the rebellion with evident sympathy and gave Nagy asylum in its Budapest Embassy for 18 days after Soviet tank divisions struck Nov. 4, 1956.

The immediate reaction in Washington over the executions was one of shock. Some senators called it a Soviet double cross.

At the U.N. in New York the executions were expected to set off a wave of protests. The U.N. General Assembly had been concerned over the fate of the revolution leaders and had demanded fair trial for them.

Executed with Nagy and Maleter, who was nabbed by the Soviets when he went as Hungary's new defense minister to negotiate for the Soviets' withdrawal, were newsmen Miklos Gimes and Joszef Szilagyi.

Five other associates of Nagy who was toppled from power when the Soviet Union intervened were handed prison terms, the broadcast said.

Sandor Kopacsy was reported sentenced to life imprisonment.

Ferenc Donath, Zoltan Tildy, Ferenc Janosi and Miklos Vasarhelyi were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 5 to 12 years.

The defendants appeared before the people's court bench of the Supreme Court of the Hungarian People's Republic.

Nagy was a moderate Communist whose short-lived government was ousted when Soviet forces crushed the 1956 Hungarian rebellion.

He was last reported held in exile in neighboring Romania.

The Soviets had seized him as he left the refuge of the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest.

The Moscow radio report, based on a Tass news agency dispatch, gave no further details of the execution.

On March 13 the United States disclosed it had formally asked Hungary to account for prominent Hungarians missing since the rebellion, but got no answer.

U. S. delegates to the United Nations mentioned Nagy and Maleter, as among those about whom the United States had asked.

Senate Nears Final Vote On Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers as well as union officials would have to sign non-Communist affidavits under a labor bill amendment adopted by the Senate Monday 66-20.

The amendment was offered by Sens. Karl Mundt (R-SD) and James O. Eastland (D-Miss).

The Taft-Hartley law now requires that union officials swear they are not Communists, if their unions are to have access to the National Labor Relations Board.

President Eisenhower had asked that this requirement be abolished. Mundt and Eastland argued that the affidavit requirement should be broadened, rather than junked.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), whose Rackets Investigating Committee has been digging for months into union - management relations, backed Mundt and Eastland.

However, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Irving Ives (R-NY), floor managers of the bill and also members of the Rackets Committee, fought the extension of the non-Communist requirement.

This marked the first time that Kennedy and Ives have gone down to defeat in four days of debate on the bill.

A little while earlier they had helped turn back, on a voice vote, an amendment which would have forbidden any strike that had not been sanctioned by the workers in a secret election.

The Eisenhower administration had also opposed this amendment, which was offered by Sen. William Purtell (R-Conn).

The Senate quickly adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Mundt requiring that union reports filed on trusteeships be made available to members of the local held under trusteeship. Kennedy accepted this.

It seemed certain the final vote on the bill—designed to curb any labor union racketeering and abuses would come Tuesday.

The time limit has been set at 30 minutes on any amendment.

Sen. McClellan said off the floor that the bill is taking a constructive form that would leave no justification for failure by the House to act on it.

There has been speculation on Capitol Hill that the House might never even vote on a labor bill this year, no matter what the Senate does.

Maine's Junior Senator Wins Renomination

PORTLAND, Maine, (AP) — Maine's junior U. S. senator, Frederick G. Payne, easily won renomination to a second term in Monday's Maine primaries.

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Sen. Frederick G. Payne was running more than five to one ahead of his opponent, Herman D. Sahagian, in early, fragmentary returns from his Republican renomination bid in Monday's Maine primaries.

Payne got 2,417 votes to Sahagian's 408 in 96 of Maine's 632 precincts.

Returns from 93 precincts gave ex-Gov. Horace A. Hildreth a margin of 1,638 to 1,178 over Philip F. Chapman Jr. for the Republican nomination for governor.

In the same precincts, all rural and most of them in northern and eastern Maine, Maynard C. Dolloff had a margin of 274 to 312 over Dr. Clinton A. Clauson in the Democratic contest for gubernatorial nomination.

The final "first-in-the-nation" election is Sept. 8. In 1960 Maine joins the states that elect in November.

Raging Battle For Lebanese Capital Eases

Rebels Reportedly Discuss Setting Up Rival Government

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The raging battle for Beirut eased off Monday into sporadic rifle firing and explosions. Rebels warring against the pro-Western regime were reported to have discussed setting up their own government, but reached no conclusions.

Fears spread through the capital that this half-Christian, half-Moslem nation might be torn by a religious civil war. Moslem bands controlled one sector of Beirut and armed Christians in the government security forces patrolled the remainder of the city.

In the Moslem sector, rebel leader Saeb Salem told a newsman that civil war may well result if President Camille Chamoun does not resign.

Tense, Jumpy City

The city was tense and jumpy. People stayed off the streets in fear a major clash might break out. Shops closed. Homes were tightly shuttered. Many inhabitants moved into mountain villages for safety.

Large numbers move to the mountains every summer to escape the heat, but this year's exodus is several weeks early.

The reported conference on a possible rebel government threatened to complicate matters even more for the government of President Chamoun and Premier Sami Solh. It would have the effect of drawing the line. A rebel regime more than likely would invite recognition from other governments.

The United States and Britain are committed to the Chamoun government. The Soviet Union and President Nasser's United Arab Republic probably would throw in with the rebels.

Dag To Arrive Wednesday

It is into this troubled atmosphere that U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will come Wednesday to confer with observer teams ordered in by the Security Council June 11. The observers have orders to stop infiltration of arms and men into Lebanon. This is a tough job along 150 miles of mountainous border with the U.A.R

The fighting in Beirut since Saturday—gravest since the start of the rebellion May 10—killed 50 persons in two days. Over-all casualties have been estimated at more than 500.

Americans Urged To Shun Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department Monday advised American citizens to stay away from crisis-ridden Lebanon unless they have imperative reasons for going there.

A terse announcement emphsized that this did not mean American travel to Lebanon was being banned.

The announcement said:

"In view of the situation in regard to personal safety and security of American citizens now remaining in Lebanon, the State Department is instructing its overseas posts and the passport division to alert American tourists and others who may be traveling in or through Lebanon of the situation there and to advise them against such travel unless there are imperative reasons for such travel.

"At present the passport division is not invalidating American passports for travel to or in Lebanon."

Summit Talk Preparatory Documents Made Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department made public Monday night hitherto secret documents relating to the projected summit talks and accused Soviet Premier Khrushchev of seeking publicity for Russia's position.

The department called newsmen together hurriedly and handed out about 2,000 words of papers dealing with preparations for a big-power conference.

There were three documents in all—the West's May 28 proposal for a summit agenda, the West's May 28 memo seeking to define the precise scope and character of presummit preparations, and a proposed schedule for working out summit agenda items, which was submitted May 31.

The State Department press chief, Lincoln White, said the papers were made public because Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko notified U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow that Russia was going to publish its documents.

Gromyko Loses No Time

Gromyko apparently acted immediately. The Soviets came out Monday with the text of Khrushchev's 38-page letter of June 11 to President Eisenhower.

State Department officials said this violated the spirit of the summit preparations under way in Moscow among Gromyko and the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France.

These department officials said the only explanation Gromyko gave Thompson was that, in Gromyko's view, the Western press had distorted the Soviet position and he wanted to set the record straight.

Western officials said they had no intention to make the documents public. Rather, they said, they intended to talk seriously in diplomatic secrecy, through the usual means of exchanging diplomatic memos, until some sort of agreement could be reached on when, where and how to hold a summit conference.

"Surprise At This Time"

While the State Department did not make public Khrushchev's June 11 letter to Eisenhower, it commented on it.

The department called it "a surprise at this time."

"We can only conclude that a major purpose of Mr. Khrushchev's letter, was to publicize once again the standard positions taken by the Soviet Union on topics it considers should be discussed at a summit meeting," the department said.

A reading of the three documents made public indicated no major change in hitherto known Western position on key topics of any summit conference.

Five general headings made up the West's position—disarmament, European security and German reunification, international exchanges, strengthening the United Nations, and easing tension in eastern Europe.

Disarmament Deadlock

No change was evident, for example, in the controversial disarmament field. The West still called for a system of inspection and control to oversee any halt in nuclear tests or nuclear weapons production, as well as cutbacks in conventional arms and manpower, along with measures against surprise attack and peaceful uses of outer space.

Reunification of Germany was linked with any summit talk about European security—a hookup to which the Soviet has often voiced objection.

Under international exchanges, the West sought an end to jamming of broadcasts into the Soviet Union, as well as a halt in Soviet censorship, prohibitions on travel inside the Soviet Union and restriction against certain books and periodicals.

Tanker Seamen Strike Settled

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of 10,000-oil tanker seamen was settled late Monday. But 1,700 engineers continued on strike against cargo and passenger ships.

More than 125 ships—84 of them oil tankers—were caught in ports from New York to Mobile, Ala., during the first few hours of the strike. Hundreds of others on the high seas were beyond affect until they reach port.

No big passenger liners were caught in the dual walkout of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the National Maritime Union's oil tanker division.

Peace talks with both unions resumed during the day and the tie-up involving 231 Atlantic and Gulf Coast tankers was settled 17½ hours after it began.

Negotiations in behalf of engineers on 448 cargo and passenger vessels continued.

The strikes began at midnight amidst contract deadlocks. Two other groups — NMU seamen on freighters and liners and radio operators belonging to the American Radio Assn.—reached settlements with shippers.

Greeks, Turks Reject British Cyprus Plan

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Greece and Turkey, hostile rivals for power on Cyprus, both rejected the new British plan for the island's future Monday night after getting separate previews of it.

Violence and more bloodshed are feared Tuesday when the British unveil their program publicly.

The Greeks and Turks got their look in private at top government levels in Athens and Ankara because they are the rival claimants.

Cyprus itself was quiet but tense as it awaited the official announcement. British forces reinforced with airlifted parachutists were braced for trouble.

It is believed the program will offer some measure of self-government for this east Mediterranean crown colony. That satisfies neither the Greeks nor the Turks.

An informant close to the Athens government said the Greek reply would be no. In Ankara, the Turkish Parliament adopted a resolution declaring Turkey will accept nothing but partition of Cyprus.

Nicosia, torn by bloody rioting for six days last week, was a quiet city even though a strict British-imposed curfew was lifted at 4:30 Monday morning. An ominous sign, however, was the movement of Greek Cypriot families from their homes in the Turkish Cypriot quarter.

A second force of British paratroopers began arriving and a shipload of British commandos was due to sail from Malta. By Thursday, some 3,000 British reinforcements will be in position to bolster the 25,000 permanent troops.

Ike Aide Says He'll Answer All Questions

Probe Figure Will Explain Relations With Millionaire

WASHINGTON (AP) —Sherman Adams announced Monday he will go before a House subcommittee Tuesday to make a personal explanation of his relations with Bernard Goldfine, his millionaire Boston friend.

Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide, said he was disposed to answer "every one" of the questions which have arisen relating to his actions "in connection with two matters before independent agencies," both involving Goldfine's business interests.

At the same time Eisenhower, through press secretary, James C. Hagerty, informed newsmen that "he knows of no individual, in or out of government, that he has more confidence in than Sherman Adams."

Asked if Adams would be placed under oath when he testifies, subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) replied: "Yes sir, if he testifies."

Other witnesses before the subcommittee have also been put under oath in the current investigation.

These developments crowded upon evidence unfolded by the House investigators that the Federal Trade Commission had vetoed criminal prosecution of Goldfine, a big textile manufacturer.

Overruled By Superiors

Testimony developed that a commission wool expert had recommended a criminal misdemeanor prosecution for alleged mislabelling of textiles but was overruled by his superiors.

This case developed in the spring of 1955, at which time Adams has acknowledged that he personally set up an appointment for Goldfine with the then FTC chairman.

Adams has challenged as unjust and unfair what he terms insinuations that he obtained favored treatment for Goldfine.

Evidence also was produced by the subcommittee Monday that Goldfine had paid $267.05 in hotel bills for Adams at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York early in 1954. Textile mislabeling complaints against Goldfine were being settled at the FTC around this time.

Harris sent Adams a letter Monday acknowledging receipt of a letter of explanation that Adams wrote to Harris last week.

Adams Invited To Testify

"The committee would be glad to have any additional information which you might want to present regarding these incidents," Harris added, "and is pleased to provide you the opportunity to appear before it, and invites you to do so..."

Harris told the President's assistant that the House group is trying to be eminently fair to everyone.

"I repeat, we are seeking only facts that have any bearing in the administration of the laws of the various (independent federal) agencies . . ." Harris wrote.

At his news conference Hagerty announced that he had a statement by Adams he wanted to read. It said:

"Certain questions have been raised by the subcommittee on Legislative Oversight and elsewhere about my actions in connection with two matters before independent agencies.

"Although I made a statement on last Thursday setting forth full recollection of any actions of mine in matters before these agencies relating to Bernard Goldfine there have subsequently been raised other questions, every one of which I am disposed to answer.

"It seems appropriate these answers should be made to the subcommittee.

"Therefore I have requested and the subcommittee has granted permission for me to appear tomorrow at 10 o'clock."

State Department's Passport Policy Dealt Severe Blow By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the State Department lacks authority to deny passports on the basis of an inquiry into an applicant's beliefs and associations.

The court divided 5-4. The majority opinion, by Justice Douglas, dealt a shattering blow to department policy. It has been requiring passport applicants to file non-Communist affidavits, and has been denying passports to suspected Communists and supporters of Red movements.

Justice Clark, who spoke for the dissenters, said he felt the secretary of state "is authorized to deny a passport to an applicant who is going abroad with the purpose of engaging in activities that would advance the Communist cause."

Douglas said Rockwell Kent, 76-year old artist, and Dr. Walter Briehl, Los Angeles psychiatrist, who were denied passports after refusing to say whether they were or ever had been Communists "may or may not be Communists."

But assuming they are, Douglas wrote, the only law which Congress has passed expressly curtailing the movement of Communists across America's borders has not yet become effective.

This was a reference to the 1950 Internal Security Act, which makes Communists ineligible to apply for passports. The legality of this act has not been ruled on by the Supreme Court and it may be a year or two before there is such a ruling.

Another 5-4 decision reversed the State Department's refusal to give a passport to Weldon Bruce Dayton, a cosmic ray physicist. Dayton had wanted to go to India, he said, to take a position at the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research.

Dayton swore he had never been a Communist. In denying his application, the State Department said it had relied in part on secret information.

In a 6-3 decision, the court ruled that the controversial "hot cargo" clause of labor contracts cannot be enforced by appeals to workers if this involves violation of the Taft-Hartley Act's ban on secondary boycotts.

Under hot cargo clauses, members of unions, particularly the Teamsters, may refuse to handle goods if their union says it comes from nonunion plants affected by strikes, or is "hot for any other reason."

Flood Drives 1,500 From West Terre Haute Homes

TERRE HAUTE, Ind (AP)—Muddy brown waters of the Wabash River and its tributaries reached a flood crest at Terre Haute Monday after bursting over an earthen levee and driving about 1,500 West Terre Haute residents from their homes.

Another levee was breached eight miles south near the little community of Prairieton on the Wabash east bank, and the swirling river quickly surrounded several more houses.

Nearly 40 per cent of West Terre Haute was covered with water when the river finally began leveling off at slightly over 27 feet shortly after noon. Both U.S. 40 and U.S. 150 were hidden under two to three feet of water and closed to traffic, although the U.S. 40 bridge over the Wabash to Terre Haute proper was still open.

National Guard troops and police patrolled West Terre Haute, guarding against looters, after going from door to door and ordering residents out. Even Terre Haute Mayor Ralph Tucker helped spread the word to evacuate when a section of levee on Sugar Creek was overwhelmed by rising water.

Two trucks and a jeep were swept away when the stream poured over the levee, but six men temporarily stranded in the darkness were brought out to safety in a rowboat.

The Civil Air Patrol sent two helicopters to aid in rescue work, the Army dispatched five amphibious landing craft and the Coast Guard said it was ordering some of its boats to the area. One of the landing craft went downstream to Prairieton in an attempt to repair a 100-foot breach in the levee there.

Buildings Evacuated In Radiation Leak

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Deadly atomic radiation escaped from a building at a nuclear energy plant Monday.

The Atomic Energy Commission said seven persons were in the structure at the time and are being examined to determine if they were exposed.

An automatic alarm indicated a leakage of radiation. The AEC immediately ordered three buildings in the area evacuated.

Health physicists soon "isolated a limited area in one building as the source of the radiation incident," the commission said.

The commission added in a statement that the exact cause of the incident was not immediately known.

Summit Talk Preparatory Documents Made Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department made public Monday night hitherto secret documents relating to the projected summit talks and accused Soviet Premier Khrushchev of seeking publicity for Russia's position.

Rather, they said, they intended to talk seriously in diplomatic secrecy, through the usual means of exchanging diplomatic memos, until some sort of agreement could be reached on when, where and how to hold a summit conference.

"Surprise At This Time"

While the State Department did not make public Khrushchev's June 11 letter to Eisenhower, it commented on it.

The department called it "a surprise at this time."

"We can only conclude that a major purpose of Mr. Khrushchev's letter, was to publicize once again the standard positions taken by the Soviet Union on topics it considers should be discussed at a summit meeting," the department said.

A reading of the three documents made public indicated no major change in hitherto known Western position on key topics of any summit conference.

Five general headings made up the West's position—disarmament, European security and German reunification, international exchanges, strengthening the United Nations, and easing tension in eastern Europe.

Disarmament Deadlock

No change was evident, for example, in the controversial disarmament field. The West still called for a system of inspection and control to oversee any halt in nuclear tests or nuclear weapons production, as well as cutbacks in conventional arms and manpower, along with measures against surprise attack and peaceful uses of outer space.

Reunification of Germany was linked with any summit talk about European security—a hookup to which the Soviet has often voiced objection.

Under international exchanges, the West sought an end to jamming of broadcasts into the Soviet Union, as well as a halt in Soviet censorship, prohibitions on travel inside the Soviet Union and restriction against certain books and periodicals.

Tanker Seamen Strike Settled

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of 10,000-oil tanker seamen was settled late Monday. But 1,700 engineers continued on strike against cargo and passenger ships.

More than 125 ships—84 of them oil tankers—were caught in ports from New York to Mobile, Ala., during the first few hours of the strike. Hundreds of others on the high seas were beyond affect until they reach port.

No big passenger liners were caught in the dual walkout of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the National Maritime Union's oil tanker division.

Peace talks with both unions resumed during the day and the tie-up involving 231 Atlantic and Gulf Coast tankers was settled 17½ hours after it began.

Negotiations in behalf of engineers on 448 cargo and passenger vessels continued.

The strikes began at midnight amidst contract deadlocks. Two other groups — NMU seamen on freighters and liners and radio operators belonging to the American Radio Assn.—reached settlements with shippers.

Greeks, Turks Reject British Cyprus Plan

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Greece and Turkey, hostile rivals for power on Cyprus, both rejected the new British plan for the island's future Monday night after getting separate previews of it.

Violence and more bloodshed are feared Tuesday when the British unveil their program publicly.

The Greeks and Turks got their look in private at top government levels in Athens and Ankara because they are the rival claimants.

Cyprus itself was quiet but tense as it awaited the official announcement. British forces reinforced with airlifted parachutists were braced for trouble.

It is believed the program will offer some measure of self-government for this east Mediterranean crown colony. That satisfies neither the Greeks nor the Turks.

An informant close to the Athens government said the Greek reply would be no. In Ankara, the Turkish Parliament adopted a resolution declaring Turkey will accept nothing but partition of Cyprus.

Nicosia, torn by bloody rioting for six days last week, was a quiet city even though a strict British-imposed curfew was lifted at 4:30 Monday morning. An ominous sign, however, was the movement of Greek Cypriot families from their homes in the Turkish Cypriot quarter.

A second force of British paratroopers began arriving and a shipload of British commandos was due to sail from Malta. By Thursday, some 3,000 British reinforcements will be in position to bolster the 25,000 permanent troops.

Ike Aide Says He'll Answer All Questions

Probe Figure Will Explain Relations With Millionaire

WASHINGTON (AP) —Sherman Adams announced Monday he will go before a House subcommittee Tuesday to make a personal explanation of his relations with Bernard Goldfine, his millionaire Boston friend.

Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide, said he was disposed to answer "every one" of the questions which have arisen relating to his actions "in connection with two matters before independent agencies," both involving Goldfine's business interests.

At the same time Eisenhower, through press secretary, James C. Hagerty, informed newsmen that "he knows of no individual, in or out of government, that he has more confidence in than Sherman Adams."

Asked if Adams would be placed under oath when he testifies, subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) replied: "Yes sir, if he testifies."

Other witnesses before the subcommittee have also been put under oath in the current investigation.

These developments crowded upon evidence unfolded by the House investigators that the Federal Trade Commission had vetoed criminal prosecution of Goldfine, a big textile manufacturer.

Overruled By Superiors

Testimony developed that a commission wool expert had recommended a criminal misdemeanor prosecution for alleged mislabelling of textiles but was overruled by his superiors.

This case developed in the spring of 1955, at which time Adams has acknowledged that he personally set up an appointment for Goldfine with the then FTC chairman.

Adams has challenged as unjust and unfair what he terms insinuations that he obtained favored treatment for Goldfine.

Evidence also was produced by the subcommittee Monday that Goldfine had paid $267.05 in hotel bills for Adams at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York early in 1954. Textile mislabeling complaints against Goldfine were being settled at the FTC around this time.

Harris sent Adams a letter Monday acknowledging receipt of a letter of explanation that Adams wrote to Harris last week.

Adams Invited To Testify

"The committee would be glad to have any additional information which you might want to present regarding these incidents," Harris added, "and is pleased to provide you the opportunity to appear before it, and invites you to do so..."

Harris told the President's assistant that the House group is trying to be eminently fair to everyone.

"I repeat, we are seeking only facts that have any bearing in the administration of the laws of the various (independent federal) agencies . . ." Harris wrote.

At his news conference Hagerty announced that he had a statement by Adams he wanted to read. It said:

"Certain questions have been raised by the subcommittee on Legislative Oversight and elsewhere about my actions in connection with two matters before independent agencies.

"Although I made a statement on last Thursday setting forth full recollection of any actions of mine in matters before these agencies relating to Bernard Goldfine there have subsequently been raised other questions, every one of which I am disposed to answer.

"It seems appropriate these answers should be made to the subcommittee.

"Therefore I have requested and the subcommittee has granted permission for me to appear tomorrow at 10 o'clock."

State Department's Passport Policy Dealt Severe Blow By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the State Department lacks authority to deny passports on the basis of an inquiry into an applicant's beliefs and associations.

The court divided 5-4. The majority opinion, by Justice Douglas, dealt a shattering blow to department policy. It has been requiring passport applicants to file non-Communist affidavits, and has been denying passports to suspected Communists and supporters of Red movements.

Justice Clark, who spoke for the dissenters, said he felt the secretary of state "is authorized to deny a passport to an applicant who is going abroad with the purpose of engaging in activities that would advance the Communist cause."

Douglas said Rockwell Kent, 76-year old artist, and Dr. Walter Briehl, Los Angeles psychiatrist, who were denied passports after refusing to say whether they were or ever had been Communists "may or may not be Communists."

But assuming they are, Douglas wrote, the only law which Congress has passed expressly curtailing the movement of Communists across America's borders has not yet become effective.

This was a reference to the 1950 Internal Security Act, which makes Communists ineligible to apply for passports. The legality of this act has not been ruled on by the Supreme Court and it may be a year or two before there is such a ruling.

Another 5-4 decision reversed the State Department's refusal to give a passport to Weldon Bruce Dayton, a cosmic ray physicist. Dayton had wanted to go to India, he said, to take a position at the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research.

Dayton swore he had never been a Communist. In denying his application, the State Department said it had relied in part on secret information.

In a 6-3 decision, the court ruled that the controversial "hot cargo" clause of labor contracts cannot be enforced by appeals to workers if this involves violation of the Taft-Hartley Act's ban on secondary boycotts.

Under hot cargo clauses, members of unions, particularly the Teamsters, may refuse to handle goods if their union says it comes from nonunion plants affected by strikes, or is "hot for any other reason."

Flood Drives 1,500 From West Terre Haute Homes

TERRE HAUTE, Ind (AP)—Muddy brown waters of the Wabash River and its tributaries reached a flood crest at Terre Haute Monday after bursting over an earthen levee and driving about 1,500 West Terre Haute residents from their homes.

Another levee was breached eight miles south near the little community of Prairieton on the Wabash east bank, and the swirling river quickly surrounded several more houses.

Nearly 40 per cent of West Terre Haute was covered with water when the river finally began leveling off at slightly over 27 feet shortly after noon. Both U.S. 40 and U.S. 150 were hidden under two to three feet of water and closed to traffic, although the U.S. 40 bridge over the Wabash to Terre Haute proper was still open.

National Guard troops and police patrolled West Terre Haute, guarding against looters, after going from door to door and ordering residents out. Even Terre Haute Mayor Ralph Tucker helped spread the word to evacuate when a section of levee on Sugar Creek was overwhelmed by rising water.

Two trucks and a jeep were swept away when the stream poured over the levee, but six men temporarily stranded in the darkness were brought out to safety in a rowboat.

The Civil Air Patrol sent two helicopters to aid in rescue work, the Army dispatched five amphibious landing craft and the Coast Guard said it was ordering some of its boats to the area. One of the landing craft went downstream to Prairieton in an attempt to repair a 100-foot breach in the levee there.

Buildings Evacuated In Radiation Leak

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Deadly atomic radiation escaped from a building at a nuclear energy plant Monday.

The Atomic Energy Commission said seven persons were in the structure at the time and are being examined to determine if they were exposed.

An automatic alarm indicated a leakage of radiation. The AEC immediately ordered three buildings in the area evacuated.

Health physicists soon "isolated a limited area in one building as the source of the radiation incident," the commission said.

The commission added in a statement that the exact cause of the incident was not immediately known.

Direct Negotiations East German Price For Releasing Nine

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Monday demanded full diplomatic negotiations with the United States as the price for freeing nine American Army prisoners.

Diplomatic sources said the East Germans pledged immediate return of the prisoners if Washington will do this.

The United States has avoided direct dealings with the East Germans for nine years and is balking at giving any diplomatic status to the Soviet-dominated regime.

Dep. Foreign Minister Otto Winzer made the East German proposal in a letter handed to U. S. Aroy Col. Robert P. McQuail in a second meeting in East Berlin.

The U. S. State Department is studying the letter.

The Americans landed in Communist hands June 7. Their helicopter, attached to the 3rd Armored Division in West Germany, strayed across the Iron Curtain in a thunderstorm.

An East German communique on the meeting with McQuail said: "A proposal by the German side for the immediate return of the nine U. S. military personnel was handed over. On the request of the U. S. representative, new talks were arranged for Wednesday."

Diplomatic sources said the East German letter was couched in tough language and made two main demands:

1. The Reds insisted that McQuail, or whoever negotiates for the United States, should carry credentials authorizing him to speak as a full diplomatic representative.

2. The American negotiator was asked to sign an agreement covering the release of the prisoners.

Piedmont Airlines Cuts Order For F27s

WASHINGTON (AP) — An industry journal, Aviation Daily, said today Piedmont Airlines, Winston-Salem, N. C., has cut its order for Fairchild F27 jet-and-propeller transports from 12 to eight.

It said this was done principally because of the $5,000,000 limit placed by Congress on loans to a single airline under guaranteed loan legislation enacted last year.

Piedmont is scheduled to take delivery of its first F27 June 26.

Aviation Daily quoted T. H. Davis, Piedmont president, as saying that the airline also has an option on eight F27s which it hopes to exercise later.

Folsom Doesn't Oppose Minor Changes In S.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Folsom hinted Monday that the administration wouldn't object to a cost-of-living raise in social security benefits this year.

But, he told the House Ways and Means Committee he would prefer that no changes be made until at least next January. The committee opened two weeks of hearings to consider possible social security revisions.

Folsom, the lead - off witness, made it clear the administration opposes any major changes this year.

On this point, he seemed to line up with Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark). Mills, in an opening statement, noted that this session of Congress was well under way and that time might not permit full consideration of major changes. He didn't rule out a cost-of-living raise in payments.

Folsom indicated—if Congress sees fit to make social security changes this year—the administration wouldn't object to these:

1. An 8 per cent increase in payments to all persons who went on the social security rolls before September 1954 when payments were last raised. Such an increase would bring the payments of some five million persons in line with rises in the cost-of-living since then.

2. Smaller increases in payments for persons who have gone on the rolls since September 1954, to reflect the changes in the cost-of - living. These raises would range from 3 to 5 per cent.

3. An increase from $4,200 to $4,800 a year in the amount of wages on which a worker pays social security tax and on which his future payments are based.

Such a change would mean a worker receiving $4,800 or more in wages a year would have his social security tax increased from $94.50 to $108 a year. It would also raise from $108.50 to $118.50 a month the amount a retired worker could receive at 65 and the amount that survivors of a deceased worker could receive.

Trujillo Departs Before Graduation

Trujillo left in a private railroad car for Los Angeles. The 29-year-old son of the strong man of the Caribbean republic said he would return home on his yacht from Los Angeles.

Because he left the college in March for a two-month stay in California, it was announced Trujillo would not be given a certificate of graduation with his class next Friday.

In California, Trujillo caught the glare of publicity after it was learned he had given costly sports cars to Kim Novak and Zsa Zsa Gabor and also a mink coat to Miss Gabor. He said last month he planned to stop in Hollywood on the way home to court Miss Novak.

Big Drop In Tax Revenue Puts Canada In Red

OTTAWA (AP) — The government estimated Monday it ran $39,400,000 into debt in the last fiscal year because spending rose and collections fell with the Canadian recession.

The report by finance minister Donald M. Fleming came as a jolt to the House of Commons, since the Conservative cabinet as late as December was predicting a surplus of 80 millions. A drop of about 59 million dollars in tax revenue from the previous fiscal year upset calculations.

Informed sources said a record peacetime deficit of from 600 million to one billion dollars was likely in the current fiscal year ending next March 31. The previous peacetime high was slightly more than 390 million in 1919-20.

Fleming said pension payments rose by about 94 million dollars to $473,900,000. Revenue stayed almost unchanged at $371,500,000.

The government's collection of personal income taxes actually increased last fiscal year, thanks to the momentum of increased earnings in the early months. But corporation taxes, the second largest revenue producer, dropped along with other taxes.

Personal income taxes rose from $98,700,000 in fiscal 1956-57 to $1,499,200,000. But corporation taxes amounted to only $1,234,800,000, a drop of $33,700,000 from the previous fiscal year.

Defense spending, which takes more than a third of the government budget, actually was cut about 5 per cent but other categories of spending more than offset this. The 1957-58 defense outlay was $1,687,000,000.

Widow, Mother-In-Law Of Kelly Win New Trial

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—U.S. Dist. Court Judge W. R. Wallace Monday ordered new trials on kidnaping charges for the widow and mother-in-law of George (Machine Gun) Kelly based on the failure of the government to produce long-secret FIB files.

Wallace denied a motion for continuance of a hearing sought by U.S. Dist. Atty. Paul Cress.

Kathryn Kelly, 54, widow of the man convicted for the kidnaping of oilman Charles Urschel in 1933, and her mother, Mrs. Ora Shannon have served 25 years in prison for their part in the crime.

James Laughlin, Washington attorney for the two women, immediately sought bail and the judge took the request under advisement.

Weather Outlook For Next 30 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—The coolest area in the nation during the next 30 days will be the Great Lakes region, the Weather Bureau forecast Monday.

The bureau's prediction from mid-June to mid-July said:

"The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period from mid-June to mid-July calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the northeastern quarter of the nation with coolest weather in the Great Lakes region. Above normal temperatures are anticipated in the area west of the Continental Divide and in states bordering the Gulf of Mexico. In regions not specified temperatures are predicted to average not far from normal.

"Rainfall is expected to exceed normal in the southern and central plains and also in the south Atlantic states. Subnormal amounts are anticipated in the Great Lakes region and west of the Rocky Mountains. In the remainder of the nation near normal rainfall is indicated."

Massu Appointed Algiers Dept. Chief

ALGIERS (AP) — Brig. Gen. Jacques Massu, the hard-shelled paratrooper who emerged May 13 as leader of the pro-De Gaulle upheaval, Monday was named governor of the Algiers Department. As such he is subordinate to two high French generals ruling in Algeria.

Massu, idol of Algeria's people of European origin and scourge of the Casbah native quarter, takes over Tuesday as prefect (governor) in the capital.

The appointment completes the French army's takeover of administrative power, under Premier de Gaulle, in the 12 Algerian departments (counties).

West's Summit Position Draws Red Boss' Fire

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev challenged the West Monday to prove it really wants a summit conference.

He hit at Western insistence on preliminary diplomatic negotiations, saying many persons are asking if such demands "were only raised to create additional difficulties..."

"In some of these meetings we have only marked time," Khrushchev said, "and in some cases we have even moved backwards.

"It is high time that both sides act with full sincerity to clear up their positions on the main question—do both sides really want a summit conference?"

Khrushchev's questions were in a June 11 letter to President Eisenhower. The letter was made public Monday by the Soviet government amid a flurry of diplomatic activity in Moscow.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko called in the ambassadors of the Western Big Three to inform them of the Soviet government's decision to make public Khrushchev's letter, plus the bulk of the preliminary talks held at the diplomatic level. Khrushchev had sent similar letters to British Prime Minister Macmillan and French Premier de Gaulle.

The Kremlin also called home its ambassadors to Washington, London, and Paris for consultation.

Khrushchev's letter appeared to be another strong attempt to take the summit discussions out of the hands of diplomats in Moscow and return them directly to the heads of the powers involved.

The letter said Western suggestions for a summit agenda and other communications from the West had given the Soviet Union serious doubt's about the West's sincerity.

Labor Union Medical Directors Endorse 'Third Party' Principle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor union health directors said Monday that group plans for the mass purchasing of doctor care are necessary to protect the public from incompetent physicians.

The health directors, meeting as the national conference of labor health services, said group third party guidance between doctor and patient is required to insure high quality and adequate medical-hospital care for the great bulk of the American people.

The principle of interposing a third party between doctor and patient has been assailed by the American Medical Assn. and state and local medical societies. The subject is expected to receive attention at the AMA's San Francisco convention next week. It had observers on hand at the labor sessions.

The labor meeting started off with a comment by Dr. Morris Brand, president of the American Labor Health Assn., that objections of organized medicine to mass-purchased medical care are motivated more by financial yield to doctors than by ethics. He criticized medical politicians.

A series of speakers made these points about labor health plans which select the doctors to treat participating patients:

1. They provide better quality and more comprehensive medical-hospital service for workers and their families.

2. By early diagnosis and treatment of disease they provide a better health protection at lower cost. They thus reduce the patient load ultimately requiring hospital attention.

3. They enable greater use of medical services because participating patients can afford, through group plans, services and care they could not buy on their own.

Ike Thinks Docs "Nuts"

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Monday his doctors want him to avoid Colorado's altitude because he suffered a heart attack there "but I think they're nuts."

The President made the remark to a group of about 40 Explorer Boy Scouts from La Junta, Colo. They called on him at the White House.

The scouts, known as the Koshare Indians, reminded Eisenhower they had been scheduled to put on an Indian dance for him while he was vacationing at Denver in 1955. It was there, in the fall of that year, that Eisenhower was stricken with a heart attack which hospitalized him for seven weeks.

With a smile, and an obvious reference to his physicians, Eisenhower told the scouts:

"They won't let me go there much any more."

A bit later in chatting with the scouts in the White House rose garden, the President said in further reference to Colorado:

"When I get out of this job I hope to go back there. Only because I got sick out there one year, the docs say I can't go there.

"But I think they're nuts."

The contractors for the advanced space project named "Dyna - Soar" — a contraction for dynamic soaring—are the Martin Co. of Baltimore and Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle, Wash.

Fleming said pension payments rose by about 94 million dollars to $473,900,000. Revenue stayed almost unchanged at $371,500,000.

The government's collection of personal income taxes actually increased last fiscal year, thanks to the momentum of increased earnings in the early months. But corporation taxes, the second largest revenue producer, dropped along with other taxes.

Personal income taxes rose from $98,700,000 in fiscal 1956-57 to $1,499,200,000. But corporation taxes amounted to only $1,234,800,000, a drop of $33,700,000 from the previous fiscal year.

Defense spending, which takes more than a third of the government budget, actually was cut about 5 per cent but other categories of spending more than offset this. The 1957-58 defense outlay was $1,687,000,000.

Widow, Mother-In-Law Of Kelly Win New Trial

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—U.S. Dist. Court Judge W. R. Wallace Monday ordered new trials on kidnaping charges for the widow and mother-in-law of George (Machine Gun) Kelly based on the failure of the government to produce long-secret FIB files.

Wallace denied a motion for continuance of a hearing sought by U.S. Dist. Atty. Paul Cress.

Kathryn Kelly, 54, widow of the man convicted for the kidnaping of oilman Charles Urschel in 1933, and her mother, Mrs. Ora Shannon have served 25 years in prison for their part in the crime.

James Laughlin, Washington attorney for the two women, immediately sought bail and the judge took the request under advisement.

Weather Outlook For Next 30 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—The coolest area in the nation during the next 30 days will be the Great Lakes region, the Weather Bureau forecast Monday.

The bureau's prediction from mid-June to mid-July said:

"The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period from mid-June to mid-July calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the northeastern quarter of the nation with coolest weather in the Great Lakes region. Above normal temperatures are anticipated in the area west of the Continental Divide and in states bordering the Gulf of Mexico. In regions not specified temperatures are predicted to average not far from normal.

"Rainfall is expected to exceed normal in the southern and central plains and also in the south Atlantic states. Subnormal amounts are anticipated in the Great Lakes region and west of the Rocky Mountains. In the remainder of the nation near normal rainfall is indicated."

Massu Appointed Algiers Dept. Chief

ALGIERS (AP) — Brig. Gen. Jacques Massu, the hard-shelled paratrooper who emerged May 13 as leader of the pro-De Gaulle upheaval, Monday was named governor of the Algiers Department. As such he is subordinate to two high French generals ruling in Algeria.

Massu, idol of Algeria's people of European origin and scourge of the Casbah native quarter, takes over Tuesday as prefect (governor) in the capital.

The appointment completes the French army's takeover of administrative power, under Premier de Gaulle, in the 12 Algerian departments (counties).

West's Summit Position Draws Red Boss' Fire

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev challenged the West Monday to prove it really wants a summit conference.

He hit at Western insistence on preliminary diplomatic negotiations, saying many persons are asking if such demands "were only raised to create additional difficulties..."

"In some of these meetings we have only marked time," Khrushchev said, "and in some cases we have even moved backwards.

"It is high time that both sides act with full sincerity to clear up their positions on the main question—do both sides really want a summit conference?"

Khrushchev's questions were in a June 11 letter to President Eisenhower. The letter was made public Monday by the Soviet government amid a flurry of diplomatic activity in Moscow.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko called in the ambassadors of the Western Big Three to inform them of the Soviet government's decision to make public Khrushchev's letter, plus the bulk of the preliminary talks held at the diplomatic level. Khrushchev had sent similar letters to British Prime Minister Macmillan and French Premier de Gaulle.

The Kremlin also called home its ambassadors to Washington, London, and Paris for consultation.

Khrushchev's letter appeared to be another strong attempt to take the summit discussions out of the hands of diplomats in Moscow and return them directly to the heads of the powers involved.

The letter said Western suggestions for a summit agenda and other communications from the West had given the Soviet Union serious doubt's about the West's sincerity.

Labor Union Medical Directors Endorse 'Third Party' Principle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor union health directors said Monday that group plans for the mass purchasing of doctor care are necessary to protect the public from incompetent physicians.

The health directors, meeting as the national conference of labor health services, said group third party guidance between doctor and patient is required to insure high quality and adequate medical-hospital care for the great bulk of the American people.

The principle of interposing a third party between doctor and patient has been assailed by the American Medical Assn. and state and local medical societies. The subject is expected to receive attention at the AMA's San Francisco convention next week. It had observers on hand at the labor sessions.

The labor meeting started off with a comment by Dr. Morris Brand, president of the American Labor Health Assn., that objections of organized medicine to mass-purchased medical care are motivater' more by financial yield to doctors than by ethics. He criticized medical politicians.

A series of speakers made these points about labor health plans which select the doctors to treat participating patients:

1. They provide better quality and more comprehensive medical-hospital service for workers and their families.

2. By early diagnosis and treatment of disease they provide a better health protection at lower cost. They thus reduce the patient load ultimately requiring hospital attention.

3. They enable greater use of medical services because participating patients can afford, through group plans, services and care they could not buy on their own.

Ike Thinks Docs "Nuts"

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Monday his doctors want him to avoid Colorado's altitude because he suffered a heart attack there "but I think they're nuts."

The President made the remark to a group of about 40 Explorer Boy Scouts from La Junta, Colo. They called on him at the White House.

The scouts, known as the Koshare Indians, reminded Eisenhower they had been scheduled to put on an Indian dance for him while he was vacationing at Denver in 1955. It was there, in the fall of that year, that Eisenhower was stricken with a heart attack which hospitalized him for seven weeks.

With a smile, and an obvious reference to his physicians, Eisenhower told the scouts:

"They won't let me go there much any more."

A bit later in chatting with the scouts in the White House rose garden, the President said in further reference to Colorado:

"When I get out of this job I hope to go back there. Only because I got sick out there one year, the docs say I can't go there.

"But I think they're nuts."

Martin Co. Awarded 'Dyna-Soar' Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced Monday that contracts to develop a manned space craft that will blast off like a rocket, orbit the earth like a satellite and land like a conventional airplane.

The contractors for the advanced space project named "Dyna - Soar" — a contraction for dynamic soaring—are the Martin Co. of Baltimore and Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle, Wash.

Devereux Says 'Police State' Methods Planned To Prohibit Cigaret Smuggling

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — James P. S. Devereux, Republican candidate for governor, Monday accused the State Comptroller's office of planning "police state" methods to guard against smuggled cigarets.

However, a spokesman in the comptroller's office denied any such strict enforcement tactics will be used.

Devereux's remarks in a speech before a convention of the Maryland League of Municipalities was in effect an assault on his Democratic opponent, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

The state's new cigaret tax of 3 cents a pack goes into effect July 1. The law prohibits bringing more than two packs of tax-free cigarets into the state at one time.

Devereux said in a speech before the Maryland League of Municipalities here, "All of us, as lovers of freedom, abhor the very idea or suggestion of the 'police state.' "

He added the Republican platform "resents the organization, in the office of the State Comptroller of Maryland, of border guards who are scheduled to take up their posts, two weeks from tomorrow, for the enforcement of the state cigaret tax, imposed over the governor's protest and veto."

But Edward F. Engelbert, tax counsel in the Retails Sales Tax Division of the Comptroller's office, disclaimed the notion there will be any harassment of motorists to enforce the law.

"We have no intention of stopping individual cars and we haven't devised any enforcement plan," Engelbert said.

"However, we will watch for large scale smuggling of cigarets."

He explained most of the personnel of about 35 who will administer the tax will be busy with inside duties.

Engelbert said earlier reports that the division would post several guards on highways out of Washington were erroneous.

The cigaret tax could affect buying habits of Marylanders in the Washington suburbs. In the District, there's a 2-cent levy. Montgomery County smokers pay a 2-cent county tax and would be paying 3 cents more for a pack than they can get them in the District.

Devereux boasted about the Republican platform in his talk before the municipal officials. He told them the home rule plank had been GOP party policy for many years.

The congressman said Republicans also back programs of benefit to all citizens in areas beyond municipal borders. He pointed to the proposal for developing a park along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal as one example.

Mice are kept as pets in many parts of the world.

Lee Declares Acheson Blast "Unjustified"

BALTIMORE (AP) — E. Brooke Lee, long time leader of the dominant Democratic organization in Montgomery County, maintained Monday that criticism by newcomer Dean Acheson was "very largely unjustified."

Lee also claimed that Acheson's views had been refuted by the voters in the May 20 primary.

The former Secretary of State in an interview with the Baltimore Evening Sun before the primary had accused the Lee organization of being indifferent to conflicts of interest by public officials and to planning for parks, water and schools.

Acheson was treasurer of a new Democratic faction.

Candidates backed by Lee won five of seven nominations to the Council, four of seven to the State Central Committee, five of six to the House of Delegates and four of seven to the state convention.

In a followup interview with the Evening Sun, Lee listed what he said were accomplishments which contradicted Acheson's charges.

Lee boasted that Montgomery was the first county in Maryland to authorize zoning and planning, its park area per thousand residents is the largest in the state, its school teachers have always been among the highest paid and its self operated liquor dispensary system "is the tightest" in the area which nets $900,000 a year.

In reply to Acheson's complaint the Democratic leadership condoned conflict of interest, Lee said:

"Montgomery County politics have for many years been among the hottest in the state, yet no charge of corruption has been either made or proved against the Board of County Commissioners, the members of the Legislature, or any of the administrative agencies.

"The opposition has as yet to specify a location or a happening in which conflict of interest damaged the local public welfare.

"They have not even been able to specify where the local public welfare has been damaged for any reason or what in the past they would have done either more or better."

D'Alesandro, McKeldin Clash Over Advertising Tax

BALTIMORE (AP)—Democratic Mayor D'Alesandro and Republican Gov. McKeldin traded verbal blows Monday over Baltimore's taxes on advertising.

McKeldin— who is expected to run for mayor next year—started the exchange by referring "to those who, thoughtlessly or maliciously," brought about imposition of the new tax this year.

He bragged before the Assn. of National Classified Advertising managers that a bill signed by him after passage by the legislature in February would prevent "another such farce of fiscal finagling by those who are entrusted with the always dangerous power to tax."

The state law prohibits any local gross receipts tax on advertising and a sales tax only if it applies equally to all other business.

Mayor D'Alesandro, who had the advertising taxes imposed, later had them repealed at the end of this year.

He chided Gov. McKeldin for bringing up the ad tax at this time while its validity is being tested in court.

The Circuit Court test started Monday morning. If the city's power to levy such a tax is declared unconstitutional by the courts, all the taxes it has been collecting since Jan. 1 will have to be returned.

Advertisers have been paying 4 per cent on each sale and the newspapers, radio and television stations 2 per cent on their gross receipts.

D'Alesandro—who may run for mayor again if he fails to win a U.S. Senate seat in November—was stung by McKeldin's remarks.

"It certainly is a shame that the governor didn't do some of that tax guarding he's boasting about when he increased the income tax 50 per cent," the mayor retorted, "after he got himself elected on a definite promise to abolish the sales tax and reduce other taxes.

The sales and income taxes were hiked by the February Legislature at the request of the governor.

D'Alesandro characterized them as "taxes against the poor, and, according to Republican philosophy, it is virtuous when you tax the poor and outrageous when you tax the rich.

"Fiscal finagling, indeed. The governor's campaign promises were nothing but oratorical olive oil."

Several Baltimore merchants began the court suit by testifying the amount of their advertising has been reduced because of the tax.

Sixteen merchants have joined the advertising agencies and the media in challenging the taxes.

Isaac Hamburger, president of a men's clothing store, said he has reduced purchase of advertising space by "roughly the amount of the tax."

William Brust, manager of Montgomery Ward, said he had to advertise less because "we have to live within a budget."

Both Brust and Hamburger, in response to questions by Deputy City Solicitor Hugo A. Ricciuti, claimed an increase in the State income tax would not lead them to curtail their advertising.

Brust explained this would be because all his competitors would have to pay the income tax also while some of them do not advertise.

Ricciuti also wanted to know what would be the stores' reactions to increases in the advertising rates. Hamburger conceded they might cause him to buy less.

Brust replied that while newspaper advertising rates have gone up 38 per cent in the past 10 years, his store has cut its purchase of space by only 10 per cent.

Melvin H. Widerman, president of another clothing and furniture store, said as a result of the advertising tax he had reduced his expenditures for newspaper space and spent more for direct mail advertising.

Ricciuti objected to Judge Joseph L. Carter that the testimony of the merchants was irrelevant to the issues in the case.

He said the publishers of the Baltimore Sunpapers contended originally that the advertising tax would prove such an economic burden that it would destroy their function of disseminating news.

Ricciuti said that after he subpoenaed the Sunpapers' financial and circulation figures, they agreed to drop the argument.

They are concentrating on a contention the power of the city to enact such advertising tax ordinances constitutes a threat to freedom of the press.

Richard F. Cleveland, lawyer for the Sunpapers, told Judge Carter the change in its argument "is a result of conversations between the city solicitor and me, and is not a direct result of the subpoena."

90 Allegany County Women Register For Short Course

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The Rural Women's Short Course attracted some 800 women from throughout the state Monday, and Allegany County registered the largest number, 90.

Washington County was second in registrations with 83, Baltimore City had 82, Baltimore County 69 and Anne Arundel 67.

Two women flew in a light plane from Cambridge and landed at the University of Maryland Airport. They were Mrs. Donald Holdt, the youngest of her county's group at 24, and Mrs. Earl Orem Jr.

Tonight the women gathered for a vesper service in the university chapel, where the Rev. George M. Docherty of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington, gave the sermon.

The women are here for their annual short course in homemaking, hobbies and current events.

Supermarket Safe Is Looted Of $5,690

SALISBURY (AP) — Safecrackers with criminal skill drilled through a supermarket safe during the weekend and stole $5,690, police said Monday.

The loot was taken from the Colonial Store, where the burglars broke in through a ventilating shaft on the roof and cut the ceiling.

Police Chief William Chatham said the safecracking evidently was the work of professionals who had cased the market. The safe door was found on the floor, cut into several pieces.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Mt. Pleasant WSCS Plans Bake Sale

The Mt. Pleasant WSCS will hold a bake sale June 21 at the Baltimore Pike fire hall, starting at 10 a. m. Phone orders will be taken by Mrs. Ralph Garland or Mrs. Talmage Luttrell. Plans were completed at a meeting of the society, held at the church.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Garland, who reported on the district meeting. It was voted to send $20 to the home and foreign missions. A Christmas party for gifts for missionaries, will be held next month. Mrs. Luttrell read a card of appreciation from Pearl Willis Jones for the package the society sent to her.

A program was conducted by Mrs. John P. McGuire. Readings were given by Miss Joan Luttrell and Mrs. Ray Evans. Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman conducted the worship service.

Social Chart

The Solomon-Athey and Evans-McVicker circles of First Presbyterian Church will meet tomorrow at the summer home of Mrs. Hugo Keller, Irons Mountain. Members are to bring sandwiches and meet at the church at 12:30 for transportation. Mrs. Keller will be assisted by Mrs. Albert List, Mrs. G. A. Diehl and Mrs. M. D. Reinhart.

The 11th annual reunion of the Henry Wilt clan will be held at State Park, seven miles east of Breezewood, Pa., July 6. Members are asked to bring a basket lunch and silverware. Dinner will be at noon.

Mrs. Webster Appointed Great Books Chairman

The Great Books Group of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women appointed Mrs. Ralph R. Webster chairman for the next two years, at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Gordon Lee Bowie, Washington Street. Mrs. G. Morgan Smith was named assistant chairman. It is a newly created office.

Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, retiring chairman, thanked the members for their cooperation and expressed her pleasure in serving. She also expressed her gratitude to Miss Marjorie Crist, daughter of Mrs. William Frailey, for having sent out the notice cards during the year.

The meeting was in the form of a planning session for next year. When meetings resume September 9, each member is to talk about her summer reading.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Runaway Truck Wrecks House

BALTIMORE (AP) — A runaway truck plunged down a steep Baltimore hill Monday and turned a house into a garage. It carried an auto right in with it.

The 5-ton driverless truck tore a gaping hole in the front of the two-story home after careening across a busy highway.

The truck driver, Joseph Daly, 37, jumped out before the crash. He was treated at a hospital for back and leg injuries.

The only occupant of the house, John A. Pahl, 47, was rescued from the second floor by a fire ladder.

Daly said his vehicle's brakes failed on Lake Avenue hill.

The truck shot across busy Falls Road, narrowly missing traffic, smashed into Mrs. Ellen Hust's parked car and drove it into the house. Both vehicles crashed through the first floor and came to rest partly in the basement.

Garcia Seeks $300 Million Loan From U.S.

By JIM BECKER

MANILA (AP) — A dark, soft-spoken, deceptively gentle man is due to arrive in the United States today on a mission familiar to all Americans.

Carlos P. Garcia, president of the Philippines, is looking for money.

"Not handouts," he points out quickly. He is seeking 300 million dollars in loans to shore up an ailing economy back home and payment of long-standing war damage claims amounting to 800 million dollars.

In most other ways, his state visit will be unusual.

The 61-year-old Garcia and his young island nation are America's warmest friends in Asia, a rarity in that ex-colonies seldom entertain tender feelings for former colonial rulers.

Garcia is pro-American and proud of it.

He has been known to throw away prepared speeches and deliver off-the-cuff lectures to other Asian leaders on the correctness of American foreign policy and actions.

Garcia has filled one of the toughest roles a politician has ever faced—successor to that fabled man of action, Ramon Magsaysay.

When Magsaysay was killed in an airplane crash a year ago, Garcia, as vice president, took over. He was elected in his own right last November.

The Filipino president's trip to Washington is an effort to obtain financial balm for some chronic troubles of his nation—unemployment, poverty and overdependence on imports.

He wants to continue Magsaysay's ambitious program of developing Filipino industries. But he wants loans to keep the new industries going until they can begin to produce.

He will be damaged severely at home politically if he returns empty-handed.

Garcia's chances of getting the full amount are slim. Congress apparently is not in a giving mood. Nevertheless, the Filipino President hopes to change some minds on his stumping tour.

Announce Way To Help Drain All 8 Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New decongestant tablet for sinus congestion sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet development which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or purchase price will be refunded.

The Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz administration, among other things, has:

Disregarded our welfare . . .

1. They have formed no long range financial policies for the city, even though they were advised that such planning was necessary if the city was to have enough funds to meets its obligations.

2. They have not been able to find sufficient funds to correct an open sewer condition in lower Mapleside which is a health menace to the citizens. The Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz administration, however, did find sufficient monies to sandblast the City Hall, widen Liberty Street only in front of the Public Safety Building, and for many other projects which could have been deferred indefinitely.

3. They have made no long range plans for our traffic problems which are growing worse day by day!

4. They signed a contract with the B & O Railroad wherein we, the taxpayers, and our descendants will pay forever "upkeep" and "Maintenance costs" of the automatic signals on Henderson Boulevard and Franklin Street. The railroad abolished approximately sixteen jobs at an annual savings of many thousands of dollars; and at the same time, placed a considerable financial burden on the community.

This is only one example of the "give-away" program of the Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz administrations which has substantially added to the serious financial condition of the city.

To correct these conditions new faces, with the exception of John J. Long, are necessary in our City Hall!

A group of civic minded persons have formed a Committee For Better City Government and have sponsored a series of notices to call your attention, as a voter, to the poor judgment exercised during the last four years by Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz. Princess Margaret Skilled Impersonator, Entertainer

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret sat down before the keyboard of the highly polished grand piano.

Her fingers found a very adult blue chord.

She rolled her big blue eyes, described in some quarters as the most beautiful in England.

Slowly, she warmed up an ancient spiritual, softly humming the harmony.

The mood changed quickly as she passed into the sad minor notes of a traditional Russian song.

"Ah, moi Magulchnie, moi pulozhnie, moi vasnotchky."

"My god," gasped a debutante, "she even knows Russian."

The princess sounded Russian all right. As Russian as a Kremlin chime. Or a silver tea pot clinking against a samovar.

That was the trick. The music was Russian. And she played it professionally. But the words definitely were not Russian.

"Lelikrshnie, ovat ne maduzhelsky," she continued. She fluttered her long eye lashes, creating a tiny Slavic atmosphere.

It sounded like a melancholy lament from the banks of the turgid Volga.

But it still was not Russian.

The guests at the small (16 people) dinner party filled the candlelit room with warm applause.

The princess smiled a regal acknowledgement.

Next she launched into an old Viennese tune. Once more she sang and it sounded just like German.

"All schmaltz," laughed Margaret as she finished imitating an Austrian singing one of those sentimental songs about love in four-fifths time — or something of the sort.

The applause was discreetly deafening.

She then did an imitation of a well-known British songstress, who is even better known for her fake American accent.

The impersonation was as deft as a pro's. Not overdone. Not underdone. Right on the slick chick's nose.

"Ma'am," said a young exguard's officer, one of her friends, "That was wonderful. Won't you—?" he lifted an eyebrow.

The princess wouldn't, thank you. She'd done her party piece and had done it extremely well. Better than anyone who has never heard her play and sing could imagine.

Among her many accomplishments is a sure sense of timing. She knows when to quit — just when they are begging for more.

"Why not dance?" she suggested.

Hostesses who entertain the Queen of England's 27 - year - old sister—and the list is exclusively small—must follow a rigidly prescribed set of rules.

A grand piano and a phonograph are set pieces. So is a room with bath, a dressing room, and rooms for Margaret's maid and chauffeur.

Before any party, meal or gathering, a list of every other guest must be submitted to Clarence House, the London home the princess shares with the Queen Mother.

And woe to the hostess who tries to run in a late starter.

The hostesses who entertain the princess the most include the Duchess of Marlborough, the Countess Mountbatten, the Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Rupert Nevill and Mrs. Herbert Agar.

They all have lovely country homes as well as town houses in London.

They know Margaret's likes and dislikes. She likes meeting new and interesting people. But she wants to know in advance who they are.

The hostesses know their other guests will talk to the princess about many subjects, but they will never be personal. They'd better not be.

London still talks of the unfortunate woman who asked Margaret:

"And, how is your sister?"

The princess looked her up and down.

"I presume," she said icily, "you mean Her Majesty the Queen."

When hostesses roll up the carpet for dancing, they know Margaret likes sambas, rumbas and rock 'n' roll. Never waltzes, though.

They are also familiar with her table preferences. She prefers game, fish and poultry to roast beef and mutton. She likes rare steaks and roast duck.

Every morning she reads all the London papers, except, of course, the Communist Daily Worker.

And she adores glossy paper magazines, including several well known American periodicals.

The princess—as is the custom of other fancy ladies in country houses—does not come down for breakfast. That's another way of saying she has it in bed.

Lake Below Crest

Lake Gordon is five inches below the crest of the spillway but Lake Koon is a half-inch over, a report by C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, showed yesterday. Consumption for the week ending Sunday was 85,400,000 gallons compared to 79, 880,000 the same period a year ago.

Mexico City developed from the settlement made by the Aztecs on an island in a lake which has since disappeared.

Newsman Tries To Explain Adams Case To Young Friend

Editor's Note—A veteran Washington newsman tries to explain the Sherman Adams case to a young friend, Janice, a typist.

By RAY CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dear Janice:

You asked me to tell you, in simple down-to-earth words, what all these headlines about Sherman Adams mean.

So here goes:

Remember that new coat you bought a few seasons back? You had to pound those keys quite a while to save up for it.

"Precious wools," the label said. "Guanaco. A blend of 80 per cent wool, 20 per cent guanaco."

Well, maybe the cloth in that coat came from a mill up New England way controlled by a man named Bernard Goldfine. If so, you have a sort of link, through the coat on your back, with all this hubbub about Mr. Goldfine and Mr. Adams, President Eisenhower's right-hand man.

That will take a bit of explaining; so let's start with Mr. Goldfine.

A real Horatio Alger story, his is. Once a shoeshine boy, he's now a multimillionaire, they say. Has eight woolen companies, big real estate interests, etc. There's even talk he may build a huge garage under old Boston Common.

A stern-looking man in his 60s, he likes to come out of his big house in Brookline, Mass., and stroll the neighborhood, in sports shirt, slacks and sneakers, swinging a knobby cane.

But his real hobby, his friends say, is making friends with political big-wigs, like governors and senators. Not stingy about it, either. He's grabbed some pretty big checks in pursuing his hobby.

He and Mr. Adams have been friends for years; knew each other well when Adams was governor of New Hampshire. Since becoming presidential assistant, Adams has made frequent trips back to New England, and sometimes Goldfine has put him up at an A1 Boston hotel, in suites costing up to $65 a day.

A minor mystery here is how Adams, long thought to be a Puritan type with simple wants, could feel at ease in a $65 suite.

Well, as so often happens, some of Mr. Goldfine's companies got into a bit of trouble with the federal government. And Mr. Goldfine would get in touch with the presidential assistant.

Adams says all he ever did was arrange an appointment for Goldfine to talk things over with a regulatory agency, or put in a call asking for information for his friend.

Never asked a regulator to do anything for Goldfine, he says. In fact, he says, the record shows Goldfine got no favors.

Critics reply that a call from the White House is almost bound to have an influence, even though the conversation is perfectly proper. They note that it's the White House which decides whether a regulatory commissioner gets reappointed when his term is up.

A lot of Democrats are heated up about Mr. Adams. They remember how he talked of "rascals" and influence rackets in the Truman administration. Also, many Republicans are unhappy.

Putting this argument aside, let's look into one of Mr. Goldfine's troubles with the government.

There's a law that says makers of wool cloth must put tags on it telling what's in it. The idea is to protect buyers like you, Janice, and prevent competing mills from getting an unfair advantage on each other.

Two or three years ago Mr. Goldfine got into a bit of a jam because of reports that some of the labels of some of his mills were not quite cricket.

Mr. Goldfine asked Mr. Adams to make an appointment for him with Edward F. Howrey, then chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, so they could talk over the problem.

"This I did," Mr. Adams says, "and it was all that I did."

Along in July 1956, the FTC issued a formidable looking document called a complaint. (I have a copy of it here.)

It said three Goldfine companies had labeled cloth 70 per cent guanaco "whereas in truth and in fact said fabrics contain substantially less than 70 per cent guanaco." A guanaco is kinfolk to a llama and produces pretty nice stuff for cloth.

Well, the upshot was that early in 1957 the trade commission approved something called a "consent order." This, to be brief, told the companies to stop misbranding their goods. The companies agreed to the order, but didn't admit they did anything illegal. And later they filed a required report saying they were obeying the order.

Thus nothing very bad happened to Mr. Goldfine. Consent agreements, such as the one his companies signed, are provided in the law. The idea is to get the desired results without a lot of legal fighting. The law also says that, if violations are willful, the government can bring prosecutions in court and if there is a conviction, the offender can be fined up to $5,000 or imprisoned for up to a year.

Well, Janice, I've hit some of the high spots, and maybe I'll be able to tell you more later. For one thing, a lot of rumors are flying around—for example that Mr. Adams got a $700 coat and a $2,400 Oriental rug from his old friend.

Newsmen hate rumors. They like to nail them down—true or false—as fast as possible. But we haven't been able to do it yet. Mr. Adams, being busy as the President's chief of staff, won't come out and hold a news conference.

All we can get is statements from Jim Hagerty that these questions have nothing to do with the issue.

Your friend

Ray

P. S. Don't get the idea, Janice, that there's any political slant in this letter. Some of us old-timers have been doing our jobs during a lot of administrations. Remember those gift freezers some of President Truman's men got? We tried to tell about them too.

Safecracker Admits Part In Enterings

Cumberland's 11-year-old safecracker appears to have gone astray of the law again and is back in custody at the Detention Quarters of the Allegany County Infirmary.

The boy was given a hearing earlier this month in Juvenile Court after he was implicated in a safecracking job at Hare's Store on North Mechanic Street.

The boy was released pending a mental examination by a local physician.

Sunday, City Police apprehended the boy and his 10-year-old brother concerning a number of recent breaking and enterings.

During questioning at Police Headquarters the boys informed police they had been involved in a breaking and entering at the Cumberland Moose Home, a breaking and entering at the Historical Society Home on Washington Street.

Police said the brothers Sunday also admitted being in the Montgomery Ward warehouse building on Howard Street last Thursday when fire broke out in the structure.

Firemen from Central Station and West Side answered the two-alarm blaze and brought it under control before great damage was caused.

Police noted, however, the boys did not admit setting the fire, but placed themselves at the scene. The case is under investigation.

The entry at the Moose Home occurred on May 27 and police reported five pints of liquor and $7 in cash stolen.

The entry at the Historical Society occurred Sunday, police said.

The brothers admitted taking three boxes of old surgical instruments, a microscope, three swords and a pistol.

The doctor's instruments were found later on Wallace Street, the microscope was located on Cumberland Street and the swords and pistol were found in the basement of the building.

Police said the boys also admitted stealing the collar and license from a pet dog owned by Mrs. Catherine Fisher, 316 Paca Street, while the dog was in its backyard.

The boys implicated two other youths during questioning Sunday night at Police Headquarters, police said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Monday made its third new high for 1958 in as many seasons. Trading was active.

Key stocks were up from fractions to a point or more. There were plenty of losers.

Late strength pulled the market definitely to the upside. It was slightly higher at the opening but then fell into an irregular pattern until deep in the afternoon.

Turnover was brisk but fell away to 2,870,000 shares from the vigorous 3,100,000 traded on Friday.

Both the industrials and rails showed islands of strength but Monday's was a patchy advance at best. Gainers and losers were to be found in virtually all groups.

Consensus seemed to be that the recession was shown by various key indicators to be bottoming out. News of another boost in steel production came Monday. Higher copper prices were announced again.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 60 cents to a new '58 high of $178.90 with the industrials up $1.00, the rails up 60 cents and the utilities unchanged. Both the industrials and rails were at new peaks for this year.

The rise brought the AP average to its highest level since last Sept. 3.

Of 1,190 issues traded, 567 rose and 363 fell. There were 155 new highs for the year and two new lows.

Local Streets To Be Closed At Armory Site

The Mayor and Council has approved an ordinance for the closing of certain streets and alleys in Ridgedale Addition in connection with the proposed construction of a new National Guard Armory there.

Affected are Tonkaway Avenue from Greene Street to Brown Street; Van Buren Avenue from Tonkaway to Euclid Avenue; Greene Street from Tonkaway to Euclid; and two unnamed alleys.

James B. Rinehart, Howard M. Spiker and William Harrison were named commissioners to determine damages, if any, in the transaction. The three are local realtors.

George M. Hazelwood Jr., 219 North Allegany Street, appeared to ask if water and sewer lines would be placed under present Armory plans. He was advised by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan that plans are being prepared by Russ Minter, local architect, and that the city did not have that information as yet. However, he invited Hazelwood to meet with Charles R. Scarlett, draftsman, to get additional information.

In routine activity, council ordered checks issued to city employes yesterday for the first two weeks of June.

The quarterly payment of $750 due Cumberland Concert Band for concerts and rehearsals was authorized as was a $103.45 refund to Alice G. McLuckie for overpayment of taxes caused by reduction in assessment by the county.

Two appointments were made. Robert Lee Rosser was named extra janitor at City Hall at a salary of $229 month. He will replace an employe who is ill. Council also named Thomas A. Cline as a seasonal watchman at Constitution Park at a salary of $229. The watchman is needed during the time the park pool is opened, it was explained.

Ronald Livengood was confirmed as a regular member of the Fire Department.

Delayed until City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum returns from sick leave was the request of Frank J. Idoni, 242 Columbia Avenue, to rent a lot at 620 North Mechanic Street for use as a used car sales lot.

Referred to the engineer, street commissioner and attorney was a request from Louis K. Reynolds, 29 Massachusetts Avenue, for the closing of an alley (not open for public use) so he can make improvements to his property.

Referred to the finance commissioner was a request for funds from Allegany County Mental Health Committee.

South End Collection Plan Not Voted On By Council

No vote has been taken on the establishment of a collection agency for city bills in South End and when such an agency is established it will be done by authority of the full council.

These facts were brought out at the Mayor and Council meeting yesterday after Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he had been accused by South End residents of voting against the proposal.

It had been suggested that the city establish a place in the southern section of the city for the handling of city water and sewage treatment bills as a convenience to those residing there because of congested traffic conditions uptown.

Keegan said during the course of his campaigning in South End he was "amazed to learn that some individuals who should be well-informed on such matters have attributed to me the reason why city water bills and sewer charges are not paid at the Cumberland Savings Bank. This proposition has been proposed at various times by businessmen in South Cumberland and is a matter which rests squarely in the department of the finance commissioner. I am the police and fire commissioner and have nothing whatsoever to do with matters such as the administration of collections of revenues.

"I wish to state emphatically, however, that I am perfectly willing to have these bills paid at the Cumberland Savings Bank, I have always been willing to have this done, would have voted and will vote on such a motion whenever it is presented by the finance commissioner. I am agreeable to any practical solution which he may be able to work out in conjunction with this."

Finance Commissioner John J. Long said members of council had met several times with Arthur J. Weber of the South End bank and it was decided on the recommendation of City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson to continue consideration of the plan until such time as accounts of the sewage treatment plant are in readiness for collection.

"As soon as we feel we can make a recommendation it will be done," Long said, and added it would be decided by a vote of the full council.

Keegan said he wanted it made clear he had never voted against the plan and it was pointed out there had never been a vote on it.

Long said a similar request for the establishment of a collection agency in South End has come from Storer Brothers store. He said they were told the same thing as those favoring the bank site.

Four Inductees Depart Today

Four area youths will depart today for induction into the armed forces at Fairmont.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator for the local Selective Service boards, said yesterday the youths will report to the local Post Office building at 6:15 a. m. They will leave by chartered bus for Fairmont at 7 a. m.

Leaving for induction today will be Frederick Allan Bible, Star Route, Flintstone, and Edward Allen Keller, 125 New Hampshire Avenue, both from Board 27, and Jesse Ervin Clites Jr., Ellerslie, and Arthur Earl Ferguson, Cresaptown, both from Board 29.

The bus will stop at Frostburg and pick up a group of draftees there, Fahey said.

Mayor Eves Answers Anonymous Committee

To The Voters of Cumberland:

During the closing days of this campaign, a series of political advertisements which attempt to "smear" the present City administration, have appeared in the local papers.

These advertisements were authorized by a so-called "Committee For Better City Government." Mr. William R. Carscaden is named as Treasurer of this Committee, but apparently none of the other members care to be known, as their names are not disclosed.

The making of last minute attacks by an anonymous committee is one of the most ancient and least creditable forms of political activity, and I am confident that very few citizens of Cumberland will be misled by such tactics.

The advertisements are limited to vague generalities, with no specific facts to support them, and they are totally devoid of any suggested remedies for the difficulties which are alleged to exist. Nor do they indicate which, if any, of the projects sponsored by this administration, that they would have eliminated.

They are also confusing, because they are particularly critical of the City's financial situation, and at the same time, they praise the Commissioner who is in charge of the City's finances.

Actually, the City's finances are alright, our expenses as a whole are well within the appropriations, and the only foreseeable future difficulty will be the payments which the City is obligated to make in connection with the present Cumberland Thruway, including the Industrial Boulevard. These payments are unusual, they must be made no matter who is elected, and there will be no difficulty about the payments if the Urban Development Bond Issue, which is designed to take care of them, is approved.

Furthermore, all of the present City Commissioners voted for the Ordinance proposing this Bond Issue, and they voted for all other Bond Issues of this administration, except that the Finance Commissioner opposed what was by far the smallest one of $150,000.00, to build a new Nurses Home for the Memorial Hospital.

It thus appears that the Mayor and Council have been practically unanimous on finanical matters, and I respectfully submit that the anonymous "Committee For Better City Government" is all mixed up when it criticizes two Commissioners and praises the third Commissioner for doing practically the same thing with regard to the City's finances.

Sincerely Yours,

Roy W. Eves

Nor do they indicate which, if any, of the projects sponsored by this administration, that they would have eliminated.

They are also confusing, because they are particularly critical of the City's financial situation, and at the same time, they praise the Commissioner who is in charge of the City's finances.

Actually, the City's finances are alright, our expenses as a whole are well within the appropriations, and the only foreseeable future difficulty will be the payments which the City is obligated to make in connection with the present Cumberland Thruway, including the Industrial Boulevard. These payments are unusual, they must be made no matter who is elected, and there will be no difficulty about the payments if the Urban Development Bond Issue, which is designed to take care of them, is approved.

Furthermore, all of the present City Commissioners voted for the Ordinance proposing this Bond Issue, and they voted for all other Bond Issues of this administration, except that the Finance Commissioner opposed what was by far the smallest one of $150,000.00, to build a new Nurses Home for the Memorial Hospital.

It thus appears that the Mayor and Council have been practically unanimous on finanical matters, and I respectfully submit that the anonymous "Committee For Better City Government" is all mixed up when it criticizes two Commissioners and praises the third Commissioner for doing practically the same thing with regard to the City's finances.

Sincerely Yours,

Roy W. Eves

SRC Awards Road Contract In Berkeley

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Road Commission awarded a contract Monday for grading, draining and four-lane paving of three miles of Interstate Rt. 81 in Berkeley County, north of Martinsburg.

The $1,876,509 contract, awarded after receipt of U. S. Bureau of Public Roads approval of the low bid, went to W. A. Wilson and Sons Construction Co. of St. Marys.

It is the first contract for actual road construction in West Virginia under the Federal Interstate program, although a bridge contract previously had been awarded on an Interstate project in Cabell County.

The Berkeley project will be financed on the basis of 60 per cent from the federal government and 40 per cent from the state.

The federal share was increased to 90 per cent in later Interstate allocations, but the states must first use up their 60-40 allocations before receiving any 90-10 money.

Bids on the project were opened June 10.

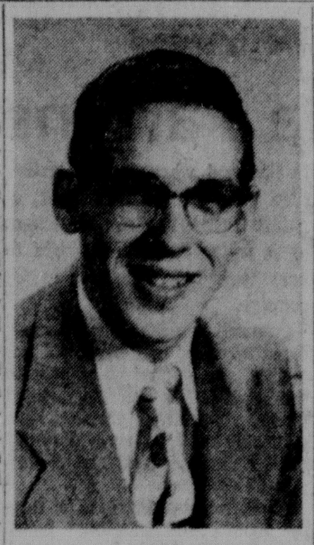

Historical Society To Meet June 24

The annual meeting of the Allegany County Historical Society will be held June 24, at 8 p. m. in the society headquarters, 218 Washington Street. At that time plans will be completed for the first of a series of annual auctions.

The sale will be held August 16, from 1 until 5, from "Spruce Street Mews." Items will be a wide variety, both old and new, with particular emphasis on antiques. Contributions are solicited and will be picked up by the committee of arrangements.

Contribution suggestions include china, glass, furniture, silver, books, bric a brac, old clothes, toys, draperies, spreads, slip covers, old coins, stamps, pictures and paintings, lamps, candlesticks, victrola records, shutters, player piano rolls, canned goods, rugs, antiques of any kind, clocks, figurines, prints, mirrors, fireplace equipment, brass and copper buckets, crocks, fans, jewelry, spinning wheels, parasols, chairs, shaving mugs, guns and games.

There are an estimated five million anglers in the United States. They use about 25 million worms a year.

PROMOTED — Harold Lee Scott of Flintstone, who has been principal of Piney Plains Elementary School for six years, has been promoted by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to the principalship of McCoole Elementary School. A 1947 graduate of Beall High School, Frostburg and 1952 graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College, Mr. Scott received his master of education degree in 1957 at the University of Maryland. A past president of the Elementary Principals' Association of Allegany County, he is executive officer of Company D, Frostburg, Maryland National Guard.

Careful planning will save much wear and tear for the bride-to-be.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Important Event

"Will you please tell me whether the white aisle runner is left down before and after the wedding ceremony? Our only daughter is being married in August, and it is our first wedding in the family since our own 30 years ago," writes a fond mother.

Wedding plans are often disturbing as most people aren't familiar with all the many details involved. And it's the single most important event in a lifetime. Your problem is quite a simple one. The usual procedure is this: after all the guests are seated and the ushers take down ribbons for enclosure of pews (this isn't necessary if you don't care to do it), one of the ushers seats the bride's mother. It is then that the ushers roll the white runner up the aisle so the bridal party may walk on it.

The purpose of the runner is to protect the bride's train and keep her wedding gown from getting soiled. Then after the ceremony the bridal party and then all the guests walk on the runner. It is never removed from the aisle until all have left.

You pay for all expenses of the reception which includes flowers, music, food and cars for the bridal party from the house to the church and from the church to the reception. Of course the wedding invitations, the flowers in the church, the wedding dress, clothes and linen and the bridesmaids' bouquets and their presents are all included, too. The fees for the sexton and for the organist are paid for by the parents, even if the church organist is not used, he or she must be paid.

The wise bride will try to squeeze in as much rest as possible with all the hectic and extra plans of a wedding . . . which usually go way beyond almost every girl's imagination. However small she intends to keep the wedding, there are many details indispensable to every marriage. And, it can be tiring.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Paul Douglas hasn't had too much to laugh about lately what with his serious illness in London which brought Jan Sterling hurrying to his side. But he has one of the funniest roles ever scripted coming up as the cigar-smoking Colonel Hoxie in "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys," an officer who, even in peace time, thinks civilians are squares constantly interfering with the military.

Because he isn't due to report to 20th for the comedy with Joanne Woodward, Paul Newman and Joan Collins until July 12, Douglas and Jan will take the opportunity to visit the Brussels World Fair. Their work keeps them apart so often, Paul and Jan are glad for even this short vacation together. Leo McCarey is the producer-director of Max Shulman's "Rally 'Round the Flag" which has been on the best seller list for a year.

One bright ray in Deborah Kerr's unhappiness is that Sol Siegel has switched plans and will produce her next picture, "The Blessing," in Hollywood instead of London. It's obvious why Deborah doesn't want to go to England where Tony Bartley filed his "enticement" suit against Peter Viertel and where he is trying to get legal right to keep their two daughters in his country.

Deborah has filed her own suit for divorce in California, so, naturally, she wanted to be here to confer with her attorney, Judge Pacht. Debbie's friends are staunchly back of her and resent the British press attacks on unproved evidence.

Another who is sure to be happy about "The Blessing" being filmed on the MGM lot is co-star Rossano Brazzi, who didn't really want to return to Europe for the picture.

In the tragic accident Eddie Robinson Jr. sustained when he fell over 25 feet while rehearsing for a scene in a motion picture, John Carroll emerges as a hero. Eddie was buried in sand and unable to move. John saw him, extricated him and carried him out. Eddie's face is badly cut and he'll require plastic surgery.

Gladys Robinson is gifting John with a $25,000 painting. She was on Tom Duggan's show giving a blow by blow description of her son's accident, and even Tom, who always manages to get a word in, couldn't interrupt her.

Sad that Mrs. Jean Bello didn't live long enough to see her daughter, Jean Harlow's life story put on the screen. She wanted Marilyn Monroe to play Jean, and had expected to act as technical adviser when 20th Century-Fox makes the tragic story of unhappy Jean.

Mrs. Bello held out a long time against selling the story, but finally gave in when she was told 'her baby," as she always called Jean, would have a heart warming human interest story, and this Adela Rogers St. John has done.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

You can bet that when the Touch Connors baby is born, if it's a boy he won't be called Touch. The name chosen is Matthew Curt. And, by the way, Touch is begging everyone to call him Michael.

Another vital statistic is the coming visit of the stork to former child star Skippy Homeier and his wife. They expect their second child in December.

We caught my old friends, Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, at the Mocambo. They have added some new material and had everyone in the aisles.

Barry Sullivan and Cita Hall, who may be married on a trip he is planning, were ringsiders. Johnny Mercer, just back from New York, tells me he is going to Honolulu for two months. Janet Thomas was in the same party with Irving Lazar. The Eddie McHargs, and popular Al Freeman of the Las Vegas Sands were Jimmy McHugh's guests. Martin and Rowan do a very funny routine about The Sands.

That's all today.

Doctors Tell Mothers Warts Should Be Removed

New Compound Removes Warts Without Cutting or Burning

New York, N.Y. (Special)...Doctors know that picking and scratching at warts may cause bleeding and infection. But today, medical science has developed a new compound, that removes common warts quickly and safely, without painful surgery or electrolysis.

Developed by a famous medical laboratory, this remarkable new formula penetrates warts ... destroys their cells ... actually causes warts to dissolve away.

Tested by a leading New York skin clinic under careful medical supervision, this remarkable formula proved so effective, only one application a day was needed ... proved so safe, it is now used for both children and adults. This new compound contains no mineral acids ... leaves no ugly scars.

Today, this new compound is being widely recommended for quick removal of unsightly, troublesome warts. Known as *Compound W, it is now available for the first time without a prescription, at all drug counters for just 98¢. Compound W is guaranteed to remove warts ... or money refunded. *Trade Mark

Two Contracts Are Negotiated By Teamsters

Two contracts have been negotiated by Local 453, Teamsters Union, with two local building material firms.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said both contracts call for five cents an hour increase retroactive to May 1. The pacts are for one year.

The Cumberland Cement and Supply Company and Super Concrete Company have signed the contracts. About 100 men are covered by the agreement. Cumberland Cement and Supply Company has agreed to increase health and welfare payments by $4.25 per month for each employe. The health and welfare payment now totals $14 for each worker.

Super Concrete has a health and welfare program of its own and this did not figure in the negotiations.

Stutzman also announced that Joint Council 40, which consists of 11 locals in Western Pennsylvania, Western Maryland and northern West Virginia, has reached a tentative agreement on a new contract with large freight hauling companies in the council's jurisdiction.

There are about 150 firms which are involved in this contract and 9,000 drivers of the joint council are covered. Meetings on ratification of the contract will be held in the near future, Stutzman said. Local 453 is a member of the council and most of the drivers covered in the tentative agreement are located in Bedford and Somerset.

Careful planning will save much wear and tear for the bride-to-be.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Important Event

"Will you please tell me whether the white aisle runner is left down before and after the wedding ceremony? Our only daughter is being married in August, and it is our first wedding in the family since our own 30 years ago," writes a fond mother.

Wedding plans are often disturbing as most people aren't familiar with all the many details involved. And it's the single most important event in a lifetime. Your problem is quite a simple one. The usual procedure is this: after all the guests are seated and the ushers take down ribbons for enclosure of pews (this isn't necessary if you don't care to do it), one of the ushers seats the bride's mother. It is then that the ushers roll the white runner up the aisle so the bridal party may walk on it.

The purpose of the runner is to protect the bride's train and keep her wedding gown from getting soiled. Then after the ceremony the bridal party and then all the guests walk on the runner. It is never removed from the aisle until all have left.

You pay for all expenses of the reception which includes flowers, music, food and cars for the bridal party from the house to the church and from the church to the reception. Of course the wedding invitations, the flowers in the church, the wedding dress, clothes and linen and the bridesmaids' bouquets and their presents are all included, too. The fees for the sexton and for the organist are paid for by the parents, even if the church organist is not used, he or she must be paid.

The wise bride will try to squeeze in as much rest as possible with all the hectic and extra plans of a wedding . . . which usually go way beyond almost every girl's imagination. However small she intends to keep the wedding, there are many details indispensable to every marriage. And, it can be tiring.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Paul Douglas hasn't had too much to laugh about lately what with his serious illness in London which brought Jan Sterling hurrying to his side. But he has one of the funniest roles ever scripted coming up as the cigar-smoking Colonel Hoxie in "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys," an officer who, even in peace time, thinks civilians are squares constantly interfering with the military.

Because he isn't due to report to 20th for the comedy with Joanne Woodward, Paul Newman and Joan Collins until July 12, Douglas and Jan will take the opportunity to visit the Brussels World Fair. Their work keeps them apart so often, Paul and Jan are glad for even this short vacation together. Leo McCarey is the producer-director of Max Shulman's "Rally 'Round the Flag" which has been on the best seller list for a year.

One bright ray in Deborah Kerr's unhappiness is that Sol Siegel has switched plans and will produce her next picture, "The Blessing," in Hollywood instead of London. It's obvious why Deborah doesn't want to go to England where Tony Bartley filed his "enticement" suit against Peter Viertel and where he is trying to get legal right to keep their two daughters in his country.

Deborah has filed her own suit for divorce in California, so, naturally, she wanted to be here to confer with her attorney, Judge Pacht. Debbie's friends are staunchly back of her and resent the British press attacks on unproved evidence.

Another who is sure to be happy about "The Blessing" being filmed on the MGM lot is co-star Rossano Brazzi, who didn't really want to return to Europe for the picture.

In the tragic accident Eddie Robinson Jr. sustained when he fell over 25 feet while rehearsing for a scene in a motion picture, John Carroll emerges as a hero. Eddie was buried in sand and unable to move. John saw him, extricated him and carried him out. Eddie's face is badly cut and he'll require plastic surgery.

Gladys Robinson is gifting John with a $25,000 painting. She was on Tom Duggan's show giving a blow by blow description of her son's accident, and even Tom, who always manages to get a word in, couldn't interrupt her.

Sad that Mrs. Jean Bello didn't live long enough to see her daughter, Jean Harlow's life story put on the screen. She wanted Marilyn Monroe to play Jean, and had expected to act as technical adviser when 20th Century-Fox makes the tragic story of unhappy Jean.

Mrs. Bello held out a long time against selling the story, but finally gave in when she was told 'her baby," as she always called Jean, would have a heart warming human interest story, and this Adela Rogers St. John has done.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

You can bet that when the Touch Connors baby is born, if it's a boy he won't be called Touch. The name chosen is Matthew Curt. And, by the way, Touch is begging everyone to call him Michael.

Another vital statistic is the coming visit of the stork to former child star Skippy Homeier and his wife. They expect their second child in December.

We caught my old friends, Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, at the Mocambo. They have added some new material and had everyone in the aisles.

Barry Sullivan and Cita Hall, who may be married on a trip he is planning, were ringsiders. Johnny Mercer, just back from New York, tells me he is going to Honolulu for two months. Janet Thomas was in the same party with Irving Lazar. The Eddie McHargs, and popular Al Freeman of the Las Vegas Sands were Jimmy McHugh's guests. Martin and Rowan do a very funny routine about The Sands.

That's all today.

Doctors Tell Mothers Warts Should Be Removed

New Compound Removes Warts Without Cutting or Burning

New York, N.Y. (Special) ... Doctors know that picking and scratching at warts may cause bleeding and infection. But today, medical science has developed a new compound, that removes common warts quickly and safely, without painful surgery or electrolysis.

Developed by a famous medical laboratory, this remarkable new formula penetrates warts ... destroys their cells ... actually causes warts to dissolve away.

Tested by a leading New York skin clinic under careful medical supervision, this remarkable formula proved so effective, only one application a day was needed ... proved so safe, it is now used for both children and adults. This new compound contains no mineral acids ... leaves no ugly scars.

Today, this new compound is being widely recommended for quick removal of unsightly, troublesome warts. Known as Compound W®, it is now available for the first time without a prescription, at all drug counters for just 98¢. Compound W is guaranteed to remove warts ... or money refunded. ®Trade Mark

Two Contracts Are Negotiated By Teamsters

Two contracts have been negotiated by Local 453, Teamsters Union, with two local building material firms.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said both contracts call for five cents an hour increase retroactive to May 1. The pacts are for one year.

The Cumberland Cement and Supply Company and Super Concrete Company have signed the contracts. About 100 men are covered by the agreement. Cumberland Cement and Supply Company has agreed to increase health and welfare payments by $4.25 per month for each employe. The health and welfare payment now totals $14 for each worker.

Super Concrete has a health and welfare program of its own and this did not figure in the negotiations.

Stutzman also announced that Joint Council 40, which consists of 11 locals in Western Pennsylvania, Western Maryland and northern West Virginia, has reached a tentative agreement on a new contract with large freight hauling companies in the council's jurisdiction.

There are about 150 firms which are involved in this contract and 9,000 drivers of the joint council are covered. Meetings on ratification of the contract will be held in the near future, Stutzman said. Local 453 is a member of the council and most of the drivers covered in the tentative agreement are located in Bedford and Somerset.

City Budget Major Problem Of Incoming Mayor, Council

Within a few weeks the incoming Mayor and Council to be elected today faces its first major problem—the budget.

Indications are it will be no bed of roses. There's a rough road ahead. payments of progress to be met with a minimum of revenue and no big sources of additional revenue in sight.

The city tax rate, currently at $1.57, could possibly be changed if the $500,000 Urban Development Bond issue on tomorrow's ballot is approved. Otherwise, it will be the same.

But there will be no new funds for operating expenses. This part of the tax rate is within two mills of the limitation set by law. The city can use $1.25 of the rate for operating expenses and general purposes and no more. It currently is using $1.2498 and a proposal to increase that by 10 cents was defeated resoundingly—3,872 to 452—in August last year. That means the only way the tax rate can be raised is for debt service, which is not included in $1.25 limitation for operating expenses.

The city could possibly count on the restoration of its state gasoline and motor vehicle taxes if the bond issue is approved. Otherwise it will continue to be withheld by the State Roads Commission under a contractural agreement for the Cumberland Thruway.

Other than this the revenue picture is pretty bleak.

In fact, in the past two weeks, the statement was made at City Hall that from $100,000 to $125,000 less could be expected because of non-recurring items and these do not include the state funds.

Since 1938, the city tax rate has risen approximately 43 per cent. In 1954, the rate was $1.36, including debt service, unchanged from the previous fiscal year.

But in the 1955-56 fiscal year the rate jumped 14 cents to $1.50 and the levy set a record of $1,595,630. At the time, city officials explained most of this increase went to provide a 10 per cent wage increase for city employes estimated at between $78,000 and $100,000. It also included $8,000 for Social Security payments.

In 1956-57 the rate jumped another eight cents to $1.58 for each $100 of assessable property and the levy again set a record of $1,654,530.

In the 1957-58 fiscal year, the rate dipped one cent to $1.57. The cost of operation continued to rise and the decrease was caused by a reduction in the need for debt service funds.

The budget also set a record of $2,005,860 and passed the $2,000,000 mark because it included the financing of the sewage treatment plant.

During the last year the tax base was $75,000,000. In the four years that's an increase of $1,600,000.

These figures reflect in part the increased cost of operation of government, increased cost of equipment and materials and expenditures brought about by what city officials describe as "expediency" in getting certain major projects under way. Two cited include the thruway for which the city had to supply funds five or six years before it was expected in order that the state could get federal matching funds; and another was the sewage treatment plant built under an ultimatum from the State Health Department.

These and a few other projects, city sources have claimed, would have cost Cumberland much more if delayed.

There is no hint that costs locally or nationwide will drop in the near future, so where does that leave the incoming council?

Councils in the past have not been inclined to urge new sources of revenue principally because it involved taxes on items used by the average citizens. Among those considered in the past have been cigarets, hotel rooms and the like, but none hardly ever got past the talking stage.

So if the additional sources of revenue are ruled out, it leaves the council no alternative but to reduce services.

It can not reduce its work force because all, except a few on temporary duty, are classified. It cannot cut its payrolls.

In fact, most of the city employes are asking for pay increases but so far have received no assurance of getting one. They have had no boost in pay since the 10 per cent granted in 1955.

Those who claim that the number of city employes has risen out of proportion with the added responsibilities are referred to these official city figures on three city agencies.

When the present administration took office in 1954 there were 67 Street Department employes; 49 police and 53 firemen. That totals 169.

Today, there are 61 firemen; 77 in the Street Department and 72 in the Police Department. But the police figure includes 11 crossing guards on parttime duty and one policewoman. The full-time police figure then is 61.

Including the policewomen, the total today is 210, an increase of 41 in four years.

In addition, 13 new employes were added as a result of the completion of the sewage treatment plant which will be self-supporting.

Including the 10 per cent increase granted in 1955-56, the payroll in the past four years has risen only $106,563.

Despite all this, the credit rating of the city is good. It remains within the six per cent of the assessable basis which is generally accepted by investment firms.

Critics have leveled charges of waste and unbusinesslike administration.

Members of the governing body have replied the city is experiencing "growing pains" of progress and that costs involved are not Cumberland's alone but reflect a national trend.

The incoming council can take it from there.

Serviceman, Family Arrive In Turkey

Captain and Mrs. Leroy Grayson, former residents of Cumberland, and their four sons, Larry, Tommy, Scotty and Mickey have arrived at Izmir, Turkey, where Captain Grayson will serve as commander of the weather service with NATO headquarters there.

They flew from McGuire AF Base near New York to Goose Bay, Labrador and thence to Germany. After a week's stopover they then flew to Italy, Greece and finally to Turkey. Captain Grayson had been stationed at Vance AF Base, Enid, Okla., from May, 1955 to May of this year.

Dwelling Permit Issued By County

A permit to build a dwelling on Henry Street in Dressman's Addition of LaVale was granted yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing Department to Charles F. Dicks.

The home will be 24 by 60 feet and be of brick and frame. The foundation will be of concrete blocks and roof of composition shingles. Cost is estimated at $15,000.

The Statue of Liberty was unveiled on Bedloe's island, New York, October 28, 1886, in the presence of one million persons.

Community Council Elects Officers

Officers have been elected by the Cumberland Community Council in balloting conducted at the Women's Civic Club House on Washington Street.

Mrs. W. Bruce Douglas, representing the Junior Women's Civic Club, was named president; George C. Fey Jr., of the Bedford Road Optimist Club, vice president; and Miss Ellen Newnam, of the National Secretaries Association, Algonquin Chapter, secretary-treasurer.

Robert A. Mathews, Jaycees representative, and retiring president, gave a report on activities of the past year. A scrapbook compiled by Mrs. Douglas and showing the activities of the council was displayed. Plans for the coming year were discussed and a possible expansion of facilities was placed on the agenda.

On July 11 the council meets again at the Women's Civic Club House with newly appointed two-year representatives of member clubs attending.

Meter Receipts Up

Parking meter Inspector Harry Whisner said yesterday receipts the week of June 8 were $820.55 compared to $714.22 the week of June 1, an increase of $106.33.

Award Of DAV Given Resident

William DeSoto, Bowling Green, a member of Braddock Chapter 9, Disabled American Veterans of Frostburg, was named the recipient of the Callegary award at the state convention of the DAV, held over the weekend at Ocean City.

The award, which takes the form of a life membership, was instituted at the convention for the member judged as having done the most outstanding work for Maryland veterans and their families. The award is named for Claude L. Callegary, Baltimore attorney who is state judge advocate for the DAV.

DeSoto was also elected first junior vice commander of the state organization, marking the first time that a member from Western Maryland has been elected to state office. All other offices were filled by residents of the Baltimore area.

Attending the convention as delegates of Fort Washington Chapter, local DAV unit, were Commander Leo McGann and Adjutant Dennis Bobo.

It is estimated that more than seven million American homeowners need more space in their homes.

Attention ALL CITIZENS of CUMBERLAND The Jaycees Report

How Your Candidates Stand on 6 ISSUES Vital to YOU!

On Wednesday, June 11th the Jaycees PERSONALLY DELIVERED TO EACH OF THE 10 CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICE, a letter seeking how they stand on the vital issues shown below. The Jaycees hoped to give you, the voter, more information for your important decision on June 17th—when you vote.

The Jaycees want to sincerely commend the candidates who have honestly and completely answered the questionnaire. We also urge all voters to READ THESE ANSWERS CAREFULLY . . . discuss them with your friends. Then vote for your choice . . . and HOLD THE WINNING CANDIDATES TO THEIR PROMISES.

1. The Revenue Bond

Question: Do you feel that sufficient information has been supplied to the voter on the purpose and scope of the proposed Revenue Bond? ☐ Yes ☐ No. If you answered "No", what important details were omitted? Finally, do you support the bond issue? ☐ Yes ☐ No.

William H. Buchholtz:
I would like to call to your attention that this is not a Revenue Bond. This is a bond for capital improvements which will release gasoline tax revenue to the City of Cumberland so that these funds can be levied for general purposes. It is illegal under the Charter for the Mayor and Council to have any paid ad giving facts and details concerning things of this nature. There has been publicity given this Bond Issue from time to time in the press. If you will recall, there have been several test cases concerning this Bond Issue, both in the Circuit Court and the Maryland Court of Appeals. There was a petition which was publicized as required by the Home Rule Amendment to provide for this question to be placed on the General Election Ballot next Tuesday, which up until this time should have given those interested the opportunity to familiarize themselves with this important question.

Roy W. Eves:
Reference is evidently intended for the $500,000 Cumberland Urban Development bond issue for purpose of meeting the $70,000.00 annual commitment to the State Road Commission for the Crosstown Thruway construction. (This is not a "revenue bond.") I voted for it as Mayor, and now that it is to be decided by a referendum, will vote for it as a citizen. Much publicity has been given to it, but still more is necessary.

Philmore F. Fleming:
I feel that the Mayor and City Council should have held open meetings at which time they could have fully informed the taxpayers the City's financial position, the necessity of the bond issue and specifically how the funds realized were to be used. Since the referendum is scheduled for Tuesday's election, I am not taking any public position on this issue, since the vote of the people will determine whether or not this obligation shall be assumed by the city. (Voted "No" on Sufficient Information.)

William V. Keegan:
It is a general not a revenue bond issue. The bond ordinance was published in the newspapers a number of times, petitions for referendum were filed, and the validity of the bond ordinance and of the referendum petitions were all taken to Court, and the newspapers fully covered these matters. Actually, this bond issue has received more publicity than any that I can recall in recent years. (Voted "Yes" on Sufficient Information; "Yes" on Support Bond Issue).

Lucile Roeder:
First, in regard to the Urban Development Bonds, I would like to say that from time to time the details of the issue and its purposes, as presented in council discussion, have appeared in the local newspapers. Many voters want to have it presented again. I feel that I have been informed as to what the Bond Issue is for. The purpose of the Bond Issue is to restore the gasoline and motor vehicle revenues to the operating fund. During my administration as Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, this revenue was most important in trying to properly maintain our streets and alleys.

2. Traffic Planning and Control

Question: What specific recommendations do you have on relieving Cumberland's traffic and parking problems? Do you favor creating a permanent position for a trained, qualified traffic engineer? ☐ Yes ☐ No.

William H. Buchholtz:
There have been a number of traffic surveys conducted by various agencies, including the State Roads Commission, and a number of recommendations have been placed into effect. Others will follow as time and money permit. The parking problem is being solved very rapidly. In the past several years a number of parking lots have been opened providing off-street parking space which is badly needed, and very recently the site adjoining the railroad which was formerly the Merchants Wholesale Grocery Warehouses, has been set up as a parking lot; the Western Maryland Railway Company is tearing down their freight shed and providing parking space for approximately 100 cars; and more recently Mr. Frank Vandegrift of Kansas City, formerly of Cumberland, disclosed plans for a large off-street parking facility in the area of the Bus Terminal, Southern Hotel and Garden Theatre. I would favor a traffic engineer if funds were available; however, at the moment, with only limited funds for all purposes, I question whether this would be a practical solution.

Roy W. Eves:
I favor a study to be made by competent consultant on traffic, followed by definite action by the Council. (Voted "No" on Traffic Engineer).

Philmore F. Fleming:
I am not in favor of creating a permanent position of a traffic consultant. The overhead bridge should give us a partial solution for the downtown traffic conditions. As this work progresses, the city, together with interested groups of citizens should continue studying this situation to facilitate the movement of traffic in the two main business areas, namely, Baltimore Street and Virginia Avenue and to continue to promote development of increased parking facilities. I do not favor the use of the taxpayers money in the development of parking facilities.

William V. Keegan:
Traffic is a problem in every town and city in the country, and is particularly difficult here because of the railroads and narrow streets. Additional parking facilities have been and are being provided, and the cross town expressway and the industrial boulevard will certainly help the traffic situation. A traffic expert might help but I do not think the City would be justified in spending the money for an expert until at least the above improvements have been completed.

Lucile Roeder:
Cumberland's traffic and parking problems are perennially with us, changing only slightly through the years. Several studies have been made by the State Roads Commission and by a traffic engineer in regards to relieving traffic congestion. If elected to Council, I believe it would be proper to review these projects and institute such measures as the finances of the city would permit.

3. Improving City Facilities

Question: What do you feel are Cumberland's greatest needs for improved facilities (such as streets, parks, schools, sanitation units, etc.)? How do you propose to attack the problem?

William H. Buchholtz:
There are a number of street improvements, sanitary and storm sewer improvements that are badly needed; however, for the moment with the Flood Control problem which is near completion, it would be impractical and economically unwise until this project has been completed to take on any additional indebtedness in order that we may retain the tax rate at its present level. Speaking about schools and sanitation units, the schools are under the supervision of the Allegany County Board of Education, and the Health Department is under the supervision of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, neither being a part of the municipal government operation.

Roy W. Eves:
We need a definite plan for paving and widening streets, and separate storm and sanitary sewer system. First step should be restoring our Engineering Department to its normal force and accomplish improvements step by step as funds are available.

Philmore F. Fleming:
This question is entirely too general to be answered specifically in a questionnaire such as this. As I stated in my announcement, I am in favor of doing everything possible to attract new industry to Cumberland. One of the important factors new industry considers is the local municipal facilities — its parks, schools, etc. Within the limits of the city's budget, I favor the development of all of our facilities to make the City of Cumberland as attractive as possible for new industry and new residents.

William V. Keegan:
Allegany County has charge of the schools, and the City no longer has anything to do with the Health Department. I am, of course, in favor of parks and improved streets to the extent of the City's financial ability to pay for them.

Lucile Roeder:
The city has nothing to do with the schools as this is a county function. The remaining facilities should be handled as the finances of the city permit. There are many things which the city would like to have but there are many things which the city cannot afford at this time without imposing an undue tax burden on the citizens. The city has just about completed its final portion of the flood project, a very costly facility; it has also completed the sewage treatment plant. Both will have to be paid for before any other sizable project should be considered. It must be understood that the city has already pledged itself to the Cumberland Throughway. Above and beyond the State's share, Cumberland will be obligated for more than $500,000.

4. Fluoridation

Background: Nearly 10 years ago, the Dental Society recommended the adoption of a fluoridation program for city water. Approximately 4 years ago, the Council passed a fluoridation bill, the equipment was purchased, built, inspected and approved. What happened to this project?

William H. Buchholtz:
It is true, an ordinance was passed upon the recommendation of the Dental Society. It developed that the opposition was overwhelming, apparently because everyone felt that this was a mass medication program. Therefore I believe that under our democratic way of life this decision should not rest with the Mayor and four Councilmen, but with the citizens themselves, therefore I believe this question should be subject to a referendum.

Roy W. Eves:
The Water Commissioner has authority at any time to establish fluoridation, now that the major improvements are about to be completed. However it was agreed that when we reached this point, there would be arranged an open meeting at which the bitter opponents of fluoridation could present their case, together with representatives of our State Board of Health, and the local Dental and Medical Societies.

Philmore F. Fleming:
I do not know what happened to this project. I know that many groups, representing a great number of our citizens, vigorously opposed this project. I, personally, would have to know a great deal more about this project before I can take any position.

William V. Keegan:
Before fluoridation can be put into effect it was necessary to secure permission from the State Health Departments of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland, and this has taken some time. There is a sharp division of opinion on this question and I favor submitting it to a referendum.

Lucile Roeder:
On the question of fluoridation, I do not know what happened to the project, or whether there are practical, legal or financial obstacles which may prevent its operation. Accordingly, I cannot in fairness be expected to answer now as to what I propose to do. Since fluoridation will affect every person in the community, it might be well for it to go before the voters.

5. Efficiency in Purchasing

Question: Is Cumberland's present method of purchasing by each department of the Council giving us maximum return per dollar spent? ☐ Yes ☐ No. Do you recommend the creation of a centralized purchasing office? ☐ Yes ☐ No. Any additional suggestions?

William H. Buchholtz:
The present method of purchasing is giving us maximum return for our dollar because the Charter provides that all items over $500 must be advertised for bids; and in making a check with our City Auditor, you will find that purchases less than $500 for such things as concrete, gravel, stone, standard types of material used for the Water and Street Departments, etc., do not constitute sufficient amounts in terms of dollars and cents so as to justify creating a new position. However, I believe that if some satisfactory arrangements could be made, using some of the presently employed personnel at City Hall, this plan could be adopted and could result, possibly, in a saving of some money.

Roy W. Eves:
This need not involve any great administrative expense, centralization being the important factor. (Voted "No" on Return Per Dollar; "Yes" on Purchasing Agent).

Philmore F. Fleming:
There is no question that the city must be operated in a most efficient manner in view of the fact that costs are steadily increasing and our tax rate is at a maximum as permitted by the City Charter. The more modern city governments do have centralized purchasing. Purchasing in bulk at one time for all of the city departments should result in substantial economies, and I would favor this, even if it is necessary to amend the City Charter.

William V. Keegan:
All expenditures above $500 must be advertised for bids, and I doubt that a purchasing agent would save enough money on smaller expenditures to justify his salary.

Lucile Roeder:
Central purchasing is unquestionably the most economical manner in which to handle this city function. However, our city charter provides us with a departmentalized government, and it seems apparent that involved in the creation of such an office are charter changes and substantial legal problems. It cannot be brought into being without approval of the voters on referendum.

6. City Managership

Question: What are you views on substituting a City Managership for our present form of administration? What are your major reasons pro or con?

William H. Buchholtz:
I believe that this is again a subject which should not rest with the Mayor and Council, or any individual group or otherwise. I believe it should be subject to a referendum such as it has been in the past. However, this has twice been defeated by referendum, and I am going to offer what I think might be a more practical approach. Perhaps we should petition the City of Cumberland for a referendum and put on the ballot "Council Manager Form of Government," "Strong Mayor Form of Government" and our present "Commission Form of Government," and I think you will then get the answer as to just exactly what our citizens want.

Roy W. Eves:
Twice the City Manager has been defeated at the polls, and once by the vetoing of an Act of the Legislature by the Governor at the unanimous request of the Mayor and City Council. Like marriage the success or failure of the plan depends upon the selection of the groom. The people should again be given an opportunity of deciding.

Philmore F. Fleming:
The question of our form of government is one that cannot be determined by the Mayor and City Council, but is established by the citizens by way of a charter referendum. While I am in favor of responsible leadership in the city, there are several methods, by which, this can be achieved, besides that of City Manager. Since this is a matter for the people to determine, I see no reason for a public position at this time. I am willing to leave this up to the decision of the voters if the question arises in the future.

William V. Keegan:
The city management plan was defeated by the voters a few years ago, and my views as to a city manager would necessarily depend on just what type of city managership is proposed.

Lucile Roeder:
With respect to the city manager plan, or as it is often referred to, the Administrative Plan of City Government, I would like to say that it has been before the voters twice in the last two years. The law of the people is important.

7. Additional Viewpoints

(Discuss any other important stand you will adopt if elected.)

William H. Buchholtz:
Penny for penny, dollar for dollar, I have endeavored to give the taxpayer more than I believe any other administration in history. I have always felt that I represent all of the people, not just a few; and if re-elected, I will continue to give as much of my energies and talent that time will permit, to keep Cumberland on the high level on which it belongs, by continuing to favor progressive moves, so as to make it a better community in which to live. I also wish to congratulate you for your continued efforts towards a more progressive Cumberland, and you may be assured that you have my whole-hearted support and co-operation towards any project that would make Cumberland a better place in which to live.

Roy W. Eves:
Our present form of city Government was adopted 48 years ago. Cumberland has grown bigger and has progressed in many other ways. As an intermediate step toward a City Manager form of government, our present form should be brought up to date, in the interest of democracy and efficiency.

William V. Keegan:
I favor the continuance and when possible an increase in recreational facilities for the children of the City. I also would like to see a baseball park established for the Little Leaguers. Parks, improved streets, and other improved facilities are desirable but these things all cost money and can only be gradually acquired.

Lucile Roeder:
It was possible for me to answer some of your questions, others I believe no one not presently in office has sufficient information on which to base an intelligent answer. I want to again emphasize my great concern with finances. As stated before, many things which may be desirable may not be economically possible for Cumberland. Before I decide any question for the city, I shall want to have an intimate knowledge of its effect on our city's finances. I appreciate the spirit in which your questions are asked, and trust that you will continue to show such interest in the affairs of your city between elections. Public knowledge is the best help toward betterment of your government.

These candidates did not answer the specific questions, but replied in general, as follows:

J. Edwin Keech:
I appreciate very much the questionnaire sent me on the evening of June 11 by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. I feel you as a group should be commended on bringing these very important matters to the citizens of Cumberland. Having never held public office, I am not completely informed on all these vital issues, but I do promise the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Cumberland that, if I am elected, I intend to examine all issues involved, and will then, with the judgment of my council, make decisions to the best interest of our City. These matters require very careful study and I feel sure you as members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Cumberland do not expect action to be taken until the Mayor and City Council have had sufficient time to make a thorough study and act accordingly.

G. Ray Light:
Since I have not made a complete study of all the important issues asked in your questionnaire, I feel I should be allowed time to get myself acquainted with all the facts before making any decision concerning them. However, I have this promise to make to you and all the people of Cumberland, should I be elected to the office of City Council I will familiarize myself with not only the issues you brought out but all the problems facing the city so that I will be able to act in the best interest for all of our citizens on all matters concerning our city government.

John J. Long:
Thank you for your letter of June 11th. I regret that the Jaycees did not present this list of issues to me in time for me to give them the study and thought required for an honest answer by noon, Saturday, June 14, 1958. However, I want you and all Jaycees to know that since I have been in public office, I have often heard people complain about conditions in the community. Those people have a vote and in a democracy all of us can exercise a degree of influence. "It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness." I want you, the Jaycees and the people of Cumberland to know, and especially the ones who have confidence in me and vote for me, that I will never relinquish the privilege of voting on issues according to the dictates of my own conscience enlightened by all the facts available on a particular issue. With the realization of the inflationary trend of the post-war years, and the ever increasing costs of government, I have watched carefully the expenditures of the City of Cumberland and voiced my objection in all instances where I deemed an expenditure unwarranted. Added to the problem of maintaining existing municipal services with limited revenues, there is the problem of providing funds for additional facilities and capital improvements, if we are to remain in the ranks of a first class city. These matters will require mature thought and experience if we are to keep in proper balance the cost of new facilities with the funds available for that purpose, without impairing the city's credit or making unwarranted increases in the tax burden. My decisions and policies have always been influenced by the fact that I am a taxpayer myself — a taxpayer responsible for spending the hard earned money of other taxpayers. I have a deep and abiding faith in Cumberland and its future. It is the place of my birth, it is my home and therefore, worthy of my very best efforts as a citizen, taxpayer, parent and as an elected official.

City Budget Major Problem Of Incoming Mayor, Council

Within a few weeks the incoming Mayor and Council to be elected today faces its first major problem—the budget.

Indications are it will be no bed of roses. There's a rough road ahead, payments of progress to be met with a minimum of revenue and no big sources of additional revenue in sight.

The city tax rate, currently at $1.57, could possibly be changed if the $500,000 Urban Development Bond issue on tomorrow's ballot is approved. Otherwise, it will be the same.

But there will be no new funds for operating expenses. This part of the tax rate is within two mills of the limitation set by law. The city can use $1.25 of the rate for operating expenses and general purposes and no more. It currently is using $1.2498 and a proposal to increase that by 10 cents was defeated resoundingly—3,872 to 452—in August last year. That means the only way the tax rate can be raised is for debt service, which is not included in $1.25 limitation for operating expenses.

The city could possibly count on the restoration of its state gasoline and motor vehicle taxes if the bond issue is approved. Otherwise it will continue to be withheld by the State Roads Commission under a contractural agreement for the Cumberland Thruway.

Other than this the revenue picture is pretty bleak.

In fact, in the past two weeks, the statement was made at City Hall that from $100,000 to $125,000 less could be expected because of non-recurring items and these do not include the state funds.

Since 1938, the city tax rate has risen approximately 43 per cent. In 1954, the rate was $1.36, including debt service, unchanged from the previous fiscal year.

But in the 1955-56 fiscal year the rate jumped 14 cents to $1.50 and the levy set a record of $1,595,630. At the time, city officials explained most of this increase went to provide a 10 per cent wage increase for city employes estimated at between $78,000 and $100,000. It also included $8,000 for Social Security payments.

In 1956-57 the rate jumped another eight cents to $1.58 for each $100 of assessable property and the levy again set a record of $1,654,530.

In the 1957-58 fiscal year, the rate dipped one cent to $1.57. The cost of operation continued to rise and the decrease was caused by a reduction in the need for debt service funds.

The budget also set a record of $2,005,860 and passed the $2,000,000 mark because it included the financing of the sewage treatment plant.

During the last year the tax base was $75,000,000. In the four years that's an increase of $1,600,000.

These figures reflect in part the increased cost of operation of government, increased cost of equipment and materials and expenditures brought about by what city officials describe as "expediency" in getting certain major projects under way. Two cited include the thruway for which the city had to supply funds five or six years before it was expected in order that the state could get federal matching funds; and another was the sewage treatment plant built under an ultimatum from the State Health Department.

These and a few other projects, city sources have claimed, would have cost Cumberland much more if delayed.

There is no hint that costs locally or nationwide will drop in the near future, so where does that leave the incoming council?

Councils in the past have not been inclined to urge new sources of revenue principally because it involved taxes on items used by the average citizens. Among those considered in the past have been cigarets, hotel rooms and the like, but none hardly ever got past the talking stage.

So if the additional sources of revenue are ruled out, it leaves the council no alternative but to reduce services.

It can not reduce its work force because all, except a few on temporary duty, are classified. It cannot cut its payrolls.

In fact, most of the city employes are asking for pay increases but so far have received no assurance of getting one. They have had no boost in pay since the 10 per cent granted in 1955.

Those who claim that the number of city employes has risen out of proportion with the added responsibilities are referred to these official city figures on three city agencies.

When the present administration took office in 1954 there were 67 Street Department employes; 49 police and 53 firemen. That totals 169.

Today, there are 61 firemen; 77 in the Street Department and 72 in the Police Department. But the police figure includes 11 crossing guards on parttime duty and one policewoman. The full-time police figure then is 61.

Including the policewomen, the total today is 210, an increase of 41 in four years.

In addition, 13 new employes were added as a result of the completion of the sewage treatment plant which will be self-supporting.

Including the 10 per cent increase granted in 1955-56, the payroll in the past four years has risen only $106,563.

Despite all this, the credit rating of the city is good. It remains within the six per cent of the assessable basis which is generally accepted by investment firms.

Critics have leveled charges of waste and unbusinesslike administration.

Members of the governing body have replied the city is experiencing "growing pains" of progress and that costs involved are not Cumberland's alone but reflect a national trend.

The incoming council can take it from there.

Serviceman, Family Arrive In Turkey

Captain and Mrs. Leroy Grayson, former residents of Cumberland, and their four sons, Larry, Tommy, Scotty and Mickey have arrived at Izmir, Turkey, where Captain Grayson will serve as commander of the weather service with NATO headquarters there.

They flew from McGuire AF Base near New York to Goose Bay, Labrador and thence to Germany. After a week's stopover they then flew to Italy, Greece and finally to Turkey. Captain Grayson had been stationed at Vance AF Base, Enid, Okla., from May, 1955 to May of this year.

Dwelling Permit Issued By County

A permit to build a dwelling on Henry Street in Dressman's Addition of LaVale was granted yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing Department to Charles F. Dicks.

The home will be 24 by 60 feet and be of brick and frame. The foundation will be of concrete blocks and roof of composition shingles. Cost is estimated at $15,000.

The Statue of Liberty was unveiled on Bedloe's island, New York, October 28, 1886, in the presence of one million persons.

Community Council Elects Officers

Mrs. W. Bruce Douglas, representing the Junior Women's Civic Club, was named president; George C. Fey Jr., of the Bedford Road Optimist Club, vice president; and Miss Ellen Newnam, of the National Secretaries Association, Algonquin Chapter, secretary-treasurer.

Robert A. Mathews, Jaycees representative, and retiring president, gave a report on activities of the past year. A scrapbook compiled by Mrs. Douglas and showing the activities of the council was displayed. Plans for the coming year were discussed and a possible expansion of facilities was placed on the agenda.

On July 11 the council meets again at the Women's Civic Club House with newly appointed two-year representatives of member clubs attending.

Meter Receipts Up

Parking meter Inspector Harry Whisner said yesterday receipts the week of June 8 were $820.55 compared to $714.22 the week of June 1, an increase of $106.33.

Award Of DAV Given Resident

William DeSoto, Bowling Green, a member of Braddock Chapter 9, Disabled American Veterans of Frostburg, was named the recipient of the Callegary award at the state convention of the DAV, held over the weekend at Ocean City.

The award, which takes the form of a life membership, was instituted at the convention for the member judged as having done the most outstanding work for Maryland veterans and their families. The award is named for Claude L. Callegary, Baltimore attorney who is state judge advocate for the DAV.

DeSoto was also elected first junior vice commander of the state organization, marking the first time that a member from Western Maryland has been elected to state office. All other offices were filled by residents of the Baltimore area.

Attending the convention as delegates of Fort Washington Chapter, local DAV unit, were Commander Leo McGann and Adjutant Dennis Bobo.

It is estimated that more than seven million American homeowners need more space in their homes.

How Your Candidates Stand on 6 ISSUES Vital to YOU!

On Wednesday, June 11th the Jaycees PERSONALLY DELIVERED TO EACH OF THE 10 CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICE, a letter seeking how they stand on the vital issues shown below. The Jaycees hoped to give you, the voter, more information for your important decision on June 17th—when you vote.

The Jaycees want to sincerely commend the candidates who have honestly and completely answered the questionnaire. We also urge all voters to READ THESE ANSWERS CAREFULLY . . . discuss them with your friends. Then vote for your choice. . . . and HOLD THE WINNING CANDIDATES TO THEIR PROMISES.

1. The Revenue Bond

Question: Do you feel that sufficient information has been supplied to the voter on the purpose and scope of the proposed Revenue Bond? ☐ Yes ☐ No. If you answered "No", what important details were omitted? Finally, do you support the bond issue? ☐ Yes ☐ No.

William H. Buchholtz:

I would like to call to your attention that this is not a Revenue Bond. This is a bond for capital improvements which will release gasoline tax revenue to the City of Cumberland so that these funds can be levied for general purposes. It is illegal under the Charter for the Mayor and Council to have any paid ad giving facts and details concerning things of this nature. There has been publicity given this Bond Issue from time to time in the press. If you will recall, there have been several test cases concerning this Bond Issue, both in the Circuit Court and the Maryland Court of Appeals. There was a petition which was publicized as required by the Home Rule Amendment to provide for this question to be placed on the General Election Ballot next Tuesday, which up until this time should have given those interested the opportunity to familiarize themselves with this important question.

Roy W. Eves:

Reference is evidently intended for the $500,000 Cumberland Urban Development bond issue for purpose of meeting the $70,000.00 annual commitment to the State Road Commission for the Crosstown Thruway construction. (This is not a "revenue bond.") I voted for it as Mayor, and now that it is to be decided by a referendum, will vote for it as a citizen. Much publicity has been given to it, but still more is necessary.

Philmore F. Fleming:

I feel that the Mayor and City Council should have held open meetings at which time they could have fully informed the taxpayers the City's financial position, the necessity of the bond issue and specifically how the funds realized were to be used. Since the referendum is scheduled for Tuesday's election, I am not taking any public position on this issue, since the vote of the people will determine whether or not this obligation shall be assumed by the city. (Voted "No" on Sufficient Information.)

William V. Keegan:

It is a general not a revenue bond issue. The bond ordinance was published in the newspapers a number of times, petitions for referendum were filed, and the validity of the bond ordinance and of the referendum petitions were all taken to Court, and the newspapers fully covered these matters. Actually, this bond issue has received more publicity than any that I can recall in recent years. (Voted "Yes" on Sufficient Information; "Yes" on Support Bond Issue).

Lucile Roeder:

First, in regard to the Urban Development Bonds, I would like to say that from time to time the details of the issue and its purposes, as presented in council discussion, have appeared in the local newspapers. Many voters want to have it presented again. I feel that I have been informed as to what the Bond Issue is for. The purpose of the Bond Issue is to restore the gasoline and motor vehicle revenues to the operating fund. During my administration as Commissioner of Streets and Public Property, this revenue was most important in trying to properly maintain our streets and alleys.

2. Traffic Planning and Control

Question: What specific recommendations do you have on relieving Cumberland's traffic and parking problems? Do you favor creating a permanent position for a trained, qualified traffic engineer? ☐ Yes ☐ No.

William H. Buchholtz:

There have been a number of traffic surveys conducted by various agencies, including the State Roads Commission, and a number of recommendations have been placed into effect. Others will follow as time and money permit. The parking problem is being solved very rapidly. In the past several years a number of parking lots have been opened providing off-street parking space which is badly needed, and very recently the site adjoining the railroad which was formerly the Merchants Wholesale Grocery Warehouses, has been set up as a parking lot; the Western Maryland Railway Company is tearing down their freight shed and providing parking space for approximately 100 cars; and more recently Mr. Frank Vandegrift of Kansas City, formerly of Cumberland, disclosed plans for a large off-street parking facility in the area of the Bus Terminal, Southern Hotel and Garden Theatre. I would favor a traffic engineer if funds were available; however, at the moment, with only limited funds for all purposes, I question whether this would be a practical solution.

Roy W. Eves:

I favor a study to be made by competent consultant on traffic, followed by definite action by the Council. (Voted "No" on Traffic Engineer).

Philmore F. Fleming:

I am not in favor of creating a permanent position of a traffic consultant. The overhead bridge should give us a partial solution for the downtown traffic conditions. As this work progresses, the city, together with interested groups of citizens should continue studying this situation to facilitate the movement of traffic in the two main business areas, namely, Baltimore Street and Virginia Avenue and to continue to promote development of increased parking facilities. I do not favor the use of the taxpayers money in the development of parking facilities.

William V. Keegan:

Traffic is a problem in every town and city in the country, and is particularly difficult here because of the railroads and narrow streets. Additional parking facilities have been and are being provided, and the cross town expressway and the industrial boulevard will certainly help the traffic situation. A traffic expert might help but I do not think the City would be justified in spending the money for an expert until at least the above improvements have been completed.

Lucile Roeder:

Cumberland's traffic and parking problems are perennially with us, changing only slightly through the years. Several studies have been made by the State Roads Commission and by a traffic engineer in regards to relieving traffic congestion. If elected to Council, I believe it would be proper to review these projects and institute such measures as the finances of the city would permit.

3. Improving City Facilities

Question: What do you feel are Cumberland's greatest needs for improved facilities (such as streets, parks, schools, sanitation units, etc.)? How do you propose to attack the problem?

William H. Buchholtz:

There are a number of street improvements, sanitary and storm sewer improvements that are badly needed; however, for the moment with the Flood Control problem which is near completion, it would be impractical and economically unwise until this project has been completed to take on any additional indebtedness in order that we may retain the tax rate at its present level. Speaking about schools and sanitation units, the schools are under the supervision of the Allegany County Board of Education, and the Health Department is under the supervision of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, neither being a part of the municipal government operation.

Roy W. Eves:

We need a definite plan for paving and widening streets, and separate storm and sanitary sewer system. First step should be restoring our Engineering Department to its normal force and accomplish improvements step by step as funds are available.

Philmore F. Fleming:

This question is entirely too general to be answered specifically in a questionnaire such as this. As I stated in my announcement, I am in favor of doing everything possible to attract new industry to Cumberland. One of the important factors new industry considers is the local municipal facilities — its parks, schools, etc. Within the limits of the city's budget, I favor the development of all of our facilities to make the City of Cumberland as attractive as possible for new industry and new residents.

William V. Keegan:

Allegany County has charge of the schools, and the City no longer has anything to do with the Health Department. I am, of course, in favor of parks and improved streets to the extent of the City's financial ability to pay for them.

Lucile Roeder:

The city has nothing to do with the schools as this is a county function. The remaining facilities should be handled as the finances of the city permit. There are many things which the city would like to have but there are many things which the city cannot afford at this time without imposing an undue tax burden on the citizens. The city has just about completed its final portion of the flood project, a very costly facility; it has also completed the sewage treatment plant. Both will have to be paid for before any other sizable project should be considered. It must be understood that the city has already pledged itself to the Cumberland Throughway. Above and beyond the State's share, Cumberland will be obligated for more than $500,000.

4. Fluoridation

Background: Nearly 10 years ago, the Dental Society recommended the adoption of a fluoridation program for city water. Approximately 4 years ago, the Council passed a fluoridation bill, the equipment was purchased, built, inspected and approved. What happened to this project?

William H. Buchholtz:

It is true, an ordinance was passed upon the recommendation of the Dental Society. It developed that the opposition was overwhelming, apparently because everyone felt that this was a mass medication program. Therefore I believe that under our democratic way of life this decision should not rest with the Mayor and four Councilmen, but with the citizens themselves, therefore I believe this question should be subject to a referendum.

Roy W. Eves:

The Water Commissioner has authority at any time to establish fluoridation, now that the major improvements are about to be completed. However it was agreed that when we reached this point, there would be arranged an open meeting at which the bitter opponents of fluoridation could present their case, together with representatives of our State Board of Health, and the local Dental and Medical Societies.

Philmore F. Fleming:

I do not know what happened to this project. I know that many groups, representing a great number of our citizens, vigorously opposed this project. I, personally, would have to know a great deal more about this project before I can take any position.

William V. Keegan:

Before fluoridation can be put into effect it was necessary to secure permission from the State Health Departments of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland, and this has taken some time. There is a sharp division of opinion on this question and I favor submitting it to a referendum.

Lucile Roeder:

On the question of fluoridation, I do not know what happened to the project, or whether there are practical, legal or financial obstacles which may prevent its operation. Accordingly, I cannot in fairness be expected to answer now as to what I propose to do. Since fluoridation will affect every person in the community, it might be well for it to go before the voters.

5. Efficiency in Purchasing

Question: Is Cumberland's present method of purchasing by each department of the Council giving us maximum return per dollar spent? ☐ Yes ☐ No. Do you recommend the creation of a centralized purchasing office? ☐ Yes ☐ No. Any additional suggestions?

William H. Buchholtz:

The present method of purchasing is giving us maximum return for our dollar because the Charter provides that all items over $500 must be advertised for bids; and in making a check with our City Auditor, you will find that purchases less than $500 for such things as concrete, gravel, stone, standard types of material used for the Water and Street Departments, etc., do not constitute sufficient amounts in terms of dollars and cents so as to justify creating a new position. However, I believe that if some satisfactory arrangements could be made, using some of the presently employed personnel at City Hall, this plan could be adopted and could result, possibly, in a saving of some money.

Roy W. Eves:

This need not involve any great administrative expense, centralization being the important factor. (Voted "No" on Return Per Dollar; "Yes" on Purchasing Agent).

Philmore F. Fleming:

There is no question that the city must be operated in a most efficient manner in view of the fact that costs are steadily increasing and our tax rate is at a maximum as permitted by the City Charter. The more modern city governments do have centralized purchasing. Purchasing in bulk at one time for all of the city departments should result in substantial economies, and I would favor this, even if it is necessary to amend the City Charter.

William V. Keegan:

All expenditures above $500 must be advertised for bids, and I doubt that a purchasing agent would save enough money on smaller expenditures to justify his salary.

Lucile Roeder:

Central purchasing is unquestionably the most economical manner in which to handle this city function. However, our city charter provides us with a departmentalized government, and it seems apparent that involved in the creation of such an office are charter changes and substantial legal problems. It cannot be brought into being without approval of the voters on referendum.

6. City Managership

Question: What are you views on substituting a City Managership for our present form of administration? What are your major reasons pro or con?

William H. Buchholtz:

I believe that this is again a subject which should not rest with the Mayor and Council, or any individual group or otherwise. I believe it should be subject to a referendum such as it has been in the past. However, this has twice been defeated by referendum, and I am going to offer what I think might be a more practical approach. Perhaps we should petition the City of Cumberland for a referendum and put on the ballot "Council Manager Form of Government," "Strong Mayor Form of Government" and our present "Commission Form of Government," and I think you will then get the answer as to just exactly what our citizens want.

Roy W. Eves:

Twice the City Manager has been defeated at the polls, and once by the vetoing of an Act of the Legislature by the Governor at the unanimous request of the Mayor and City Council. Like marriage the success or failure of the plan depends upon the selection of the groom. The people should again be given an opportunity of deciding.

Philmore F. Fleming:

The question of our form of government is one that cannot be determined by the Mayor and City Council, but is established by the citizens by way of a charter referendum. While I am in favor of responsible leadership in the city, there are several methods, by which, this can be achieved, besides that of City Manager. Since this is a matter for the people to determine, I see no reason for a public position at this time. I am willing to leave this up to the decision of the voters if the question arises in the future.

William V. Keegan:

The city management plan was defeated by the voters a few years ago, and my views as to a city manager would necessarily depend on just what type of city managership is proposed.

Lucile Roeder:

With respect to the city manager plan, or as it is often referred to, the Administrative Plan of City Government, I would like to say that it has been before the voters twice in the last two years. The law of the people is important.

7. Additional Viewpoints

(Discuss any other important stand you will adopt if elected.)

William H. Buchholtz:

Penny for penny, dollar for dollar, I have endeavored to give the taxpayer more than I believe any other administration in history. I have always felt that I represent all of the people, not just a few; and if re-elected, I will continue to give as much of my energies and talent that time will permit, to keep Cumberland on the high level on which it belongs, by continuing to favor progressive moves, so as to make it a better community in which to live. I also wish to congratulate you for your continued efforts towards a more progressive Cumberland, and you may be assured that you have my whole-hearted support and co-operation towards any project that would make Cumberland a better place in which to live.

Roy W. Eves:

Our present form of city Government was adopted 48 years ago. Cumberland has grown bigger and has progressed in many other ways. As an intermediate step toward a City Manager form of government, our present form should be brought up to date, in the interest of democracy and efficiency.

William V. Keegan:

I favor the continuance and when possible an increase in recreational facilities for the children of the City. I also would like to see a baseball park established for the Little Leaguers. Parks, improved streets, and other improved facilities are desirable but these things all cost money and can only be gradually acquired.

Lucile Roeder:

It was possible for me to answer some of your questions, others I believe no one not presently in office has sufficient information on which to base an intelligent answer. I want to again emphasize my great concern with finances. As stated before, many things which may be desirable may not be economically possible for Cumberland. Before I decide any question for the city, I shall want to have an intimate knowledge of its effect on our city's finances. I appreciate the spirit in which your questions are asked, and trust that you will continue to show such interest in the affairs of your city between elections. Public knowledge is the best help toward betterment of your government.

These candidates did not answer the specific questions, but replied in general, as follows:

J. Edwin Keech:

I appreciate very much the questionnaire sent me on the evening of June 11 by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. I feel you as a group should be commended on bringing these very important matters to the citizens of Cumberland. Having never held public office, I am not completely informed on all these vital issues, but I do promise the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Cumberland that, if I am elected, I intend to examine all issues involved, and will then, with the judgment of my council, make decisions to the best interest of our City. These matters require very careful study and I feel sure you as members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Cumberland do not expect action to be taken until the Mayor and City Council have had sufficient time to make a thorough study and act accordingly.

G. Ray Light:

Since I have not made a complete study of all the important issues asked in your questionnaire, I feel I should be allowed time to get myself acquainted with all the facts before making any decision concerning them. However, I have this promise to make to you and all the people of Cumberland, should I be elected to the office of City Council I will familiarize myself with not only the issues you brought out but all the problems facing the city so that I will be able to act in the best interest for all of our citizens on all matters concerning our city government.

John J. Long:

Thank you for your letter of June 11th. I regret that the Jaycees did not present this list of issues to me in time for me to give them the study and thought required for an honest answer by noon, Saturday, June 14, 1958. However, I want you and all Jaycees to know that since I have been in public office, I have often heard people complain about conditions in the community. Those people have a vote and in a democracy all of us can exercise a degree of influence. "It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness." I want you, the Jaycees and the people of Cumberland to know, and especially the ones who have confidence in me and vote for me, that I will never relinquish the privilege of voting on issues according to the dictates of my own conscience enlightened by all the facts available on a particular issue. With the realization of the inflationary trend of the post-war years, and the ever increasing costs of government, I have watched carefully the expenditures of the City of Cumberland and voiced my objection in all instances where I deemed an expenditure unwarranted. Added to the problem of maintaining existing municipal services with limited revenues, there is the problem of providing funds for additional facilities and capital improvements, if we are to remain in the ranks of a first class city. These matters will require mature thought and experience if we are to keep in proper balance the cost of new facilities with the funds available for that purpose, without impairing the city's credit or making unwarranted increases in the tax burden. My decisions and policies have always been influenced by the fact that I am a taxpayer myself — a taxpayer responsible for spending the hard earned money of other taxpayers. I have a deep and abiding faith in Cumberland and its future. It is the place of my birth, it is my home and therefore, worthy of my very best efforts as a citizen, taxpayer, parent and as an elected official.

No reply to the questionnaire was received from the following candidates:

Five Candidates File Reports

Five more candidates in the May 20 primary election filed expense reports over the week-end with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

These reports bring to 62 the number who have filed expense reports. Fifty five of them actually appeared on the primary ballots. The other seven were unopposed in the primary election.

Of the five latest to report, Jonathan Sleeman of Frostburg, an unsuccessful Republican candidate for the House of Delegates, had the highest expenditures. He reported spending $135, including his $25 filing fee, printing and advertising.

Three other reporting candidates all made fruitless bids for election to the seven-member Republican State Central Committee. They included William Bantz, this city, who said he spent a total of $19.50, including $9.50 for cards; Jerry G. Clise, RFD 1, Frostburg, and J. Irvin Martin, Barton, both of whom said they spent only the $10 filing fee in their campaigns.

William P. Kelly, Lonaconing, who won re-election to the Democratic State Central Committee, reported spending $17.50, including $7.50 for stamps, envelopes and stationery.

These five reports leave only eight of the 63 primary election candidates unaccounted. The four Republicans include one who ran for the House of Delegates, two who ran for county commissioners and one who ran for the GOP State Central Committe. All were defeated. The four unreported Democrats include three who ran for county commissioners, one of whom got a nomination; and one who was elected to the Democratic State Central Committee.

Honored At Shower

Mrs. James Osbourne was honored by some of her fellow employes of Rosenbaum Brothers' Store at a stork shower, held at the home of her mother, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Cresap Park. A pink, blue and white color scheme was carried out with a miniature cradle centering the table and streamers to each corner. Miniature storks were favors.

Attending were Thora Tewell, Betty Jackson, Virginia McKenzie, Nancy Knipple, Jeanette Hicks, Marjorie Hardinger, Lois Sheavly, Pauline Huff, Irma Lee, Lois Lee, Edna Cessna, Billie Hounshell, Mrs. Catherine Hounshell, Cynthia Hounshell and Mrs. Edgar Hounshell.

Equity Suits Filed

Three equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Jacqueline M. Lapp vs. Robert E. Lapp, Mary Jane Poland vs. Guy A. Poland and Bessie H. DeVault, by her mother and next friend, Edna Sciese, vs. Robert H. DeVault.

Board Will Hear Two Applications

Two applications are scheduled for consideration when the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners meets today at the Court House.

Martin Schwartz, Jean W. Schwartz and Leonard Cody have applied for a beer, wine and liquor licenses for premises at 419 Henderson Avenue which they hope to operate as M&J Liquor Store. J. J. Grabenstein, Mary E. Carolan and Francis H. Schriver, who now hold the Henderson Avenue license for their Cumberland Liquor Store, apparently wish to have the license transferred.

Madeline Dirks, Oldtown Road, has applied for a Class D beer license in premises at 107 North Centre Street, where a previous applicant was denied a license.

Clinic Is Planned

The Health Department will hold a child health clinic today at 9:30 a. m. in Pennsylvania Avenue School.

Fletcher Begins Court House Hearings

Commissioner Paul M. Fletcher of the State Workman's Compensation Commission yesterday heard some 12 cases in the Allegany County Court House as he began four days of hearings here.

Mr. Fletcher will sit here through Thursday. Next Monday he will be in Garrett County and on Tuesday will return to Cumberland for an all-day hearing on a single case.

The former state's attorney of Allegany County conducts hearings in Oakland, Cumberland and Hagerstown as well as in Baltimore, where he spends about two-thirds of his time. He has been a commissioner since March 1.

Visits Health Unit

Dr. Alice L. Tobler, a member of the staff of the State Health Department's Division of Medical Care Services, arrived here yesterday for a three-day visit with the Allegany County Health Department.

Fundamentalists To Meet Thursday

The Laymen's Christian Fundamentalist Association will hold a seminar in Systematic Theology Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Malta Hall, 67 Prospect Square.

Dr. R. W. Trevaskis Sr., secretary, will give a review of "Existentialism and Christianity," the subject of the address of Dr. Cornelius Van Til, at the last meeting.

W. Carl Richards, moderator, will lead the discussion of "The Third Ecumenical Council of Constantinople," the present subject of discussion.

Optimists To Work On Ball Diamond

Instead of the weekly dinner meeting today, the members of the Optimist Club of Bedford Road plan to work on the ball field on Mason Road.

On Friday, June 27, the joint installation dinner dance will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Gov. Underwood Issues Formal Call For Special Session Of W.Va. Legislature On Jobless Pay

CHARLESTON (AP) — The special session of the Legislature convening June 23 will be limited to consideration of two items pertaining to unemployment compensation, plus routine appropriations to pay expenses of the session.

The subject matter was set forth in Gov. Underwood's formal proclamation Monday. Only the items to be considered had remained in doubt, as he had announced earlier that the proclamation would call for the extraordinary session to convene at 2 p.m. EST, June 23.

Under the state constitution, an extraordinary session convened by the governor cannot consider legislation other than that specified in his call.

No. 1 item in the call and main purpose of the special session is legislation to enable the state to take advantage of the Temporary Unemployment Compensation Act passed by Congress and signed by President Eisenhower earlier this month.

The act provides federal financing for additional unemployment compensation for jobless persons who have exhausted their eligibility for benefits under state law.

In West Virginia, 24 weeks is the maximum period for drawing benefits under state law. The federal act provides for temporily extending the state's maximum periods by half, wiich would mean an additional 12 weeks of benefits in West Virginia.

The first item in Underwood's proclamation is legislation to authorize the Department of Employment Security to enter into the necessary agreement with the U. S. Secretary of Labor to enable the state to participate in the emergency program.

The second of the three items in Underwood's call also is on the subject of unemployment compensation, although not related to the new federal act.

Under present state law, the maximum contribution rate of 2.7 per cent goes into effect for all employers supporting the unemployment benefit program whenever the balance in the unemployment compensation fund at the end of any quarter is below 50 million dollars.

Employment Security Director Henry L. Ash has forecast that the fund will dip below 50 million late this month or early in July. Many employers already pay the maximum rate, but many others enjoy "zero ratings," meaning they are paying nothing.

A spokesman for Ash's department explained that the No. 2 item in the governor's call would enable the Legislature to consider a graduated scale of increases instead of the present abrupt jump to the maximum rate when the fund dips below 50 million.

The law already provides graduated decreases at the other end of the scale. The decreases apply when the fund balance is between 80 million and 115 million.

Item No. 3 simply empowers the Legislature "to make the necessary appropriations of public funds to pay the expenses of the extraordinary session."

The call omitted legislation to increase the amount of weekly unemployment benefits. The minimum currently is $10 per week and the maximum is $30.

Last week the executive board of the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, asked the governor to permit the Legislature "to consider increasing the present inadequate weekly benefit rate in an amount sufficient to allow unemployed workers to house, clothe and feed their families during periods of temporary or prolonged unemployment."

Ordinarily, new sessions of the Legislature begin at noon. The 2 p.m. convening hour next Monday will allow the House Democratic majority time to caucus that morning to choose its nominee for speaker.

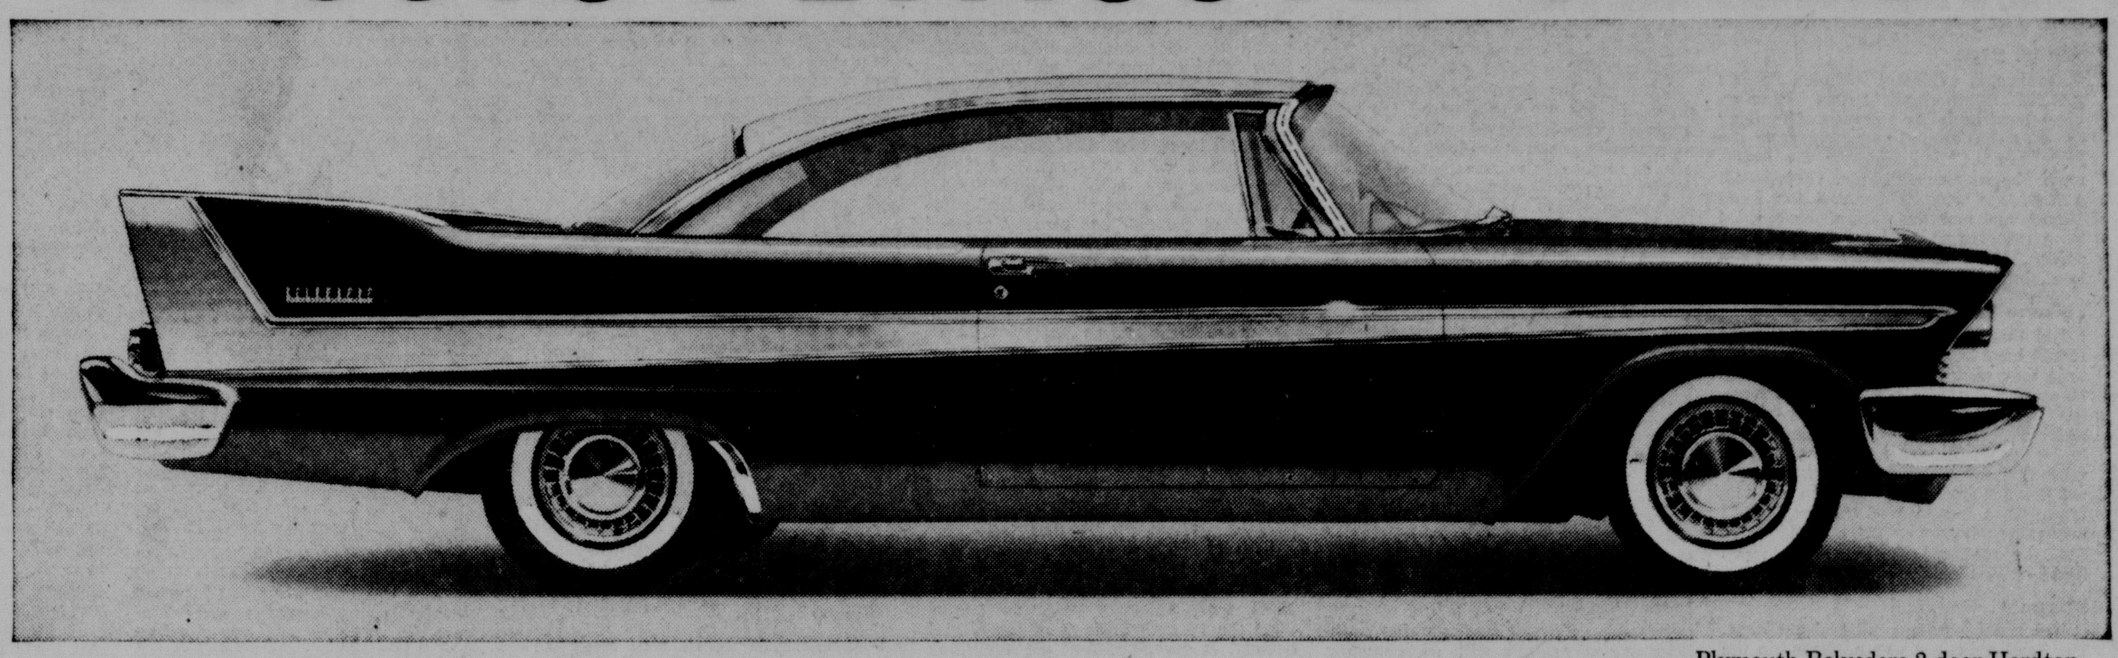

Five - term speaker W. E. Flannery has died since adjournment of the regular session.

It is understood the Democrats will meet at 9 a.m. next Monday, with five candidates for the speakership among House Democrats.

We Don't Need Rusk's Muzzle

Public opinion on foreign policy, registered through legislative discussions, should be muzzled. That, in effect, is what is urged by Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and former Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Of course he doesn't put the proposition that bluntly. He seeks to "weigh" it by attaching convenient self-serving adjectives.

He asserts that American power and influence have thrust upon Americans very grave responsibilities "which we shirk at our peril." Some are long term, requiring persistence and patience. Then he says, "Tumultuous annual debates which treaten each year the foundations of policy deprive us and our friends of the confidence and consistency which the situation demands."

By adding the word "tumultuous" he colors the issue to his own purpose. If he had used the words "calm and reasonable" of course there would be no point to his contention. Yet "calm and reasonable" debates can be expected in this area as well as in any other issues.

Apparently Rusk overlooks the fact that genuine and stalwart free democracy requires free and open debate; it shrivels and dies under any muzzling process. It is muzzling that Rusk actually proposes.

Admittedly the authoritarian climate is ideal for diplomatic interchanges. It is true that any kind of debate, whether "tumultuous" or "calm and reasonable," cramps the style of the professional diplomat, whose ideal mandate is frozen in one unchangeable pattern.

If the nation were to accept Rusk's apparent doctrine, it would be compelled to scrap free democracy in a vital area of discussion, and espouse an authoritarian pattern.

The Coffee Countries

It would seem that Americans are obligated to drink coffee so that Brazil's economy will not go to the devil. Unfortunately the coffee-producing countries outpriced themselves and ingenious merchants developed all kinds of "instant" brands which provide more coffee per pound than the old-style coffee bean.

So now, an $8,000,000 fund has been established "for promoting coffee consumption and defending coffee economy." The fund will be built by charging 25 cents per sack as a surcharge by the exporting countries if the plan is ratified.

This sounds like a public relations expert's idea of how to get a client and to do some work. What Brazil and the other coffee-growing countries need to remember is that nobody has to buy their coffee and that Africa is exporting coffee and except for connoisseurs of whom there are very few, most coffees taste alike.

The problem of maintaining prices for excess agricultural products is having the reverse effect of knocking down the value of currencies in those countries which fail to recognize that the large consuming markets are very few indeed. The United States, which is the largest consuming market for most goods, cannot carry the load for every country even with the best of intentions.

When Vice President Nixon was in Latin America and got spit upon, one of the factors in the outrageous conduct was that this country did not buy enough coffee, enough lead, tin and zinc and that we sold surplus wheat and cotton. The Canadians are annoyed with us because we sell surplus wheat and want us to give the stuff away free to NATO which is not to use it in countries to which Canada can sell wheat.

Why?

Why must we carry the load of maintaining the economy of other countries? Why must our citizens be taxed so that Canada might be able to reduce taxes? Why must we drink coffee so that Brazil's currency will be on a par? Why does not Brazil permit the development of her natural resources, particularly oil, by expert foreign capital, as the United States was developed by foreign capital in our early years?

The answer always is that if we do not do exactly what 80 foreign countries want us to do, they will all go over to Soviet Russia. If that is so, we are already as defeated as Messrs. Khrushchev and Mikoyan say we are and we had better take a look at what is happening to our own economy, particularly to our hoard of gold at Fort Knox, too much of which is already ear-marked for foreign accounts.

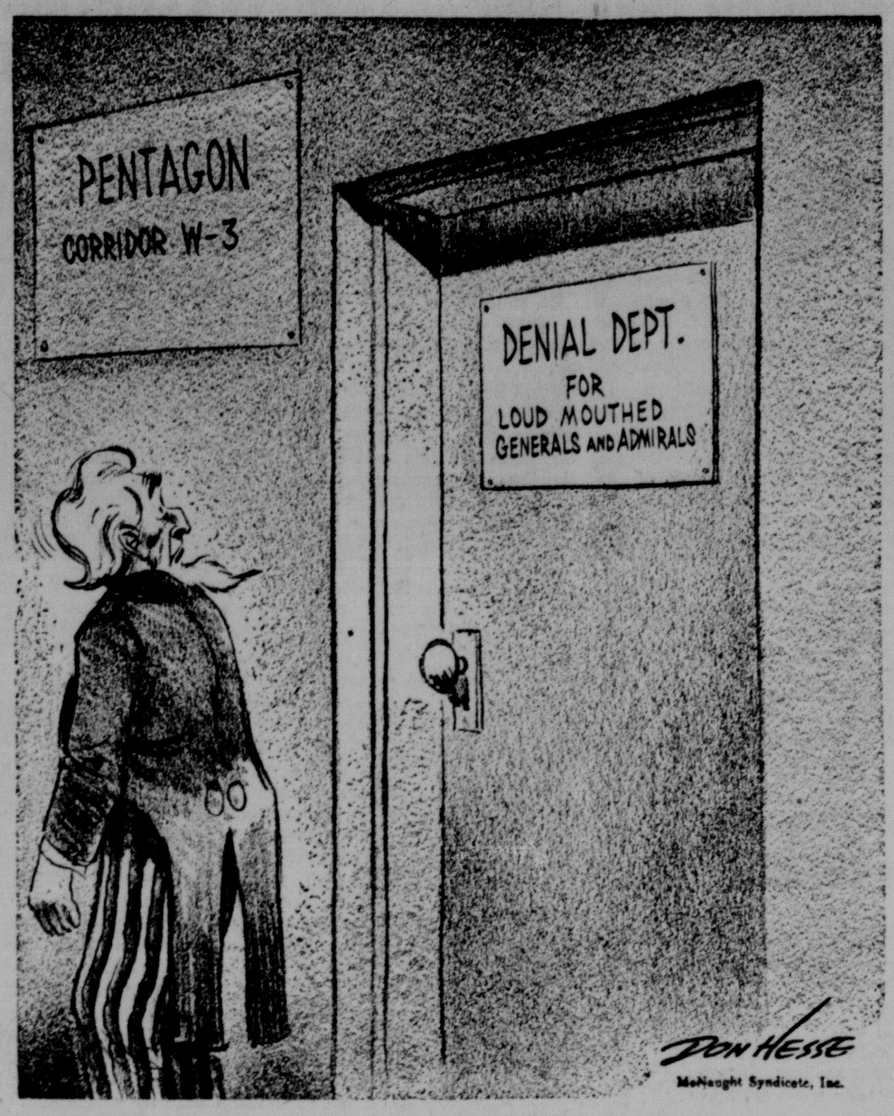

Obviously, it is impossible for any one country, whether it is the United States or Soviet Russia, to carry on its shoulders the total economy of the human race. Certainly the United States does not possess the reserve to support the currencies of those countries where currencies are falling. If we have become unpopular in Brazil because the cruzeiro has dropped to unfortunate lows, it is just too bad. This country cannot support Brazil's currency during a period of inflation in Brazil and depression here. If all that stands between Roman Catholic Brazil and atheistic Soviet Russia is the exchange rate of the cruzeiro (normally 50 to the dollar; today 148 to the dollar), then the United States can do nothing about it but reinstitute the Monroe Doctrine and get ready for our defenses.

One of the great advantages enjoyed by the United States in its industrial and transportation development was that it never worried about the nationality of the money invested in this country. We just went ahead.

The answer, it seems to me, is a different one. During the exalted days of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Administration and more recently during the Truman and Eisenhower administrations, much of the world has reached the conclusion that domestic problems in their own countries can best be cured by leeching upon the United States. Officially, this has cost us about $60,000,000,000; unofficially, the figure is too enormous to estimate. Once some countries realize that Uncle Sam is no longer an easy touch, they will develop adequate ability to take care of themselves as they did before the United States took over the burdens of the human race. They somehow managed to get along on their own.

Goldfine Was Willful Violator Of Wool Products Labeling Act

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—To understand the phone calls Sherman Adams made to the Federal Trade Commission regarding his friend, benefactor, and hotel-clothing provider, you have to understand something about the Wool Products Labeling Act. It's an act requiring wool manufacturers to state whether their product is made of pure wool, reprocessed wool (wool scraps), or reused wool, the latter being old clothes, sold as rags and rewoven. This labeling lets the public know just what it is buying.

The terms of the law are strict, and if a woolen manufacturer continues to violate it he can be prosecuted criminally.

Adams' friend, Bernard Goldfine, is a big-time operator. He owns the Northfield Mills at Northfield, Vt., the Lebanon Woolen Mill Corp. at Lebanon, N. H., and the Strathmore Woolen Co. at Boston. His political friends are as far-flung as his business interests, and he has also been friendly with Jim Hagerty, the White House press secretary who has been so vigorous in defending Sherman Adams. On one occasion Hagerty was dining in Goldfine's private suite in the Sheraton-Carlton and when he became physically ill, Goldfine complained to the hotel management that Hagerty had been served poisonous food.

Early in the Eisenhower administration, November, 1953, Goldfine's firms got caught selling a product labeled 90 per cent wool and 10 per cent vicuna, though actually they contained a large percentage of nylon. Whether the vicuna coat given to Sherman Adams by Goldfinne was also mislabeled is not known. At any rate after Adams had called Chairman Ed Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission twice, the case against Goldfine's mills was "closed" as of February 5, 1954.

Significant Call

Sherman Adams, in admitting that he called the Federal Trade Commission, minimized the importance of his intervention. To understand its true importance, you have to know first that a call from Adams is considered almost the equivalent of a call from the President. You also have to know that Adams' assistant at that time was Charley Willis, son-in-law of Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Co., and that Ed Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission had long been the attorney for Firestone. His was a purely political appointment.

After he became Chairman of the Trade Commission, incidentally, an investigation of Firestone and other rubber companies evaporated. It just seemed to vanish.

Furthermore, Howrey's secretary, Miss Clara Shumate, told Harris committee probers that her boss went to the White House every couple of weeks during the first part of the Eisenhower Administration to confer with Sherman Adams. They enjoyed very close relations.

Most of these conferences, incidentally, were regarding the revamping of the Trade Commission so as to weed out anti-monopoly personnel. Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana, Texas, later accused Howrey of reorganizing the commission to favor big business and then resigning to practice before the friends he had appointed.

All this is why a call from Adams to Howrey got extremely fast action. It even produced a memo to the White House in one day; later closed the case against Adams' generous benefactor in early 1954.

Goldfine's Willful Violation

Goldfine, however, didn't carry out his promise not to violate the law. Apparently he figured his political influence made him immune. Four woolen firms complained shortly thereafter that he was violating the law again. The complainants were: Hatch Textile Research, Einiger Mills, Wyandotte Worsted Co. and Broadmoor Fabrics, all of New York.

As a result, Charles Canavan, FTC project attorney, received a report Aug. 10, 1954, from Robert Scott, FTC investigator in New York, that Goldfine once again was mislabeling. There followed a long investigation and a hearing. Several times this hearing, scheduled to be held in Burlington, Vt., was postponed—because of the interest of the White House.

Finally, a year and a half later, March 13, 1956, a full report was made, and project attorney Canavan recommended that the case be sent to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution. Here is the exact wording of his recommendation:

"This case has been carefully reviewed and the possibility of an offer to stipulate has been considered. However, since the facts indicate that large quantities of fabrics which have been manufactured and sold . . . since the fall of 1953 have been misbranded and misrepresented in violation of the Wool Products Labeling Act, It would appear that complaints should be issued to restrain the proposed respondents (Goldfine's three mills) from violating these statutes in the future. . . .

"It is further recommended that the commission certify all of the pertinent facts to the Attorney General for appropriate proceedings. . . . This action is recommended because the facts in this case indicate that the acts of Northfield Mills, Lebanon Mills, Strathmore Wool Corp., Bernard and Horace Goldfine were premeditated and the violations of the Wool Products Labeling Act were willful."

In the interim, however, Sherman Adams had arranged for Goldfine and his son to meet personally with Chairman Howrey in the latter's office. Afterward, Goldfine called Adams and, in front of FTC officials, ostentatiously said: "I am over at the Trade Commission. I have been treated very well over here. Thanks for arranging the appointment."

He was treated very well. Canavan was only a career officer. His advice for criminal prosecution was ignored. Upper officials overruled him. The case against Goldfine was dropped.

Hunting Algerian Rebels With The French Army

By Joseph Alsop

BORDJ MENAIEL, Algeria

On the young Major's face, the day's events had incised deep lines. They were not lines of fatigue, for he was climbing the steep mountainside in the cruel late afternoon sun like a particularly wiry and heat-proof goat. They were lines of disappointment.

"Hunting fellaghas," he remarked, "is like hunting wild boar. You organize a magnificent battue, and you can still have a blank day, like today. With fewer beaters, you may get a big bag. In one day and in one operation last week, we got eighty of them.

"Like boars, they can be very dangerous to the man who drives out the game. But there's not a man on this damn baking djebel who would not have preferred the risk of finding game to the blank day we've had."

The Major's somber remarks are a good operational summary of the grand battue in the forest of Tamedjout, in the high mountains of the Kabyle country, which this reporter saw as the guest of the second battalion of the ninth regiment of Infanterie Marine. An operation without casualties except from sunstroke (of which there were several) may seem a little undramatic. But the story of the day will at least give an idea of how the French Army in Algeria carries on its unending hunt.

Dinner last night in the little officers' mess here in Bordj Menaiel was like an evening meal in a hunting camp. The talk was of past hunts, unsuccessful and successful, with enough stories of the latter to make it clear the fellagha did not lead an easy life. A little Indochinese war orphan, who was brought to the mess by the old Captain who had adopted him, wanted to offer his usual after-dinner entertainment — the French manual of arms performed by a smiling five-year-old. But take-off hour was 1:30 a. m., so the usual entertainment was tenderly cut short.

Four hours' sleep, a quick wash and shave (for the officers of the Infanterie Marine are not sloppy in the field), coffee and bread hastily gulped down—and then the battalion column forms with the ease of long practice, and with no light to show the men and vehicles their places except the curious, milky luminescence of the soft Algerian night. The old Captain is almost late. "The child was fretful," he muttered apologetically. But the long column moves off on time, with armored half-tracks, officers' command jeeps and big trucks full of troops all in view order.

Hour after hour, always with no lights, the column winds slowly upwards over tracks that would not make pleasant daytime driving. One is hardly conscious of anything except the night-sharpened smells of road dust and wild lavender. Then, just at dawn, the assembly point is reached on a craggy shelf where the vehicles are left behind.

Maps are checked. The Major in command coordinates times, places, telephone codes and all the rest with his hard-bitten looking company officers. The companies set out, each in single file, through the gnarled olive and fig trees on the steep mountain flanks. It is a long, grim, breathless climb, even to the first battalion command post. But the men of the companies must push down from crests where the C. P. is set up. They must search the slopes that often have an angle of close to 50 degrees, to their destined forward positions.

These are the mountains that gave birth to Krim Bel Kacem, one of the high command of the F. L. N. The forest of Tamedjout, more scrub than forest, lies in a violently contorted fold of these mountains, with a drop sharply downward to a water course a full 400 meters below the C. P.'s crest. We are high enough to look down on the great white buzzards that float with effortless grace on an ocean of air far below us. Yet far above our crests are the towering crags of the Djurdjura range, still bearing traces of snow although the temperature on our own mountaintop is pushing up towards 100 degrees by 8 a. m.

Our battalion companies today are the hunters. Three more battalions, starting from other crests, are the beaters in this hunt. By 8 a. m. the net is closed, the link-up is complete. So we of the C. P. make the long march to our forward final position, sweating under a sun already terrible, and thinking guiltily of the companies that cannot halt, as we shall halt.

That, really, is the whole day's story. But all day long under sun ever-gaining in cruel intensity the net is methodically drawn tighter and tighter. Lajoie (the Colonel in overall command), Lamouette (our own commander) and the other battalion C. P.s keep up an endless, tense radio conversation with one another and with their companies to make sure there are no holes in the ever-tightening net.

So the long day passes, with thirst growing always more obsessive, with the sun beating down more and more remorselessly, with the hunters and the beaters toiling onwards. But the fellagha band that usually hides out in the forest of Tamedjout must have a cave the beaters missed, or they must have moved off toward the Djurdjura. "Pas de gibier"—"no game here"—is the final bitter verdict. Yet it has been a lesson to watch the operation all the same, because of its toughly professional character, and because, in all this long, grueling day, I never heard more than a word of sardonically joking complaint from the men who must do this sort of thing day after day and week after week, until their service ends. "It's a hell of a life," said the old Captain, when he led in his grimy sweat-bathed company after a return climb up the 400 meters of mountain face. "But I would still rather have our life than a fellagha's life. We'll get them next time. Wait and see."

The Need For Trust

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain has just stated the biggest single truth that can make the difference between world peace and another world war. He puts his emphasis on the word "trust" and declares it cannot be achieved between the West and the East until the Soviet government abandons its censorship of communications.

The Prime Minister didn't specifically say so, but his remarks at the National Press Club here could apply to the untruthful statement made over a nationwide television network by Mikhail Menshikov, the Soviet Ambassador, who, too, called for mutual trust but then went on to tell a barefaced lie. He said there is no censorship of the news coming out of Russia.

Here are Prime Minister Macmillan's exact words in his speech on Wednesday:

"I think there can be no real understanding and friendship between these two great divisions of the world until the Soviet Union has achieved sufficient self-confidence to abandon the control and censorship of communications.

"It is rather depressing to me that even now the Soviet government should think it necessary to spend so much time, effort, ingenuity and money on jamming the broadcasts from the Western countries. And as long as this kind of negative thinking prevails, there can be no great optimism about the prospects for a wide, more comprehensive settlement.'

This, of course, is the root of the trouble — it's the perennial cause of misunderstanding and mistrust.

Since the news of what is happening inside the Soviet Union is censored and the people of that country are not permitted to read what is happening in their own government or in the governments abroad, there can be no solid basis for a peaceful relationship. Inevitably distortions will lead to the misunderstandings and miscalculations which so often in the past have brought on war.

Throughout the whole world today there is a demand by public opinion that every step humanly possible shall be taken to avert a war. Many persons have gone to lengths almost of fanaticism in arguing, for instance, that suspension of nuclear tests is a start toward avoidance of war. But this is a delusion. The Soviet Union may prate about a desire to stop testing, but there are enough H-bombs already in its stockpile to destroy hundreds of millions of human beings if war does break out. The misguided theory that suspension of the tests would be an effective beginning overlooks the adamant attitude of the Soviets toward any restriction or control by inspection that would ban the actual production of the destructive bombs.

Yet in America there are factions, some of them partisans, which have sought to make it appear that the United States is blocking peace because it doesn't want to agree to suspend nuclear tests without some controls on the production and use of H-bombs. Many prominent Democrats have put themselves in the position of aiding the Soviet side of the debate by insisting that a suspension of nuclear tests alone is desirable, no matter whether any other agreements are reached.

Prime Minister Macmillan, however, who has to face in his own country the same kind of misuse of international issues for partisan purposes, takes the flat position that suspension of nuclear tests cannot be agreed to by Great Britain until it has full knowledge of atomic matters that now are withheld by the United States through an act of Congress.

To put it another way, the Prime Minister is thinking of the security of his own country. He puts first and foremost the necessity of more testing and ties this to a further acquisition from the United States of scientific data that can be utilized in British tests.

What seems strange is that, with all the disclosures in recent testimony in Congress about the horrible ways by which germs now can be used in chemical warfare, no group of zealots has come forward to demand that these tests—which are going on all the time in the laboratories of the world—shall also be suspended. Indeed Khrushchev has just announced an expansion of the chemical industry in the Soviet Union.

It isn't the testing of devices or the scientific knowledge of death-dealing weapons that menaces the peace of the world. It isn't the weapon itself, but the mind that orders the trigger pulled, that must be restrained. This cannot be controlled so long as the people of the Soviet Union themselves are enslaved and are not allowed to get uncensored news of their own country and the rest of the world.

How Food & Drug Administration Protects You

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some persons wonder whether the work of the Food and Drug administration is worthwhile. The report of its activities that comes to my office shows how busy this organization is. In January, for example, 512 tons of contaminated and unfit food were taken in in 98 court actions.

Among the items seized were vegetables bearing excessive residues of DDT or other pesticides, chili powder containing glass fragments, olive oil to which camphorated oil had been added, and animal feeds contaminated with mineral oil.

More than three-fourths of the material seized was filthy or decomposed. Five other seizures charged substitution of cheaper ingredients for those declared on the labels, or for short weight.

Included were nut cakes that omitted nuts, oysters containing excess water, and the substitution of red pepper skins for pimentos in stuffed anchovies, bonito for tuna fish, and cottonseed oil for olive oil.

Some producers and manufacturers have no conscience about their fellow man. They live by the philosophy — what people don't know won't hurt them (caveat emptor). In some instances, however, the manufacturer cooperates with the FDA in removing a harmful product from the market.

The company making plastic finger nails that are pressed on has asked dealers to return unsold stock immediately. After the product had been on the market about four months approximately 700 women complained about injured nails following the use of these plastic strips.

In connection with food additives, the FDA is seeking power to virtually license the addition of chemicals to foods, after determining the safety of the product. The food industry, however, prefers a self-policing policy. Time will tell whether they can do the job.

HARD BED

R. R. writes: Is it beneficial or harmful to sleep on a bed constructed of a board, with only a blanket for a mattress?

REPLY

This type of sleeping does no harm; people slept on the ground for thousands of years before beds were invented. In fact, the original meaning of the word mattress was a mat thrown on the floor to make a bed. Many victims of back trouble find a hard bed more satisfactory than a soft mattress.

OFFSPRING RECORD

Mrs. F. writes: Do you know who holds the record for bearing the most children? I refer to modern times, not mythological statistics.

REPLY

Mrs. Marie Cyr of Fort Kent, Me., is said to have the honor. She was born in 1911, married at 17, and had a child every year during the first 26 years of her marriage. Nineteen were living at the time these statistics were gathered.

CURED ULCER

R. E. writes: Can all foods be eaten after an ulcer heals?

REPLY

Yes, but go easy on raw fruits, highly seasoned and heavy foods such as gravies and stews. It is better to avoid these foods entirely in the spring and fall, when ulcers tend to flare up.

TOMORROW: Inhaling fungi in dust.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Amateur charade players would have a tough time acting out a couple that Hans Conreid and Stubby Kaye were stuck with on TV's "Pantomime Quiz." Conreid had to pantomime Chinese teenagers' theme song: "They Tried to Tell us We're Foo Young" and Kaye had to act out "The moron fired at the electric fan when they told him to shoot the breeze." What's more, they beat the deadline in both instances.

How would you act out those immortal phrases?

We Don't Need Rusk's Muzzle

Public opinion on foreign policy, registered through legislative discussions, should be muzzled. That, in effect, is what is urged by Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and former Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Of course he doesn't put the proposition that bluntly. He seeks to "weigh" it by attaching convenient self-serving adjectives.

He asserts that American power and influence have thrust upon Americans very grave responsibilities "which we shirk at our peril." Some are long term, requiring persistence and patience. Then he says, "Tumultuous annual debates which treaten each year the foundations of policy deprive us and our friends of the confidence and consistency which the situation demands."

By adding the word "tumultuous" he colors the issue to his own purpose. If he had used the words "calm and reasonable" of course there would be no point to his contention. Yet "calm and reasonable" debates can be expected in this area as well as in any other issues.

Apparently Rusk overlooks the fact that genuine and stalwart free democracy requires free and open debate; it shrivels and dies under any muzzling process. It is muzzling that Rusk actually proposes.

Admittedly the authoritarian climate is ideal for diplomatic interchanges. It is true that any kind of debate, whether "tumultuous" or "calm and reasonable," cramps the style of the professional diplomat, whose ideal mandate is frozen in one unchangeable pattern.

If the nation were to accept Rusk's apparent doctrine, it would be compelled to scrap free democracy in a vital area of discussion, and espouse an authoritarian pattern.

These Days

The Coffee Countries

It would seem that Americans are obligated to drink coffee so that Brazil's economy will not go to the devil. Unfortunately the coffee-producing countries outpriced themselves and ingenious merchants developed all kinds of "instant" brands which provide more coffee per pound than the old-style coffee bean.

So now, an $8,000,000 fund has been established "for promoting coffee consumption and defending coffee economy." The fund will be built by charging 25 cents per sack as a surcharge by the exporting countries if the plan is ratified.

This sounds like a public relations expert's idea of how to get a client and to do some work. What Brazil and the other coffee-growing countries need to remember is that nobody has to buy their coffee and that Africa is exporting coffee and except for connoisseurs of whom there are very few, most coffees taste alike.

The problem of maintaining prices for excess agricultural products is having the reverse effect of knocking down the value of currencies in those countries which fail to recognize that the large consuming markets are very few indeed. The United States, which is the largest consuming market for most goods, cannot carry the load for every country even with the best of intentions.

When Vice President Nixon was in Latin America and got spit upon, one of the factors in the outrageous conduct was that this country did not buy enough coffee, enough lead, tin and zinc and that we sold surplus wheat and cotton. The Canadians are annoyed with us because we sell surplus wheat and want us to give the stuff away free to NATO which is not to use it in countries to which Canada can sell wheat.

Why?

Why must we carry the load of maintaining the economy of other countries? Why must our citizens be taxed so that Canada might be able to reduce taxes? Why must we drink coffee so that Brazil's currency will be on a par? Why does not Brazil permit the development of her natural resources, particularly oil, by expert foreign capital, as the United States was developed by foreign capital in our early years?

The answer always is that if we do not do exactly what 80 foreign countries want us to do, they will all go over to Soviet Russia. If that is so, we are already as defeated as Messrs. Khrushchev and Mikoyan say we are and we had better take a look at what is happening to our own economy, particularly to our hoard of gold at Fort Knox, too much of which is already ear-marked for foreign accounts.

Obviously, it is impossible for any one country, whether it is the United States or Soviet Russia, to carry on its shoulders the total economy of the human race. Certainly the United States does not possess the reserve to support the currencies of those countries where currencies are falling. If we have become unpopular in Brazil because the cruzeiro has dropped to unfortunate lows, it is just too bad. This country cannot support Brazil's currency during a period of inflation in Brazil and depression here. If all that stands between Roman Catholic Brazil and atheistic Soviet Russia is the exchange rate of the cruzeiro (normally 50 to the dollar; today 148 to the dollar), then the United States can do nothing about it but reinstitute the Monroe Doctrine and get ready for our defenses.

One of the great advantages enjoyed by the United States in its industrial and transportation development was that it never worried about the nationality of the money invested in this country. We just went ahead.

The answer, it seems to me, is a different one. During the exalted days of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Administration and more recently during the Truman and Eisenhower administrations, much of the world has reached the conclusion that domestic problems in their own countries can best be cured by leeching upon the United States. Officially, this has cost us about $60,000,000,000; unofficially, the figure is too enormous to estimate. Once some countries realize that Uncle Sam is no longer an easy touch, they will develop adequate ability to take care of themselves as they did before the United States took over the burdens of the human race. They somehow managed to get along on their own.

Goldfine Was Willful Violator Of Wool Products Labeling Act

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—To understand the phone calls Sherman Adams made to the Federal Trade Commission regarding his friend, benefactor, and hotel-clothing provider, you have to understand something about the Wool Products Labeling Act. It's an act requiring wool manufacturers to state whether their product is made of pure wool, reprocessed wool (wool scraps), or reused wool, the latter being old clothes, sold as rags and rewoven. This labeling lets the public know just what it is buying.

The terms of the law are strict, and if a woolen manufacturer continues to violate it he can be prosecuted criminally.

Adams' friend, Bernard Goldfine, is a big-time operator. He owns the Northfield Mills at Northfield, Vt., the Lebanon Woolen Mill Corp. at Lebanon, N. H., and the Strathmore Woolen Co. at Boston. His political friends are as far-flung as his business interests, and he has also been friendly with Jim Hagerty, the White House press secretary who has been so vigorous in defending Sherman Adams. On one occasion Hagerty was dining in Goldfine's private suite in the Sheraton-Carlton and when he became physically ill, Goldfine complained to the hotel management that Hagerty had been served poisonous food.

Early in the Eisenhower administration, November, 1953, Goldfine's firms got caught selling a product labeled 90 per cent wool and 10 per cent vicuna, though actually they contained a large percentage of nylon. Whether the vicuna coat given to Sherman Adams by Goldfinne was also mislabeled is not known. At any rate after Adams had called Chairman Ed Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission twice, the case against Goldfine's mills was "closed" as of February 5, 1954.

Significant Call

Sherman Adams, in admitting that he called the Federal Trade Commission, minimized the importance of his intervention. To understand its true importance, you have to know first that a call from Adams is considered almost the equivalent of a call from the President. You also have to know that Adams' assistant at that time was Charley Willis, son-in-law of Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Co., and that Ed Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission had long been the attorney for Firestone. His was a purely political appointment.

After he became Chairman of the Trade Commission, incidentally, an investigation of Firestone and other rubber companies evaporated. It just seemed to vanish.

Furthermore, Howrey's secretary, Miss Clara Shumate, told Harris committee probers that her boss went to the White House every couple of weeks during the first part of the Eisenhower Administration to confer with Sherman Adams. They enjoyed very close relations.

Most of these conferences, incidentally, were regarding the revamping of the Trade Commission so as to weed out anti-monopoly personnel. Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana, Texas, later accused Howrey of reorganizing the commission to favor big business and then resigning to practice before the friends he had appointed.

All this is why a call from Adams to Howrey got extremely fast action. It even produced a memo to the White House in one day; later closed the case against Adams' generous benefactor in early 1954.

Goldfine's Willful Violation

Goldfine, however, didn't carry out his promise not to violate the law. Apparently he figured his political influence made him immune. Four woolen firms complained shortly thereafter that he was violating the law again. The complainants were: Hatch Textile Research, Einiger Mills, Wyandotte Worsted Co. and Broadmoor Fabrics, all of New York.

As a result, Charles Canavan, FTC project attorney, received a report Aug. 10, 1954, from Robert Scott, FTC investigator in New York, that Goldfine once again was mislabeling. There followed a long investigation and a hearing. Several times this hearing, scheduled to be held in Burlington, Vt., was postponed—because of the interest of the White House.

Finally, a year and a half later, March 13, 1956, a full report was made, and project attorney Canavan recommended that the case be sent to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution. Here is the exact wording of his recommendation:

"This case has been carefully reviewed and the possibility of an offer to stipulate has been considered. However, since the facts indicate that large quantities of fabrics which have been manufactured and sold . . . since the fall of 1953 have been misbranded and misrepresented in violation of the Wool Products Labeling Act, It would appear that complaints should be issued to restrain the proposed respondents (Goldfine's three mills) from violating these statutes in the future. . . .

"It is further recommended that the commission certify all of the pertinent facts to the Attorney General for appropriate proceedings. . . . This action is recommended because the facts in this case indicate that the acts of Northfield Mills, Lebanon Mills, Strathmore Wool Corp., Bernard and Horace Goldfine were premeditated and the violations of the Wool Products Labeling Act were willful."

In the interim, however, Sherman Adams had arranged for Goldfine and his son to meet personally with Chairman Howrey in the latter's office. Afterward, Goldfine called Adams and, in front of FTC officials, ostentatiously said: "I am over at the Trade Commission. I have been treated very well over here. Thanks for arranging the appointment."

He was treated very well. Canavan was only a career officer. His advice for criminal prosecution was ignored. Upper officials overruled him. The case against Goldfine was dropped.

"It is rather depressing to me that even now the Soviet government should think it necessary to spend so much time, effort, ingenuity and money on jamming the broadcasts from the Western countries. And as long as this kind of negative thinking prevails, there can be no great optimism about the prospects for a wide, more comprehensive settlement."

This, of course, is the root of the trouble — it's the perennial cause of misunderstanding and mistrust.

Since the news of what is happening inside the Soviet Union is censored and the people of that country are not permitted to read what is happening in their own government or in the governments abroad, there can be no solid basis for a peaceful relationship. Inevitably distortions will lead to the misunderstandings and miscalculations which so often in the past have brought on war.

Throughout the whole world today there is a demand by public opinion that every step humanly possible shall be taken to avert a war. Many persons have gone to lengths almost of fanaticism in arguing, for instance, that suspension of nuclear tests is a start toward avoidance of war. But this is a delusion. The Soviet Union may prate about a desire to stop testing, but there are enough H-bombs already in its stockpile to destroy hundreds of millions of human beings if war does break out. The misguided theory that suspension of the tests would be an effective beginning overlooks the adamant attitude of the Soviets toward any restriction or control by inspection that would ban the actual production of the destructive bombs.

Yet in America there are factions, some of them partisans, which have sought to make it appear that the United States is blocking peace because it doesn't want to agree to suspend nuclear tests without some controls on the production and use of H-bombs. Many prominent Democrats have put themselves in the position of aiding the Soviet side of the debate by insisting that a suspension of nuclear tests alone is desirable, no matter whether any other agreements are reached.

Prime Minister Macmillan, however, who has to face in his own country the same kind of misuse of international issues for partisan purposes, takes the flat position that suspension of nuclear tests cannot be agreed to by Great Britain until it has full knowledge of atomic matters that now are withheld by the United States through an act of Congress.

To put it another way, the Prime Minister is thinking of the security of his own country. He puts first and foremost the necessity of more testing and ties this to a further acquisition from the United States of scientific data that can be utilized in British tests.

What seems strange is that, with all the disclosures in recent testimony in Congress about the horrible ways by which germs now can be used in chemical warfare, no group of zealots has come forward to demand that these tests—which are going on all the time in the laboratories of the world—shall also be suspended. Indeed Khrushchev has just announced an expansion of the chemical industry in the Soviet Union.

It isn't the testing of devices or the scientific knowledge of death-dealing weapons that menaces the peace of the world. It isn't the weapon itself, but the mind that orders the trigger pulled, that must be restrained. This cannot be controlled so long as the people of the Soviet Union themselves are enslaved and are not allowed to get uncensored news of their own country and the rest of the world.

How Food & Drug Administration Protects You

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some persons wonder whether the work of the Food and Drug administration is worthwhile. The report of its activities that comes to my office shows how busy this organization is. In January, for example, 512 tons of contaminated and unfit food were taken in in 98 court actions.

Among the items seized were vegetables bearing excessive residues of DDT or other pesticides, chili powder containing glass fragments, olive oil to which camphorated oil had been added, and animal feeds contaminated with mineral oil.

More than three-fourths of the material seized was filthy or decomposed. Five other seizures charged substitution of cheaper ingredients for those declared on the labels, or for short weight.

Included were nut cakes that omitted nuts, oysters containing excess water, and the substitution of red pepper skins for pimentos in stuffed anchovies, bonito for tuna fish, and cottonseed oil for olive oil.

Some producers and manufacturers have no conscience about their fellow man. They live by the philosophy — what people don't know won't hurt them (caveat emptor). In some instances, however, the manufacturer cooperates with the FDA in removing a harmful product from the market.

The company making plastic finger nails that are pressed on has asked dealers to return unsold stock immediately. After the product had been on the market about four months approximately 700 women complained about injured nails following the use of these plastic strips.

In connection with food additives, the FDA is seeking power to virtually license the addition of chemicals to foods, after determining the safety of the product. The food industry, however, prefers a self-policing policy. Time will tell whether they can do the job.

HARD BED

R. R. writes: Is it beneficial or harmful to sleep on a bed constructed of a board, with only a blanket for a mattress?

REPLY

This type of sleeping does no harm; people slept on the ground for thousands of years before beds were invented. In fact, the original meaning of the word mattress was a mat thrown on the floor to make a bed. Many victims of back trouble find a hard bed more satisfactory than a soft mattress.

OFFSPRING RECORD

Mrs. F. writes: Do you know who holds the record for bearing the most children? I refer to modern times, not mythological statistics.

REPLY

Mrs. Marie Cyr of Fort Kent, Me., is said to have the honor. She was born in 1911, married at 17, and had a child every year during the first 26 years of her marriage. Nineteen were living at the time these statistics were gathered.

CURED ULCER

R. E. writes: Can all foods be eaten after an ulcer heals?

REPLY

Yes, but go easy on raw fruits, highly seasoned and heavy foods such as gravies and stews. It is better to avoid these foods entirely in the spring and fall, when ulcers tend to flare up.

TOMORROW: Inhaling fungi in dust.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Amateur charade players would have a tough time acting out a couple that Hans Conreid and Stubby Kaye were stuck with on TV's "Pantomime Quiz." Conreid had to pantomime Chinese teenagers' theme song: "They Tried to Tell us We're Foo Young" and Kaye had to act out "The moron fired at the electric fan when they told him to shoot the breeze." What's more, they beat the deadline in both instances.

How would you act out those immortal phrases?

Mexican's alibi when charged with pushing his wife over a precipice: "Honest, Judge, I was just trying tequila!"

Working off a 20-year rap at Sing Sing, a convict gazed through the bars of his cell one blissful spring day (not in 1958) and grumbled. "In weather like this, it's positively criminal to be indoors."

Keyser K Of P Represented At State Meet

89th Convention Held At Elkins

KEYSER — A number of members of Olive Branch Lodge, No. 25, Knights of Pythias, attended the 89th annual convention of Pythian Grand Lodge of West Virginia, held in Elkins, recently.

Attending from this area, were the following from the Keyser lodge: Coyd Yost, Keyser, past grand chancellor; Walter F. Schwinabart, Elk Garden, and Ralph O. Martin, Keyser, past grand chancellors; Ray Wilt, grand treasurer; N. Howard Rogers, Keyser, member Pythian Home board, and Walter C. Newman, district deputy.

Representatives to the grand lodge included Roy J. McCabe, Olive Branch Lodge, No. 25; Thomas N. Dignon, Acme Lodge No. 62.

Local visitors to the grand lodge meeting included Charles Schwinabart and R. Lee Heishman, both of Olive Branch Lodge, Keyser.

Hearing Today On W.Md. Rail Assessments

CHARLESTON (AP) — Western Maryland Railway, the most persistent objector on West Virginia's tax assessment books, will be back before the Board of Public Works Tuesday.

It will be appearing in further protest to the 1958 assessment. Meanwhile, the State Supreme Court only Monday agreed unanimously to review the railway's assessments for 1955 and 1956.

The Board of Public Works appealed from circuit court decisions in Mineral County reducing Western Maryland's assessments for those years. The cases originate in Mineral because that is the county with the greatest concentration of West Virginia property belonging to the Western Maryland.

The Board of Public Works Tuesday will be opening three days of concentrated work on setting the 1958 valuations upon which public utilities will pay their taxes for this year.

Sitting as a board of equalization and review, the seven-member board previously held public hearings in which the railroads, water, electric and other utility companies could protest the tentative valuations.

At that time, Western Maryland asked and received special permission to make an additional appearance Tuesday when the board begins its annual meeting to set the final assessments.

Normally, no further representations are heard after the board conducts the usual three days of public hearings.

Scheduled to appear Tuesday was Eugene S. Williams, Western Maryland attorney and retired board chairman of the carrier.

Western Maryland's tentative 1958 assessment is 13 million dollars. Formal objection to that tax base was entered at the earlier hearings.

On appeals to the Mineral County Circuit Court, Western Maryland's assessment for 1955 taxes was cut from 13 million to 9½ millions, and its 1956 assessment was reduced from 15 millions to 9½ millions.

The state appealed both decisions and the cases are now before the Supreme Court.

Western Maryland property for tax purposes was set in 1957 at 12½ millions. The company appealed from that figure and the case is pending in the circuit court of Mineral County.

Past Chiefs' Group Will Meet Today

FROSTBURG — The Past Chiefs Association of Calanthe Temple 3, Pythian Sisters, will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Kate Myers, Water Street.

P. J. Keeley Dies At Elkins

ELKINS (AP) — The retired vice president of the Keeley Construction Co., who came to this country as a child from Clifden County, Galway, Ireland, died here Monday at the age of 83.

Patrick Joseph Keeley resided in Elkins about 50 years after living in Upshur County when he came to this country with his parents and brothers.

Keeley and three brothers formed the Keeley Construction Co., which became a familiar builder of West Virginia roads. He was the last surviving member of the Irish family here.

He retired several years ago as vice president of the construction firm because of ill health.

Bell Ringers Will Play At State College

FROSTBURG — The Potomac Hand Bell Ringers will appear in Compton Hall at Frostburg State Teachers College June 20 at 8:15 p. m. at the opening presentation of the current season sponsored by Frostburg community programs, Inc.

Organized in 1954 by Nancy Poore Tufts, Washington, the group now consists of 12 artists who, with over 50 hand bells, produce music in both four and eight part harmony.

This group, which has entertained at both indoor and outdoor functions throughout the east, has met with enthusiastic audiences wherever they appeared. Homemakers clubs of Maryland were instrumental in having the Bell Ringers included in this year's program, having heard them at College Park during their last convention held there.

They will present a program consisting of both contemporary and classical numbers, arranged for bells by the bellmaster of the group, Nancy Poore Tufts.

St. Peter's Alumni Plans Communion Breakfast Aug. 31

Harvey Gortner To Retire From Automobile Business

GRANTSVILLE—Harvey Gortner will relinquish his automobile business July 1 after having been active in the community over the past 35 years.

At that time the Motor Service Company will be taken over by Dale Kinsinger and Robert Diehl.

Kinsinger is 28 years of age and married to the former Audrey Schaffer, daughter of Mrs. Walter Beitzel. His father is pastor of the Meadow Mountain Church and a mechanical engineer with a Grantsville concern. He and his family are living in a newly acquired trailer here. Both he and his wife are active in the life of the community. His wife is in nurse's training in Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital at Johnstown.

Diehl, 23, is a son of Dr. Clayton Diehl, Frostburg. He married Shelby Sisler, daughter of Clarence Sisler. They have two children. Diehl is a grandson of Floyd Diehl who was a partner of Gortner for a number of years.

Gortner will be associated with the Gortner Motor Sales, Inc., in Morgantown, after July 1. He was recently complimented by the Ford Motor Company at a branch manager's meeting for doing more for young people in getting them started in business than any other person in that company.

Gortner has sponsored in past years five boys in a merchandising school at Dearborn, Mich. He has set up new businesses in various towns in the area which have been taken over by younger business men. The Gortner Motor Sales in Keyser is now owned by Willard Gortner. The Confluence Ford Sales is now owned by Ward Newman and Don Kaufman. The Gortner Ford Sales in Meyersdale was sold to Henry Beamer. The Morgantown establishment was purchased in 1951 and operated under the Beamer Ford Sales. This has been changed to Gortner Motor Sales, Inc., with Harvey Gortner as president; Mrs. Donald Stout, vice president; Mrs. Gene Kirk, secretary-treasurer and Gene Kirk, executive vice president and manager.

Gortner has remained active in the civic affairs of the community and elsewhere. He has been a director of Camp Sequinota, Lutheran youth camp at Jennerstown, Pa., for the past eight years and a member of the board of directors of Meyersdale Community Hospital the past six years.

He and his wife plan to divide their time between Morgantown and Grantsville for the present and retain their home here.

Playground Group Names Committees

FROSTBURG — The Braddock Playground Association, Inc., held its monthly meeting on the patio at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bond with James Lancaster presiding.

Committees were appointed and final plans made for the opening June 23. The prize of the evening was won by Mrs. James Lancaster.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Pugh, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hochard, Mrs. Clyde Weitzell, Mrs. Malcolm Layman, Mrs. Joseph Whetstone, Mrs. Kenneth Crowe, Mrs. Edward Carder, Mrs. Robert Fisher, Mrs. Frederick Snelson, Mrs. Earl Thomas, Mrs. Edgar Miller, Mrs. George Wellings and Miss Judith Harrison, playground supervisor.

Homemakers Have Meeting

FROSTBURG—The Midlothian Homemakers met a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Matthew Willetts. Mrs. Thomas Simmons, president, presided. Roll call was answered with each member telling their favorite oven dish. Mrs. Edith Ritchie, Mrs. Mason Diehl and Mrs. Matthew Skidmore were selected delegates to attend the Rural Women's Short Course at College Park. Mrs. Skidmore modeled a dress which she made recently. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Skidmore's home.

Expansion Plan Announced By Garment Plants

Keyser Firms Need More Employes

KEYSER—Keyser's two garment plants—the So Rite Lingerie Company and the Keyser Garment Company—are planning expansion that would result in 50 per cent increase in production for each plant.

Paul Miller, owner and manager of the So Rite firm, stated his company must have an additional 20 employes by September to fill anticipated orders. He placed an order a week ago with the Singer Sewing Machine Company for additional machines.

Dave Klein, president of the Keyser Garment Company, recently acquired 6,000 additional square feet of space which will make room for 35 additional machines. This means work for about 50 people and will bring the total employment to more than 125 persons.

Both managers stress that outside factors in the garment industry could affect their own expansion program, but each expressed optimism in their future.

The Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce and the Mineral County School Board are jointly sponsoring a training school for sewing machine operators, which will help meet the employe needs of the two garment plants. A course of instruction lasts 40 hours, covering five week days and allows the school to graduate up to 12 operators each week. Both garment factories are cooperating and furnishing material remnants to the school and aiding in other ways to turn out qualified operators. A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce has urged all interested women between the ages of 18 and 50 to apply for the school. Application blanks are available in the chamber offices or at Church Street School where the sewing operating instructions are given.

An interesting aspect of the local garment manufacturing plants is that neither plant is technically a manufacturer, but is a contractor making garments for a "manufacturer" in New York. This "manufacturer" is not in fact a "manufacturer" at all, but a design and sales agent for the Keyser products.

The So Rite Lingerie Company produces women's and children's pajamas and dusters.

The Keyser Garment Company occupies the entire hangar facility of Ludwick's Airport on New Creek Drive.

Keyser K Of P Represented At State Meet

89th Convention Held At Elkins

KEYSER — A number of members of Olive Branch Lodge, No. 25, Knights of Pythias, attended the 89th annual convention of Pythian Grand Lodge of West Virginia, held in Elkins, recently.

Attending from this area, were the following from the Keyser lodge: Coyd Yost, Keyser, past grand chancellor; Walter F. Schwinabart, Elk Garden, and Ralph O. Martin, Keyser, past grand chancellors; Ray Wilt, grand treasurer; N. Howard Rogers, Keyser, member Pythian Home board, and Walter C. Newman, district deputy.

Representatives to the grand lodge included Roy J. McCabe, Olive Branch Lodge, No. 25; Thomas N. Dignon, Acme Lodge No. 62.

Local visitors to the grand lodge meeting included Charles Schwinabart and R. Lee Heishman, both of Olive Branch Lodge, Keyser.

Hearing Today On W.Md. Rail Assessments

CHARLESTON (AP) — Western Maryland Railway, the most persistent objector on West Virginia's tax assessment books, will be back before the Board of Public Works Tuesday.

It will be appearing in further protest to the 1958 assessment. Meanwhile, the State Supreme Court only Monday agreed unanimously to review the railway's assessments for 1955 and 1956.

The Board of Public Works appealed from circuit court decisions in Mineral County reducing Western Maryland's assessments for those years. The cases originate in Mineral because that is the county with the greatest concentration of West Virginia property belonging to the Western Maryland.

The Board of Public Works Tuesday will be opening three days of concentrated work on setting the 1958 valuations upon which public utilities will pay their taxes for this year.

Sitting as a board of equalization and review, the seven-member board previously held public hearings in which the railroads, water, electric and other utility companies could protest the tentative valuations.

At that time, Western Maryland asked and received special permission to make an additional appearance Tuesday when the board begins its annual meeting to set the final assessments.

Normally, no further representations are heard after the board conducts the usual three days of public hearings.

Scheduled to appear Tuesday was Eugene S. Williams, Western Maryland attorney and retired board chairman of the carrier.

Western Maryland's tentative 1958 assessment is 13 million dollars. Formal objection to that tax base was entered at the earlier hearings.

On appeals to the Mineral County Circuit Court, Western Maryland's assessment for 1955 taxes was cut from 13 million to 9½ millions, and its 1956 assessment was reduced from 15 millions to 9½ millions.

The state appealed both decisions and the cases are now before the Supreme Court.

Western Maryland property for tax purposes was set in 1957 at 12½ millions. The company appealed from that figure and the case is pending in the circuit court of Mineral County.

Past Chiefs' Group Will Meet Today

FROSTBURG — The Past Chiefs Association of Calanthe Temple 3, Pythian Sisters, will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Kate Myers, Water Street.

Flora Logsdon will preside at the meeting. Plans will be made for the annual chicken dinner. Refreshments will be served.

Barton Bible School Opened Monday

BARTON — The annual Vacation Bible School of the Methodist Church opened Monday and will be held through June 27 from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

Mrs. Clarence Penman is supervisor with Mrs. David Ross as assistant. Singing is lead by Miss Ruth Deniker with Betty Lou Preston as pianist.

Games for the Junior and Intermediate classes are in charge of George Lauder, Jr.

P. J. Keeley Dies At Elkins

ELKINS (AP) — The retired vice president of the Keeley Construction Co., who came to this country as a child from Clifden County, Galway, Ireland, died here Monday at the age of 83.

Patrick Joseph Keeley resided in Elkins about 50 years after living in Upshur County when he came to this country with his parents and brothers.

Keeley and three brothers formed the Keeley Construction Co., which became a familiar builder of West Virginia roads. He was the last surviving member of the Irish family here.

He retired several years ago as vice president of the construction firm because of ill health.

Bell Ringers Will Play At State College

FROSTBURG — The Potomac Hand Bell Ringers will appear in Compton Hall at Frostburg State Teachers College June 20 at 8:15 p. m. at the opening presentation of the current season sponsored by Frostburg community programs, Inc.

Organized in 1954 by Nancy Poore Tufts, Washington, the group now consists of 12 artists who, with over 50 hand bells, produce music in both four and eight part harmony.

This group, which has entertained at both indoor and outdoor functions throughout the east, has met with enthusiastic audiences wherever they appeared. Homemakers clubs of Maryland were instrumental in having the Bell Ringers included in this year's program, having heard them at College Park during their last convention held there.

They will present a program consisting of both contemporary and classical numbers, arranged for bells by the bellmaster of the group, Nancy Poore Tufts.

St. Peter's Alumni Plans Communion Breakfast Aug. 31

WESTERNPORT — Alumni Association of St. Peter's High School will hold a Communion breakfast Sunday, August 31, according to tentative plans made by the group at a meeting at the school recently.

Additional plans will be made Thursday, June 26, when the officers of the Alumni will meet at the home of Piedmont Council No. 685, Knights of Columbus, Piedmont, to name standing committees for the year.

Sacred Song Service Planned

MT. LAKE PARK — The 13th annual sacred song service will be held at Camp Meeting Tabernacle here beginning at 1 p. m. Sunday, June 22. The program will continue throughout the afternoon.

Instrumental music will precede the song service. Choirs, quartets, trios, solos and duets from the area are expected to participate and invitations have been extended to singers and musicians to take part. This is not a contest and no prizes are to be awarded, sponsors explain.

Keyser Bank Pays $1.50 Per Share

Harvey Gortner To Retire From Automobile Business

GRANTSVILLE—Harvey Gortner will relinquish his automobile business July 1 after having been active in the community over the past 35 years.

At that time the Motor Service Company will be taken over by Dale Kinsinger and Robert Diehl.

Kinsinger is 28 years of age and married to the former Audrey Schaffer, daughter of Mrs. Walter Beitzel. His father is pastor of the Meadow Mountain Church and a mechanical engineer with a Grantsville concern. He and his family are living in a newly acquired trailer here. Both he and his wife are active in the life of the community. His wife is in nurse's training in Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital at Johnstown.

Diehl, 23, is a son of Dr. Clayton Diehl, Frostburg. He married Shelby Sisler, daughter of Clarence Sisler. They have two children. Diehl is a grandson of Floyd Diehl who was a partner of Gortner for a number of years.

Gortner will be associated with the Gortner Motor Sales, Inc., in Morgantown, after July 1. He was recently complimented by the Ford Motor Company at a branch manager's meeting for doing more for young people in getting them started in business than any other person in that company.

Gortner has sponsored in past years five boys in a merchandising school at Dearborn, Mich. He has set up new businesses in various towns in the area which have been taken over by younger business men. The Gortner Motor Sales in Keyser is now owned by Willard Gortner. The Confluence Ford Sales is now owned by Ward Newman and Don Kaufman. The Gortner Ford Sales in Meyersdale was sold to Henry Beamer. The Morgantown establishment was purchased in 1951 and operated under the Beamer Ford Sales. This has been changed to Gortner Motor Sales, Inc., with Harvey Gortner as president; Mrs. Donald Stout, vice president; Mrs. Gene Kirk, secretary-treasurer and Gene Kirk, executive vice president and manager.

Gortner has remained active in the civic affairs of the community and elsewhere. He has been a director of Camp Sequinota, Lutheran youth camp at Jennerstown, Pa., for the past eight years and a member of the board of directors of Meyersdale Community Hospital the past six years.

He and his wife plan to divide their time between Morgantown and Grantsville for the present and retain their home here.

Playground Group Names Committees

FROSTBURG — The Braddock Playground Association, Inc., held its monthly meeting on the patio at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bond with James Lancaster presiding.

Committees were appointed and final plans made for the opening June 23. The prize of the evening was won by Mrs. James Lancaster.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Pugh, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hochard, Mrs. Clyde Weitzell, Mrs. Malcolm Layman, Mrs. Joseph Whetstone, Mrs. Kenneth Crowe, Mrs. Edward Carder, Mrs. Robert Fisher, Mrs. Frederick Snelson, Mrs. Earl Thomas, Mrs. Edgar Miller, Mrs. George Wellings and Miss Judith Harrison, playground supervisor.

Homemakers Have Meeting

FROSTBURG—The Midlothian Homemakers met a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Matthew Willetts. Mrs. Thomas Simmons, president, presided. Roll call was answered with each member telling their favorite oven dish. Mrs. Edith Ritchie, Mrs. Mason Diehl and Mrs. Matthew Skidmore were selected delegates to attend the Rural Women's Short Course at College Park. Mrs. Skidmore modeled a dress which she made recently. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Skidmore's home.

Expansion Plan Announced By Garment Plants

Keyser Firms Need More Employes

KEYSER—Keyser's two garment plants—the So Rite Lingerie Company and the Keyser Garment Company—are planning expansion that would result in 50 per cent increase in production for each plant.

Paul Miller, owner and manager of the So Rite firm, stated his company must have an additional 20 employes by September to fill anticipated orders. He placed an order a week ago with the Singer Sewing Machine Company for additional machines.

Dave Klein, president of the Keyser Garment Company, recently acquired 6,000 additional square feet of space which will make room for 35 additional machines. This means work for about 50 people and will bring the total employment to more than 125 persons.

Both managers stress that outside factors in the garment industry could affect their own expansion program, but each expressed optimism in their future.

The Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce and the Mineral County School Board are jointly sponsoring a training school for sewing machine operators, which will help meet the employe needs of the two garment plants. A course of instruction lasts 40 hours, covering five week days and allows the school to graduate up to 12 operators each week. Both garment factories are cooperating and furnishing material remnants to the school and aiding in other ways to turn out qualified operators. A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce has urged all interested women between the ages of 18 and 50 to apply for the school. Application blanks are available in the chamber offices or at Church Street School where the sewing operating instructions are given.

An interesting aspect of the local garment manufacturing plants is that neither plant is technically a manufacturer, but is a contractor making garments for a "manufacturer" in New York. This "manufacturer" is not in fact a "manufacturer" at all, but a design and sales agent for the Keyser products.

The So Rite Lingerie Company produces women's and children's pajamas and dusters.

The Keyser Garment Company occupies the entire hangar facility of Ludwick's Airport on New Creek Drive.

Legion Plans Picnic

LONACONING—James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion, will hold a picnic on Sunday, June 29, from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. at the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area, which is located near Lonaconing.

Cumberland Stops Midland, Barton Cops Twilight Lead

Jones Hands Injuns First Defeat, 17-4

Cage Gets 4 Hits; Johnson Wins 4th For Barton, 7-4

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Team	W	L	Pct.
Barton	9	1	.900
Midland	8	1	.889
Westernport	6	3	.667
Cumberland	5	5	.500
Zihlman	5	5	.500
Lonaconing	3	6	.333
Wright's Crossing	2	7	.222
Finzel	0	10	.000

Cumberland handed Midland its first defeat of the season in the Twilight Baseball League and knocked the Indians out of first place by winning by the lopsided score of 17-4 yesterday at Taylor Field.

The loss was Midland's first in nine outings and the win enabled Cumberland to avenge an earlier 8-6 setback.

Barton's defending champions took over the league leadership by beating Finzel at Barton by the score of 7-4.

In another game, Lonaconing downed Zihlman, 7 to 2.

No report was received on the Westernport at Wright's Crossing game.

In the contest here, Cumberland scored in every inning but the third and hammered Midland pitching for 18 hits. The "big gun" was Ronnie Cage, who helped himself to a triple, two doubles and a single. Clarence "Pooch" Lewis and Paul Stickley collected a pair of two-baggers and a single each.

Jones Strikes Out Ten

Russ Jones, Fort Hill High School pitching ace, worked on the hillock for Cumberland, scattered seven hits and struck out ten. Dunn obtained two of Midland's safeties. Winters, who was relieved by Bill Blake in the 5th, was tagged with the loss.

The victory was Cumberland's 5th against as many losses and tied the locals with Zihlman for fourth place.

Barton Cops 5th In Row

Barton registered its fifth consecutive win and moved to the top of the league with a 9-1 record.

Billy "Gas House" Johnson posted his fourth straight victory for Barton. He scattered seven hits and struck out five. Ronnie Rice, Finzel hurler, fanned six. The loss was the tenth a row for Finzel.

Woody Symons of Barton, hammered a 365-foot homer with a teammate aboard and also had a single. Ronnie "Butch" Young collected a double and single, Johnny Johnson a pair of one-base knocks and Jim Wilson a two-bagger. Dan Puffenburg accounted for two of Finzel's hits while H. Wood and Rice smacked three-baggers.

Tosses One-Hitter

Lancaster hurled a one-hitter and mowed down ten via the strikeout route in Lonaconing's triumph over Zihlman.

Robert Keister's triple following two walks produced Zihlman's two runs in the fifth frame.

"Cokie" Robertson sparked Lonaconing's 12-hit assault with a double and two singles. "Ike" Love blasted a pair of triples and Dawson and Hank Winner garnered two hits each.

The scores:

Clare Emery Heads Qualifiers For PGA

BALTIMORE (AP)—Clare Emery of the Washington Golf and Country Club led four qualifiers out of a field of 30 Monday seeking berths in the national Professional Golfers Assn. championship.

The championship will be played July 17-20 at the Llanerch Country Club in Philadelphia.

Emery shot 71-77 for 148 on the par 72 Hillendale course. His first round was the only one under par on the windy 6,923-yard course.

Qualifying along with Emery were Andy Gibson, Country Club of Maryland, with 73-76—149, Jack Isaacs, Langley, Va., 75-75—150, and Walter Romans, Baltimore Country Club, 73-77—150.

Charlie Bassler of Rolling Road will play in the national PGA, having qualified automatically as Middle Atlantic champion.

Win Close Ones

The ability to win the "close ones" is a characteristic of a good ball club, and the Pirates are currently leading the National League in winning one-run games. The Pirates have won ten heart-stoppers by that margin and dropped only three, as of June 13, for a winning percentage of .769. Slugging R. C. Stevens has provided the winning RBI in three of those nine wins.

BONUS BABIES—Members of the Central Michigan college baseball team this last spring, Spencer Scott (left) and Marv Schultz congratulate each other—and for good reason. Each received bonuses for signing big league contracts. Scott reportedly got $21,000 from the Cubs and Schultz a reported $25,000 from Redlegs. (UPI Telephotos)

Ten Of 16 Major Teams Figure In Player Swaps

Craft Will Play Simpson At First

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Big Don Newcombe and the Dodgers finally have parted company in the latest move of a series of player swaps that should make scorecards a hot item in 11 major league parks.

Los Angeles traded Newk to Cincinnati for Steve Bilko, hulking first baseman, and Johnny Klippstein, a useful righthanded pitcher in the major National League transaction before the June 15th midnight trading deadline.

Kansas City was the most active American League team with six new men to show for a busy weekend of trading with New York and Cleveland.

Ten Clubs Make Move

Every club in the American League except Boston, Washington and Baltimore made a move in the final days and all in the National except Chicago and San Francisco.

Although Newcombe has a sorry 0-6 record and has been involved in several hassles with the management, it was a surprise to find him traded.

The Dodgers hope that Bilko will be the man to take advantage of the handy little left field screen.

To Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Redlegs, Newcombe, 32, is expected to be the "front line guy who can make it big for us."

St. Louis picked up infield insurance in Gene Freese and Johnny O'Brien of Pittsburgh in exchange for bonus shortstop Dick Schofield and also believes it strengthened its pitching by acquiring 41-year-old Sal Maglie from New York. Freese has seen little action with the Pirates.

Phils Get Sawatski

The other National League moves were minor in nature, involving the transfer of catcher Carl Sawatski from Milwaukee to Philadelphia for Joe Lonnett, who was farmed out, and the recall by the Braves of pitcher Carlton Willey from their Wichita farm.

Kansas City came up with some lefthanded hitters in first baseman Harry Simpson of New York, right fielder Roger Maris and infielder Preston Ward of Cleveland.

Manager Harry Craft of the A's says he will play Simpson on first and use Ward, who is hitting .338, as a pinch hitter. Simpson had a .216 average with the Yankee but was a big power threat with the A's in other years.

The A's also patched up their infield with Chico Carrasquel, formerly of Cleveland, at third base, and added relief pitcher Bob Grim, formerly the Yankees and Dick Tomanek, a lefthanded starter from Cleveland.

Cleveland may have found the answer to its center field problem in Woody Held of Kansas City and fancy Vic Power takes care of first base where Ward and Mickey Vernon have been splitting the work. Power has a 22-game hitting streak. Billy Hunter, late of the A's, was fitted into the infield as the regular shortstop over the weekend.

The Yanks customary deal with the A's found Casey Stengel picking up another spot starter in Duke Maas, a fast ball pitcher who moved from Detroit to Kansas City last winter. Casey also took on 39-year-old Virgil Trucks, who has made most of the stops around the league, as his relief replacement for Grim and No. 2 man to Ryne Duren.

Goodman To Play First

Al Lopez came up with a right-handed batting third baseman in Ray Boone of Detroit. Now he plans to let Billy Goodman shift back to first base for at least part time duty. Lopez' Chicago White Sox also acquired a young pitcher, Bob Shaw, from Detroit.

Detroit took on Tito Francona, a lefthanded hitting outfielder who was hitting .258 at Chicago, and righthand pitcher Bill Fischer, another White Sox who will be used on relief.

Power, Kaline And Colavito Pounding Ball

Musial Is Hitless In Last 17 At Bats

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Musial's slump which threatens to become the worst of his career and the hitting streaks of Vic Power, Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito were the outstanding developments Monday in the major league batting races.

Musial has gone hitless in his last 17 times at bat and his average has dropped from .419 to .381. The St. Louis star has tumbled into second place in the National League competition behind San Francisco's Willie Mays, who also had trouble getting base hits last week.

Mays collected only four hits in 26 tries and his mark fell 29 points to .387.

1953 Worst Slump

Musial's most protracted slump during his 17 years in the majors was a 0-for-21 performance early in the 1953 campaign.

Meanwhile, while pace-setting Bob Nieman of Baltimore has been on the sidelines with an injury, the American League race has been highlighted by the hefty hitting of Power, Kaline, Colavito and the veteran Mickey Vernon, a two-time batting champ.

Vernon's hot bat presents a problem for Cleveland Manager Bobby Bragan who now finds himself with two of the circuit's prolific batsmen at the first base position. Power, the Kansas City first sacker, was obtained by Cleveland in one of Sunday's numerous deals.

Vernon moved into second place in the batting derby with a .365 mark.

Hits In 22 Games

Power has hit safely in his last 22 games — a major league high for the season. The skein lifted his average from .239 to .302.

Colavito, another Cleveland mainstay, is on a 12 game hitting streak which boosted his percentage from .270 to .314.

Kaline, whose inept batting caused Detroit officials much concern early in the season, has connected safely in his last 14 games. Al gained 38 points to .300.

Nieman has been out since June 3 when he was hit on the hand with a batted ball. He was batting .367.

Solly Hemus of Philadelphia also is on a batting streak. He has hit in 15 straight games, giving him a season's mark of .359.

Frankie Ryff Beats Tibbs

New Yorker Given Nod In Close Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Frankie Ryff of New York came from behind Monday night to score a narrow but unanimous decision over Tommy Tibbs of Boston in a telecast 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Ryff weighed 135½, Tibbs 134½.

There were some boos from the crowd of 1,056 which paid $1,840. A quick poll of writers at the ringside showed a 10-0 vote for Tibbs.

The officials, whose votes counted, however, scored for Ryff this way:

Referee Ray Miller, 5-4-1; Judge Tony Castellano, 6-4; and Judge Mike Davidowitch 5-5 in rounds but 6-5 in points.

Clifford Ann Creed College Medalist

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Clifford Ann Creed, 19, won medalist honors in the Women's National Collegiate Golf Tournament with a two-over-par 75 Monday.

Clifford Ann, a sophomore at Lamar Tech, Beaumont, Tex., by the way of Opelousas, La., led Joanne Gunderson, the National Amateur Champion representing Arizona State, by a single stroke.

Joanne, whose home is Kirland, Wash., paced the 18-hole qualifying test with her 76 until Miss Creed came in at mid-afternoon with a 75.

Judy Kimball of Sioux City, Iowa, playing for Kansas University, flashed a par 35 on the second nine after an opening 42. Her 77 was good for third place. Defending champion Meriam Bailey of Northwestern University had an 80 for fourth place, a stroke ahead of Elaine Woodman of Wichita U.

Finzel	0	10	.000

Cumberland handed Midland its first defeat of the season in the Twilight Baseball League and knocked the Indians out of first place by winning by the lopsided score of 17-4 yesterday at Taylor Field.

The loss was Midland's first in nine outings and the win enabled Cumberland to avenge an earlier 8-6 setback.

Barton's defending champions took over the league leadership by beating Finzel at Barton by the score of 7-4.

In another game, Lonaconing downed Zihlman, 7 to 2.

No report was received on the Westernport at Wright's Crossing game.

In the contest here, Cumberland scored in every inning but the third and hammered Midland pitching for 18 hits. The "big gun" was Ronnie Cage, who helped himself to a triple, two doubles and a single. Clarence "Pooch" Lewis and Paul Stickley collected a pair of two-baggers and a single each.

Jones Strikes Out Ten

Russ Jones, Fort Hill High School pitching ace, worked on the hillock for Cumberland, scattered seven hits and struck out ten. Dunn obtained two of Midland's safeties. Winters, who was relieved by Bill Blake in the 5th, was tagged with the loss.

The victory was Cumberland's 5th against as many losses and tied the locals with Zihlman for fourth place.

Barton Cops 5th In Row

Barton registered its fifth consecutive win and moved to the top of the league with a 9-1 record.

Billy "Gas House" Johnson posted his fourth straight victory for Barton. He scattered seven hits and struck out five. Ronnie Rice, Finzel hurler, fanned six. The loss was the tenth in a row for Finzel.

Woody Symons of Barton, hammered a 365-foot homer with a teammate aboard and also had a single. Ronnie "Butch" Young collected a double and single, Johnny Johnson a pair of one-base knocks and Jim Wilson a two-bagger. Dan Puffenburg accounted for two of Finzel's hits while H. Wood and Rice smacked three-baggers.

Tosses One-Hitter

Lancaster hurled a one-hitter and mowed down ten via the strikeout route in Lonaconing's triumph over Zihlman.

Robert Keister's triple following two walks produced Zihlman's two runs in the fifth frame.

"Cokie" Robertson sparked Lonaconing's 12-hit assault with a double and two singles. "Ike" Love blasted a pair of triples and Dawson and Hank Winner garnered two hits each.

Eddie Bouchee Rejoins Phils, Ready To Play

Says He Doesn't Have Rabbit Ears

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I haven't got rabbit ears. Baseball is my life and I'm ready to face anything to return to the game."

So said Edward Francis Bouchee in his first meeting with the press, radio and television corps since his plea of guilty to a morals charge dealt him out of organized baseball.

Bouchee, 25, a .291 hitter for the Philadelphia Phillies as a rookie first baseman last year, was a picture of confidence as he fired answers to a barrage of questions.

He got the big pitch right off the bat. Does he feel up to taking the possible barbs which fans and, in some cases, opposing players may hurl at him?

"I'm as well prepared as I can be. I've talked it over with the doctors. We expect it. I'm here to play baseball, not to listen to boos and unthinking remarks. I've never had rabbit ears and I don't expect to develop them now."

Bouchee stood on the dugout steps at Connie Mack Stadium where he had just finished a workout under the supervision of Phillies' coach Benny Bengough.

When will Bouchee rejoin the Phillies?

"I'm ready, now," said Eddie.

"I'd say he could step into the lineup immediately," interjected Bengough. "He's really been hitting the ball hard. Eddie is a natural hitter. Do you know that last year he was third in the National League at getting on base, behind Willie Mays and Stan Musial?"

Owner Bob Carpenter said Bouchee's return was in the hands of three people—the psychiatrist, the probation officer and baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

Yankees, Pirates, Braves Cop Dapper Dan Loop Openers

Gary Lueck's three-run single in the top of the 6th inning enabled the Yankees to come from behind and defeat the Cardinals by the score of 7-6 yesterday at Post Field in one of the three games played on opening day in the Dapper Dan Little League.

Lueck's hit through the middle with the hassocks loaded came with two out in the final inning and enabled the Yanks to win their Dapper Division lid-lifter.

Russ Reynolds went all the way for the winners, yielded six hits and fanned six. Ronsley, losing hurler, fanned seven.

Jim Hudson and Bob Helmick shared four of the Yankees' eight hits. Horwath had two hits for the Cards.

In another Dapper Division tilt at Penn Avenue Field, the Pirates nosed out the Red Sox, 9 to 8.

Wayne Jewell hurled for the Pirates, struck out seven and had a perfect day at the plate with four hits to his credit. Lon Lewis and John Irons smashed homers and Yaider made several nice catches in left field. Graham belted a homer and two singles and Robinson had two hits for the Sox. Malone, losing twirler, whiffed six.

The Braves trimmed the Indians in a Dan Division game at East Side Field by the score of 15-8. The winning team collected only six hits but four were homers by Allan and Mike Kelly, Charles Coffman and Ronnie Selby. Mike Kelly hurled for the Braves and gave up five hits, two of which were obtained by Martin. The scores:

Tebbetts Feels Change Will Do Newcombe Good

Dodgers Trade Big Pitcher For Cincy's Klippstein, Bilko

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP)—Burly Don Newcombe hasn't won a game yet this season but Cincinnati Redleg "brass" held hopes Monday that he can provide the pitching necessary to bring this baseball hotbed its first National League pennant since 1940.

There is a big "if" attached, however.

That is the question of whether Newcombe can regain something akin to his 1956 form. He was a disappointment last year and has had even a more miserable start this season with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But about an hour before the trading deadline Sunday night Redleg General Manager Gabe Paul climaxed a two-year series of offers and got Newcombe from the Dodgers in exchange for first baseman Steve Bilko and pitcher Johnny Klippstein.

"If Newcombe goes big for us, it could mean the pennant," said Paul. "Taking him is a gamble we feel is justified."

Cincinnati manager Birdie Tebbetts had the same thought in mind as he said:

"Newcombe could do a real big job for us and if he can regain the form he had in 1956 he can win the pennant for us."

Tebbetts said Monday, "We need a front line guy who can make it big for us and we believe Newcombe is the one who can do it."

After the 1956 season it was reported Paul offered the then Brooklyn Dodgers a quarter of a million dollars for Newcombe but was turned down. Since then he has tried repeatedly to get the big hurler.

"It's like running out a ball to first base," he said. "You just don't quit running because you were thrown out the first time."

"Newcombe is sound (physically)," said Tebbetts, "and we feel the change will do him good."

Billy Lovett notched his fifth straight win of the season yesterday when he pitched the Cresaptown Lions to a 7-4 decision over Mt. Savage in a Bi-State Pony Baseball League game at Mt. Savage.

The Lions' ace limited the home team to four hits which were shared by Deffenbaugh and Bridges and fired the third strike past 12 batsmen. Joe Nolan, Mt. Savage hurler, was nicked for nine safeties. He fanned five.

Home runs accounted for six of the winning team's eight runs.

Six of Cresaptown's eight runs were the result of circuit blasts. McKenzie hit a pair of round-trippers and Davis belted a grand slammer during a five-run rally in the third.

Beeman Strikes Out Ten

Frostburg's Frosties remained tied with Cresaptown for the league leadership by walloping Ellerslie on the latter's field by the score of 14-1.

Mel Beeman, making his first start for Frostburg, tossed a four-hitter and struck out ten.

Jim-Bo Evans smashed his fourth homer of the season and also banged a triple to pace the Frosties' attack. Dave Kerch homered and singled and Joe Delaney smacked a two-bagger. Ellerslie's hits were singles by "Tiny" Faulkner, Jim DeHaven, John Klahre and Ed Burkey.

LaVale Belts 'Coney

LaVale racked up 14 hits and crushed Lonaconing at Parkside Field by the score of 20 to 5.

Ted Femi paced the assault with a triple and two singles, Wharton and Kelly had a double and single each and Willetts and Mickey Scaletta rapped two-baggers for the winners. Fair garnered a triple and single, Sloan a three-bagger and R. Wilson a double for 'Coney. The scores:

Frostburg Legion Leads By 46 Points In Shuffle Series

Farrady Post, Frostburg American Legion, advanced another step toward its sixth consecutive championship in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League by defeating the Hi-Dee Bar by the score of 83-66 in the second three-game set of their nine-game series last night at Frostburg.

The defending champions now lead by 46 points, 183 to 137, at the end of six games.

Phyllis Geis was high scorer for Farrady Post with 21 points. Max Burke and Leona O'Neal headed Hi-Dee with 14 points each.

The last three games of the series will be shot Wednesday at 8:30 p. m., at Hi-Dee Bar.

A Lot Of Air

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Health instructor Dave Geddes has done extensive study of athletic fatigue. He gets an idea of a man's endurance power by use of a spirometer, a machine that tests the exchange of air in the body.

Geddes says the average person exchanges about 120 quarts of air per minute. But he once tested famed Australian miler John Landy and found that he had the ability to exchange 295 quarts of air per minute, more than any other man ever tested. Landy holds the world record of 3:58 in the mile.

Frostburg Legion Leads By 46 Points In Shuffle Series

Farrady Post, Frostburg American Legion, advanced another step toward its sixth consecutive championship in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League by defeating the Hi-Dee Bar by the score of 83-66 in the second three-game set of their nine-game series last night at Frostburg.

The defending champions now lead by 46 points, 183 to 137, at the end of six games.

Phyllis Geis was high scorer for Farrady Post with 21 points. Max Burke and Leona O'Neal headed Hi-Dee with 14 points each.

The last three games of the series will be shot Wednesday at 8:30 p. m., at Hi-Dee Bar.

A Lot Of Air

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Health instructor Dave Geddes has done extensive study of athletic fatigue. He gets an idea of a man's endurance power by use of a spirometer, a machine that tests the exchange of air in the body.

Geddes says the average person exchanges about 120 quarts of air per minute. But he once tested famed Australian miler John Landy and found that he had the ability to exchange 295 quarts of air per minute, more than any other man ever tested. Landy holds the world record of 3:58 in the mile.

Elks Win Over B'nai B'rith

Redinger Gets Four Hits In 8-6 Battle

The B.P.O. Elks scored their second win of the season in the Hot Stove Baseball League last evening by defeating B'nai B'rith at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 8-6.

Manager Howard Northcraft of the Elks used three pitchers, namely, Zembower, Shipway and Rice, and the trio fanned 16 and issued nine bases on balls. Glenn Shipway received credit for his second win of the campaign. He whiffed ten.

Deatelhauser, B'nai B'rith hurler, yielded 10 hits, struck out 12 and issued only one pass.

Ray Redinger paced the Elks at the plate with four hits in as many trips, including a home run. Shipway collected a pair of doubles in four official at bats.

Billy Norris led B'nai B'rith's batsmen with three singles while Hopwood blasted a homer and single.

The Elks are now 2-1 and B'nai B'rith 0-3.

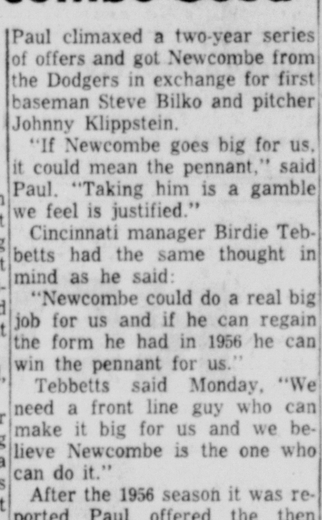

Score:

Nelson Rides Five Winners At Delaware

Equals Hartack's Record Of 1955

STANTON, Del., June 16 (AP) — Horsemen, rather than horses, stole the show at Delaware Park today, led by Eldon Nelson, 30-year-old jockey star from Glenrose, Okla.

Nelson scored with five of his six mounts to equal the Delaware Park riding record set by Bill Hartack who had five winners and two unplaced on June 7, 1955.

Nelson's victory included that on Staysail in the featured Princess Doreen Purse which gave Christiana Stable — owned by Wilmington's Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Lunger—and Trainer Henry S. Clark a double on the card. A $3.60 for $2 favorite in the mile and a sixteenth main event for three-year-olds. Staysail whipped W. M. Jefford's Candace by three lengths in 1:45 2/5. Mrs. Colin MacLeod's Balmacara was third.

Trainer Warren A. Croll Jr. of Paoli, Pa., saddled both winners of the $171.80 daily double—Cosmic Bess, $40.80, Fand Procella, a $7.80 favorite—both owned by Roy E. Faircloth. Apprentice Anthony Presti, 24, of Philadelphia, had the thrill of winning for the first time when he rallied Cosmic Bess to register by a neck. He is employed by Croll, who led all Delaware trainers in 1956.

Procella was veteran Jockey Nelson's first winner of the day. The popular pilot who had divided his time between race riding and cattle ranching in Oklahoma later clicked on Colic, $13.20, for Christian Stable in the fourth contest; Necromancer, $10.40, in the fifth; the heavily-backed Staysail in the sixth, then on Lt. Jay Gee, $13.20, in the seventh. Nelson was unplaced in the day's opener and skipped the third race, a hurdles affair.

Frick Turns Down Disabled Status For Don Bessent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers have been denied permission to place pitcher Don Bessent on the disabled list.

Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick notified the club Monday that he would not approve the request without an investigation of Bessent's case.

The Dodgers made the request after acquiring Steve Bilko and Johnny Klippstein from Cincinnati in exchange for Don Newcombe. The deal left the Dodgers one man over the 25-player limit so they asked that Bessent be given disabled status to cut their roster back to legal size.

The club said Bessent has had arm trouble for about a month.

Monmouth Minus Pool Is $1,696

OCEANPORT, N. J., June 16 (AP) — Reverie Knoll Farms' Romanita spurted past B. A. Dario's Venomous, the 4-5 favorite, to win today's princess Doreen Purse at Monmouth Park by a length and a half.

Ridden by Bill Hartack, Romanita rallied from third position along the backstretch to win the six furlong sprint. The 4-year-old Roman filly, winner of the 1957 Monmouth Oaks, was timed in 1.13 4/5 over the good track and paid $5.20 to win and $2.20 to place. There was no show betting in the event which attracted a field of five fillies and mares.

With $37,504 of the total place pool of $57,299 riding on Venomous, the latter saved the runner-up spot by a neck over the fast closing Stay Smoochie, the only 3-year-old in the race. Venomous, winner of the Cherry Blossom and Colonial Handicaps this spring, returned $2.20 to place.

The track made up a minus pool of $1,696.05 on the race.

Scholastic Ability On Par With Sports

PAWTUCKET, R. I., (AP)—Tolman High School placed scholastic distinction on a par with athletic ability in honor awards Wednesday.

Eight seniors — four boys and four girls — who had averaged 90 per cent or better in their three years of study were awarded school sweaters which heretofore have gone only to athletes who had earned their letters in at least five sports.

Mistaken Identity

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Bob (Deacon) Howsam, general manager of the American Assn. Denver Bears, got his Stans mixed up at baseball banquet here.

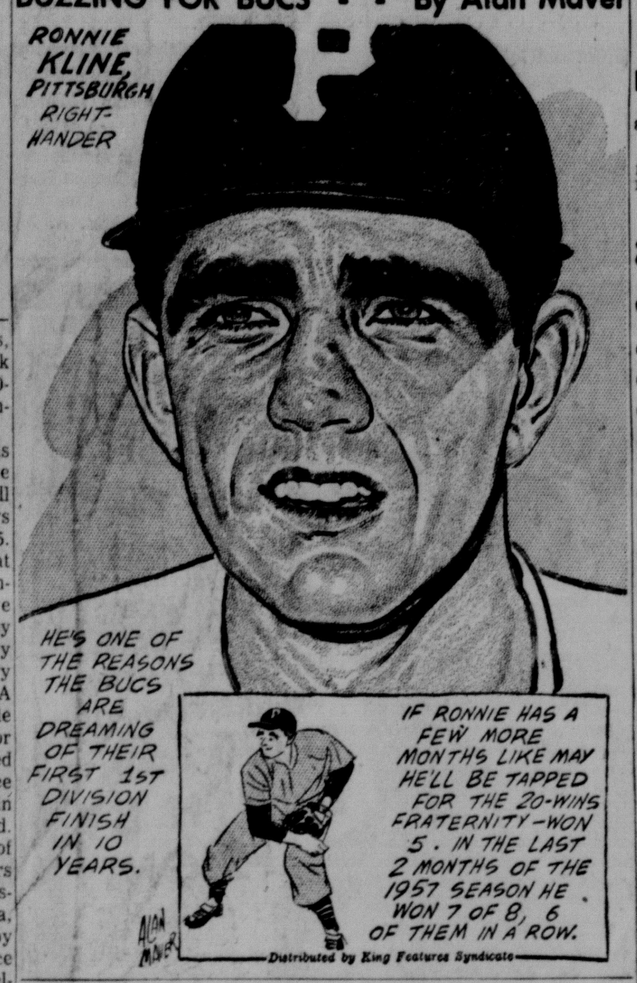

He spent considerable time giving the highlights of the baseball career of Stan Musial, the great St. Louis Cardinal. Then he said:

"It gives me great pleasure to introduce Stan Williams."

Neither Musial nor Williams appeared.

Somebody whispered to Howsam, who corrected himself. Musial stepped forward. Howsam, slightly red-faced, explained that Williams is a Denver youth owned by the Los Angeles Dodgers—a pitcher Musial may have to face sooner or later. Williams now is with the Dodgers.

Campy May Spend Weekends At Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Campanella may soon be spending weekends home with the family.

A doctor at the NYU-Bellevue Medical Center, where the paralyzed Los Angeles Dodger catcher has been confined since May 5, said today Campanella has been making such fine progress he may be allowed to spend weekends at home beginning next month.

Campanella is still paralyzed from the hips down as a result of his automobile accident last Jan. 28. Roy has progressed to the point where he spends most of the day in a wheel chair.

May Hickok Award Goes To Stan Musial

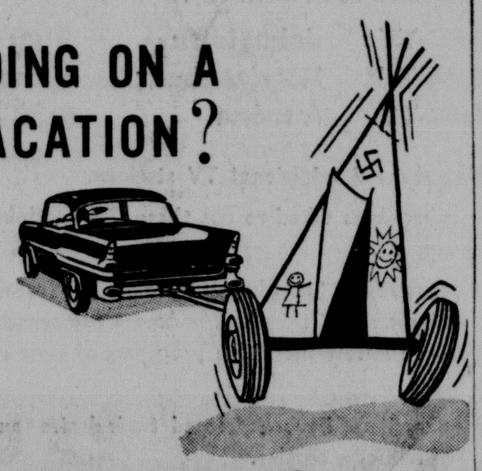

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial Monday was named winner of the May award in the S. Rae Hickok pro athlete of the year poll.

The St. Louis slugger collected the 3,000th hit of his career during his torrid batting streak through the month.

Musial, with 221 points in the monthly balloting, beat out jockey Ismael Valenzuela, who rode Tim Tam to victory in both the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. The jockey got 180 points.

Jimmy Bryan, winner of the Indianapolis 500 mile auto race, was third with 55 points.

Orioles Recall Charley Beamon

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles Monday recalled pitcher Charley Beamon from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, where he has been only one week.

The Orioles also sent pitcher Ronnie Moeller back to Vancouver, from where he was brought up on May 12.

Beamon, a right-hander, won two games within a week at Vancouver. In his earlier stint here he had won one and lost one and had a 3.56 earned run average in 17 2-3 innings.

Moeller, a lefty, was without a decision in 4 1-3 innings. Batters nicked him for six hits and two runs. His record with Vancouver was 3-1.

Restless Wind Takes National Stallion Stakes

ELMONT, N. Y., June 16—(AP) — Llangollen Farm's Restless Wind came off the pace to win the 46th running of the colt division of the $32,020 National Stallion Stakes at Belmont Park today.

The chunky son of Windy City 2nd-Lump Sugar, hard ridden by Eddie Arcaro, took the five furlong 2-year-old classic run on the Widener straightaway course by a head over E. Leigh Cotton's First Minister, who finished a length and a quarter ahead of Circle M Farm's Watch Your Step. A nose out of the money was Claiborne Farm's Bagdad.

Restless Wind gave Jockey Arcaro his seventh triumph in the stakes. The time was a slow :58 4/5 with the field bucking a 10-20 mile head wind.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 23,107, Restless Wind paid $3.90, $2.70 and $2.20. First Minister returned $6.30 and $3.30 and Watch Your Step was $2.70 to show.

The victory was worth $20,153 net to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lunn, mistress of Llangollen Farm, an Upperville, Va., sportswoman.

Tim Tam May Race After Operation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tim Tam, star of the 1958 horse-racing season, underwent final preparations Monday for an operation that veterinary surgeons said could leave him physically "as good as before" he suffered a leg injury.

Dr. Jacques Jenny, head of the University of Pennsylvania veterinary school, first perfected the operation for an injury such as that suffered by Tim Tam as he finished second in the Belmont Stakes.

Jimmy Jones, trainer for Calumet Farm, said previously that regardless of the outcome, Tim Tam would not race again. Tim Tam's value at stud apparently would be too great to risk another injury or possible sub-par performances.

Yankees Shut Out Twice For Third Time In 55 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—The double shutout hung on New York Sunday by Detroit pitchers Frank Lary and Jim Bunning was only the third time the Yankees have been shut out twice in one afternoon in their 55 year history in the American League.

A check into the record showed that this ignominy was pinned on the Yankees only twice before and by the same club—the Philadelphia Athletics.

Back on July 3, 1914, Chief Bender and Bob Shawkey, blanked the Yankees, 2-0 and 1-0 at the Polo Grounds, which the Yankees then shared with the Giants. Shawkey later was to manage the Yankees.

Thirty three years later, on May 30, 1947, Dick Fowler and Joe Coleman teamed up to shut out the Yankees 1-0 and 4-0.

CROWN GOLD Continues Where Others Leave Off

...and that accounts for

The BIG DIFFERENCE IN GASOLINES!

It's a well-known fact that all gasolines start with the same basic ingredients. And there are few special processes in the cracking of gasoline. What, then, accounts for the higher octane rating of CROWN GOLD gasoline?

It's simply that CROWN produces gasoline ONLY FOR AUTOMOTIVE USE, and all the high-energy components recovered by its Houston Refinery go into CROWN GOLD—the ultra-high octane gasoline.

SO MUCH FOR CROWN. NOW THE OTHERS

As opposed to CROWN's exclusive interest in automotive fuel, other gasoline marketers divert part of their highest octane components into aviation gasoline . . . and for other uses.

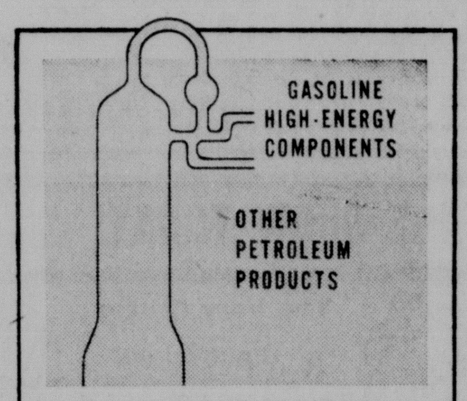

Since others divert substantial quantities of the high-energy components into the sale of aviation fuel, there remain less high-energy components available for their automotive fuel.

It should be noted that during the War, CROWN pioneered in the refining of high octane gasoline, and manufactured tremendous quantities of highest octane aviation fuels, exclusively. Also, CROWN sold high octane blending stocks to other companies for their vital aviation needs.

Today, CROWN's specialization in high octane motor fuels makes CROWN GOLD "TOPS" of all the top-octane automotive fuels — the better-balanced gasoline—that furnishes your car more power than nature's basic raw materials originally possessed!

IT'S A PROFIT STORY, TOO

Take a look at economics. Here CROWN also provides you with a Big Difference. Since CROWN retains all expensive high-energy components in its automotive fuel (instead of diverting part for aviation needs and other purposes), it is clear that CROWN puts a big part of its profit right back into the gasoline which goes into your car!

In brief, CROWN "custom-tailors" its gasoline to the automotive needs of today. The result is the highest octane fuel you can buy—yet, it sells for less than other super-premium gasolines! We invite you to try CROWN GOLD today. We know your car will prove the Big Difference!

Campy May Spend Weekends At Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Campanella may soon be spending weekends home with the family.

A doctor at the NYU-Bellevue Medical Center, where the paralyzed Los Angeles Dodger catcher has been confined since May 5, said today Campanella has been making such fine progress he may be allowed to spend weekends at home beginning next month.

Campanella is still paralyzed from the hips down as a result of his automobile accident last Jan. 28. Roy has progressed to the point where he spends most of the day in a wheel chair.

May Hickok Award Goes To Stan Musial

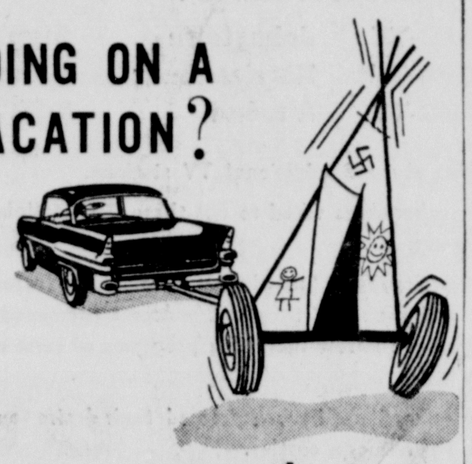

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial Monday was named winner of the May award in the S. Rae Hickok pro athlete of the year poll.

The St. Louis slugger collected the 3,000th hit of his career during his torrid batting streak through the month.

Musial, with 221 points in the monthly balloting, beat out jockey Ismael Valenzuela, who rode Tim Tam to victory in both the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. The jockey got 180 points.

Jimmy Bryan, winner of the Indianapolis 500 mile auto race, was third with 55 points.

Orioles Recall Charley Beamon

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles Monday recalled pitcher Charley Beamon from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, where he has been only one week.

The Orioles also sent pitcher Ronnie Moeller back to Vancouver, from where he was brought up on May 12.

Beamon, a right-hander, won two games within a week at Vancouver. In his earlier stint here he had won one and lost one and had a 3.56 earned run average in 17 2-3 innings.

Moeller, a lefty, was without a decision in 4 1-3 innings. Batters nicked him for six hits and two runs. His record with Vancouver was 3-1.

Restless Wind Takes National Stallion Stakes

ELMONT, N. Y., June 16—(AP) — Llangollen Farm's Restless Wind came off the pace to win the 46th running of the colt division of the $32,020 National Stallion Stakes at Belmont Park today.

The chunky son of Windy City 2nd-Lump Sugar, hard ridden by Eddie Arcaro, took the five furlong 2-year-old classic run on the Widener straightaway course by a head over E. Leigh Cotton's First Minister, who finished a length and a quarter ahead of Circle M Farm's Watch Your Step. A nose out of the money was Claiborne Farm's Bagdad.

Restless Wind gave Jockey Arcaro his seventh triumph in the stakes. The time was a slow :58 4/5 with the field bucking a 10-20 mile head wind.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 23,107, Restless Wind paid $3.90, $2.70 and $2.20. First Minister returned $6.30 and $3.30 and Watch Your Step was $2.70 to show.

The victory was worth $20,153 net to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lunn, mistress of Llangollen Farm, an Upperville, Va., sportswoman.

Tim Tam May Race After Operation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tim Tam, star of the 1958 horse-racing season, underwent final preparations Monday for an operation that veterinary surgeons said could leave him physically "as good as before" he suffered a leg injury.

Dr. Jacques Jenny, head of the University of Pennsylvania veterinary school, first perfected the operation for an injury such as that suffered by Tim Tam as he finished second in the Belmont Stakes.

Jimmy Jones, trainer for Calumet Farm, said previously that regardless of the outcome, Tim Tam would not race again. Tim Tam's value at stud apparently would be too great to risk another injury or possible sub-par performances.

Bucs Like Overtime

The Pirates have been successful in extra-inning ball games in 1958, winning four of the five they've engaged in, for a percentage of .800. R. C. "Recking Crew" Stevens is responsible for driving in the winning run in two of the overtime affairs.

Yankees Shut Out Twice For Third Time In 55 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—The double shutout hung on New York Sunday by Detroit pitchers Frank Lary and Jim Bunning was only the third time the Yankees have been shut out twice in one afternoon in their 55 year history in the American League.

A check into the record showed that this ignominy was pinned on the Yankees only twice before and by the same club—the Philadelphia Athletics.

Back on July 3, 1914, Chief Bender and Bob Shawkey, blanked the Yankees, 2-0 and 1-0 at the Polo Grounds, which the Yankees then shared with the Giants. Shawkey later was to manage the Yankees.

Thirty three years later, on May 30, 1947, Dick Fowler and Joe Coleman teamed up to shut out the Yankees 1-0 and 4-0.

CROWN GOLD Continues Where Others Leave Off

. . . and that accounts for

The BIG DIFFERENCE IN GASOLINES!

It's a well-known fact that all gasolines start with the same basic ingredients. And there are few special processes in the cracking of gasoline. What, then, accounts for the higher octane rating of CROWN GOLD gasoline?

It's simply that CROWN produces gasoline ONLY FOR AUTOMOTIVE USE, and all the high-energy components recovered by its Houston Refinery go into CROWN GOLD—the ultra-high octane gasoline.

SO MUCH FOR CROWN. NOW THE OTHERS

As opposed to CROWN's exclusive interest in automotive fuel, other gasoline marketers divert part of their highest octane components into aviation gasoline . . . and for other uses.

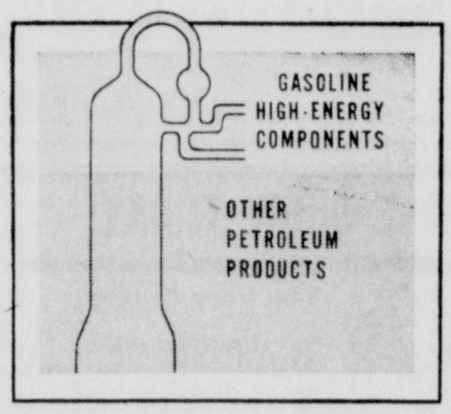

Since others divert substantial quantities of the high-energy components into the sale of aviation fuel, there remain less high-energy components available for their automotive fuel.

It should be noted that during the War, CROWN pioneered in the refining of high octane gasoline, and manufactured tremendous quantities of highest octane aviation fuels, exclusively. Also, CROWN sold high octane blending stocks to other companies for their vital aviation needs.

Today, CROWN's specialization in high octane motor fuels makes CROWN GOLD "TOPS" of all the top-octane automotive fuels — the better-balanced gasoline—that furnishes your car more power than nature's basic raw materials originally possessed!

IT'S A PROFIT STORY, TOO

Take a look at economics. Here CROWN also provides you with a Big Difference. Since CROWN retains all expensive high-energy components in its automotive fuel (instead of diverting part for aviation needs and other purposes), it is clear that CROWN puts a big part of its profit right back into the gasoline which goes into your car!

In brief, CROWN "custom-tailors" its gasoline to the automotive needs of today. The result is the highest octane fuel you can buy—yet, it sells for less than other super-premium gasolines! We invite you to try CROWN GOLD today. We know your car will prove the Big Difference!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of clubs.

That a perfectly obvious point of logic can sometimes escape for a moment even the most profound intellects was never better illustrated than in the post-mortem discussion of this hand.

South became declarer at a final contract of three no trump on bidding that is not unreasonable. West opened the three of clubs, dummy played the six and East had to decide what card to play.

A beginner would have had no trouble at all. The "third hand high" doctrine would have taken care of him. East, a player of considerable experience, emerged from his prolonged huddle with the ten of clubs. Whereupon declarer rattled off nine tricks.

At the autopsy the local experts were divided in their opinion as to the soundness of East's defensive play. On his behalf the argument was advanced that if the opening lead was from the jack, the ten would force declarer's ace, whereas the play of the king would give South two tricks in that suit.

If the lead was from the ace, naturally it was obligatory to play the king, since declarer is marked with only two clubs (assuming the three of clubs to have been a fourth best lead).

They then considered the likelihood of West rather than South holding the ace of clubs, and concluded that declarer was the one more apt to have that card, in view of his having opened the bidding and then rebid one no trump.

That the king was the winning play at trick one would have become immediately clear to the disputants if they had placed themselves in the position of the declarer. Holding the ace and a small club, with the queen and a small one in dummy, what card would he have played out of dummy to the opening lead?

Obviously the queen, as his only sound chance to win two tricks in the suit. Failure of declarer to put up the queen at trick one marks West with the ace of clubs.

Methodist Churches Plan Camp Meeting

Plans are being completed for the annual camp meeting to be held at the Union Grove camp grounds on Mason Road from July 17-27 which is being sponsored by Methodist Churches of the Hagerstown District.

Services will be held each day at 7:45 and on Sundays services will be held at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Rev. Earl C. Day will be the evangelist for the special meetings. He is a graduate of Wesley Seminary and is minister at Marquis Memorial Methodist Church, Staunton, Va. Rev. Day is district chairman of evangelism in this area and was one of the preachers who launched the United Evangelistic Mission Program in 1952.

Directors for the camp meeting will be Harry Dicken, Arthur Eshelman, Herman Frantz, Charles Anderson, Ward Wilson, Ralph Ferguson, John Hardinger, Luther Brotemarkle, Melvin Robinette, Rev. Louis L. Emerick, Lemuel Yokum and Mrs. A. M. McElfish.

Two Camps Planned At Pleasant Valley

Members of boys' 4-H clubs in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties are being reminded that the deadline for registration for the annual Tri-County 4-H Club Camp at Pleasant Valley in Garrett County is Tuesday, July 1.

The camp at the Western Maryland 4-H Club Center near Bittinger will open Sunday, July 13, and will end with breakfast Saturday, July 19.

Immediately after that camp ends the Allegany and Garrett County Older Youth 4-H Groups will begin a weekend camp. It will start at 1 p. m. July 19 and end at 4 p. m. July 20. The registration deadline is Tuesday, July 8. The older youth group will meet Wednesday, July 2, at the Court House to complete plans for the weekend.

The Story of a Cat that had 9 Lives

We will stop this story now to say that cable TV now brings you all the sports from Nine TV Stations. The 4 Washington TV Stations are on full time as usual bringing you unduplicated programming at all times. Sports are picked up from 4 Pennsylvania TV stations and 1 Virginia TV station.

When these sports are not on cable channel 6 the following TV stations will be on this channel as indicated below each day:

WJAC-TV	Johnstown	Sign on to 12 noon
WSVA-TV	Harrisonburg	12 noon to 8:30 P. M.
WFBG-TV	Altoona	8:30 P. M. to sign off

Reasons for adding these 3 additional TV stations.

1. Many of our subscribers voted to use these TV stations and this arrangement is the very best we can do.
2. WSVA-TV Harrisonburg has already arranged to include special weather and news for the Cumberland area and they will welcome the scheduling of 15 and 30 minute programs of general interest including programs of civic organizations from the Cumberland area.
3. Many of our subscribers have expressed their desire to receive the excellent late movies that WFBG TV Altoona carries.
4. It will make it possible for local merchants to use any of these 3 TV stations, as scheduled for near by and local advertisement either individually or in combination with nationally advertised products.

The cat that had 9 lives may not be around but can you tell us of any city that has as many TV stations to select from? Another first for Cumberland!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of clubs.

That a perfectly obvious point of logic can sometimes escape for a moment even the most profound intellects was never better illustrated than in the post-mortem discussion of this hand.

South became declarer at a final contract of three no trump on bidding that is not unreasonable. West opened the three of clubs, dummy played the six and East had to decide what card to play.

A beginner would have had no trouble at all. The "third hand high" doctrine would have taken care of him. East, a player of considerable experience, emerged from his prolonged huddle with the ten of clubs. Whereupon declarer rattled off nine tricks.

At the autopsy the local experts were divided in their opinion as to the soundness of East's defensive play. On his behalf the argument was advanced that if the opening lead was from the jack, the ten would force declarer's ace, whereas the play of the king would give South two tricks in that suit.

If the lead was from the ace, naturally it was obligatory to play the king, since declarer is marked with only two clubs (assuming the three of clubs to have been a fourth best lead).

They then considered the likelihood of West rather than South holding the ace of clubs, and concluded that declarer was the one more apt to have that card, in view of his having opened the bidding and then rebid one no trump.

That the king was the winning play at trick one would have become immediately clear to the disputants if they had placed themselves in the position of the declarer. Holding the ace and a small club, with the queen and a small one in dummy, what card would he have played out of dummy to the opening lead?

Obviously the queen, as his only sound chance to win two tricks in the suit. Failure of declarer to put up the queen at trick one marks West with the ace of clubs.

Methodist Churches Plan Camp Meeting

Plans are being completed for the annual camp meeting to be held at the Union Grove camp grounds on Mason Road from July 17-27 which is being sponsored by Methodist Churches of the Hagerstown District.

Services will be held each day at 7:45 and on Sundays services will be held at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Rev. Earl C. Day will be the evangelist for the special meetings. He is a graduate of Wesley Seminary and is minister at Marquis Memorial Methodist Church, Staunton, Va. Rev. Day is district chairman of evangelism in this area and was one of the preachers who launched the United Evangelistic Mission Program in 1952.

Directors for the camp meeting will be Harry Dicken, Arthur Eshelman, Herman Frantz, Charles Anderson, Ward Wilson, Ralph Ferguson, John Hardinger, Luther Brotemarkle, Melvin Robinette, Rev. Louis L. Emerick, Lemuel Yokum and Mrs. A. M. McElfish.

Colleen Ann Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Murphy, McMullen Highway, will appear in the "Moyer Dance Parade of '58" on the stage of the Strand Theatre today. Colleen will do a tap dance to the tune of the all-time favorite, "Give Me A Little Kiss, Will You, Huh?"

Two Camps Planned At Pleasant Valley

Members of boys' 4-H clubs in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties are being reminded that the deadline for registration for the annual Tri-County 4-H Club Camp at Pleasant Valley in Garrett County is Tuesday, July 1.

The camp at the Western Maryland 4-H Club Center near Bittinger will open Sunday, July 13, and will end with breakfast Saturday, July 19.

Immediately after that camp ends the Allegany and Garrett County Older Youth 4-H Groups will begin a weekend camp. It will start at 1 p. m. July 19 and end at 4 p. m. July 20. The registration deadline is Tuesday, July 8. The older youth group will meet Wednesday, July 2, at the Court House to complete plans for the weekend.

Strikers Fired On

MADRAS, India (AP) — Police fired on rioting strikers in Madras port Monday, killing four persons including an 11-year-old boy, and seriously injuring 14.

Dock workers, striking for higher pay, had become restive when truck loads of temporarily recruited labor tried to enter the port area.

An estimated 63 million cords of wood are used annually in the United States for fuel, or about one-eighth of all the wood used in the nation.

City Acquires Land For Armory Site

Deeds for eight parcels of land in the Ridgedale Addition of Cumberland were recorded in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

These parcels are part of the property needed by the Mayor and City Council for the new National Guard Armory. Bids for the new armory will be opened at 2 p. m. next Thursday by the State Department of Public Improvements.

Total price of the eight parcels bought by the Mayor and City Council was about $1,525. The area is at the end of Ridgedale Avenue.

Heatwole Seeks Jaycee Presidency

Wallace R. Heatwole, 34-year-old Waynesboro, Va., attorney who was the principal speaker at the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce's "Bosses Night" dinner here January 22, is one of the four candidates for president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The new Jaycee president will be elected at the convention which ends next Thursday in Los Angeles. The other candidates are Clarence L. Blasier, 34, North Canton, Ohio; Robert Cox, 32, Chapel Hill, N.C., and Dixie Lynch, 32, Kansas City, Mo.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

NOTICE TO ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR INSTALLING NEW LIGHTING FIXTURES IN THE RECORDS ROOM, IN THE OFFICE OF THE CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT, COURT HOUSE, CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND.

Sealed bids will be received by the County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, until the 1st day of July, 1958, at 10:30 a. m., E.D.S.T., by its Clerk, the undersigned, whose address is the Court House, Cumberland, Maryland, for installing new lighting fixtures in the Records Room in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, on the first floor of the Court House, and for re-mounting the existing electrical fixtures in two (2) file storage rooms in the basement of said Court House Building, in accordance with certain General Specifications, dated June 6, 1958, prepared under the direction of the County Commissioners.

General Specifications for said work will be available on and after June 6, 1958, at the Clerk's Office, County Commissioners, Court House, Cumberland, Maryland.

Bids must be submitted with a certified check of Two Hundred ($200.00), payable to the County Commissioners of Allegany County, this check to be returned to the successful bidder upon execution of the contract. Other checks to be returned to unsuccessful bidders after tabulation of the bids.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish bond in the full amount of the contract, said bond to be with a bonding company licensed to do business in the State of Maryland and to be approved by the County Commissioners of Allegany County.

Evidence of Workmen's Compensation and Public Liability Insurance must be furnished and the contractor must comply with all federal, state and local regulations.

Labor rates must be figured at prevailing hourly wage rates in the vicinity at the date of the contract.

Further information may be obtained from Mr. Joseph Boden, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The County Commissioners of Allegany County reserve the right to reject any and all bids or to accept any.

Eight Divorces Granted In Court

Eight divorces have been granted in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Five of the decrees were for absolute divorces. Levi A. Smith was granted a divorce from Grace I. Smith. Betty L. Byars obtained a divorce from Robert Byars and was granted custody of their infant daughter. John E. Bryant obtained a divorce from Grace D. Bryant. Helen Viola Smith was granted a divorce from Dewey L. Smith. Mary Frances Stafford won a divorce from Melvin Ray Stafford and custody of their infant children.

Three partial divorces were granted. Orlean M. Frantz obtained one from Donald H. Frantz; Earl Adam Eisler was granted one from Helen Agnes Eisler; and Donna L. Dixon, from Joseph H. Dixon.

Measured Production

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry is continuing its measured production program, whittling away at dealer inventories.

Last week 80,553 cars were built against 73,666 the preceding week and 124,946 in the same 1957 week. This year's output so far is 2,058,906 cars compared with 3,128,436 in like 1957.

San Salvador Quake

Officer's Wine Stolen

PARIS (AP) — A thirsty thief broke into a local wine celler Monday and helped himself to an unspecified number of bottles.

An unspecified number of police are now searching for him with extra diligence. The wine cellar was in the home of Georges Ballyot, deputy police chief.

Miguel Hidalgo, the priest of Dolores who, in 1810, started the revolution against Spain, is known as the "Father of Mexican Independence."

Strikers Fired On

MADRAS, India (AP) — Police fired on rioting strikers in Madras port Monday, killing four persons including an 11-year-old boy, and seriously injuring 14.

Dock workers, striking for higher pay, had become restive when truck loads of temporarily recruited labor tried to enter the port area.

An estimated 63 million cords of wood are used annually in the United States for fuel, or about one-eighth of all the wood used in the nation.

City Acquires Land For Armory Site

Deeds for eight parcels of land in the Ridgedale Addition of Cumberland were recorded in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

These parcels are part of the property needed by the Mayor and City Council for the new National Guard Armory. Bids for the new armory will be opened at 2 p. m. next Thursday by the State Department of Public Improvements.

Total price of the eight parcels bought by the Mayor and City Council was about $1,625. The area is at the end of Ridgedale Avenue.

Heatwole Seeks Jaycee Presidency

Wallace R. Heatwole, 34-year-old Waynesboro, Va., attorney who was the principal speaker at the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce's "Bosses Night" dinner here January 22, is one of the four candidates for president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The new Jaycee president will be elected at the convention which ends next Thursday in Los Angeles. The other candidates are Clarence L. Blasier, 34, North Canton, Ohio; Robert Cox, 32, Chapel Hill, N.C., and Dixie Lynch, 32, Kansas City, Mo.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR INSTALLING NEW LIGHTING FIXTURES IN THE RECORDS ROOM, IN THE OFFICE OF THE CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT, COURT HOUSE, CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND.

Sealed bids will be received by the County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, until the 1st day of July, 1958, at 10:30 a. m., E.D.S.T., by its Clerk, the undersigned, whose address is the Court House, Cumberland, Maryland, for installing new lighting fixtures in the Records Room in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, on the first floor of the Court House, and for re-mounting the existing electrical fixtures in two (2) file storage rooms in the basement of said Court House Building, in accordance with certain General Specifications, dated June 6, 1958, prepared under the direction of the County Commissioners.
General Specifications for said work will be available on and after June 6, 1958, at the Clerk's Office, County Commissioners, Court House, Cumberland, Maryland.
Bids must be submitted with a certified check of Two Hundred ($200.00), payable to the County Commissioners of Allegany County, this check to be returned to the successful bidder upon execution of the contract. Other checks to be returned to unsuccessful bidders after tabulation of the bids.
The successful bidder will be required to furnish bond in the full amount of the contract, said bond to be with a bonding company licensed to do business in the State of Maryland and to be approved by the County Commissioners of Allegany County.
Evidence of Workmen's Compensation and Public Liability Insurance must be furnished and the contractor must comply with all federal, state and local regulations.
Labor rates must be figured at prevailing hourly wage rates in the vicinity at the date of the contract.
Further information may be obtained from Mr. Joseph Boden, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The County Commissioners of Allegany County reserve the right to reject any and all bids or to accept any.

Measured Production

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry is continuing its measured production program, whittling away at dealer inventories.

Last week 80,553 cars were built against 73,666 the preceding week and 124,946 in the same 1957 week. This year's output so far is 2,058,906 cars compared with 3,128,436 in like 1957.

San Salvador Quake

Officer's Wine Stolen

PARIS (AP) — A thirsty thief broke into a local wine celler Monday and helped himself to an unspecified number of bottles.

An unspecified number of police are now searching for him with extra diligence. The wine cellar was in the home of Georges Ballyot, deputy police chief.

Miguel Hidalgo, the priest of Dolores who, in 1810, started the revolution against Spain, is known as the "Father of Mexican Independence."

Eight Divorces Granted In Court

Eight divorces have been granted in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Five of the decrees were for absolute divorces. Levi A. Smith was granted a divorce from Grace I. Smith. Betty L. Byars obtained a divorce from Robert Byars and was granted custody of their infant daughter. John E. Bryant obtained a divorce from Grace D. Bryant. Helen Viola Smith was granted a divorce from Dewey L. Smith. Mary Frances Stafford won a divorce from Melvin Ray Stafford and custody of their infant children.

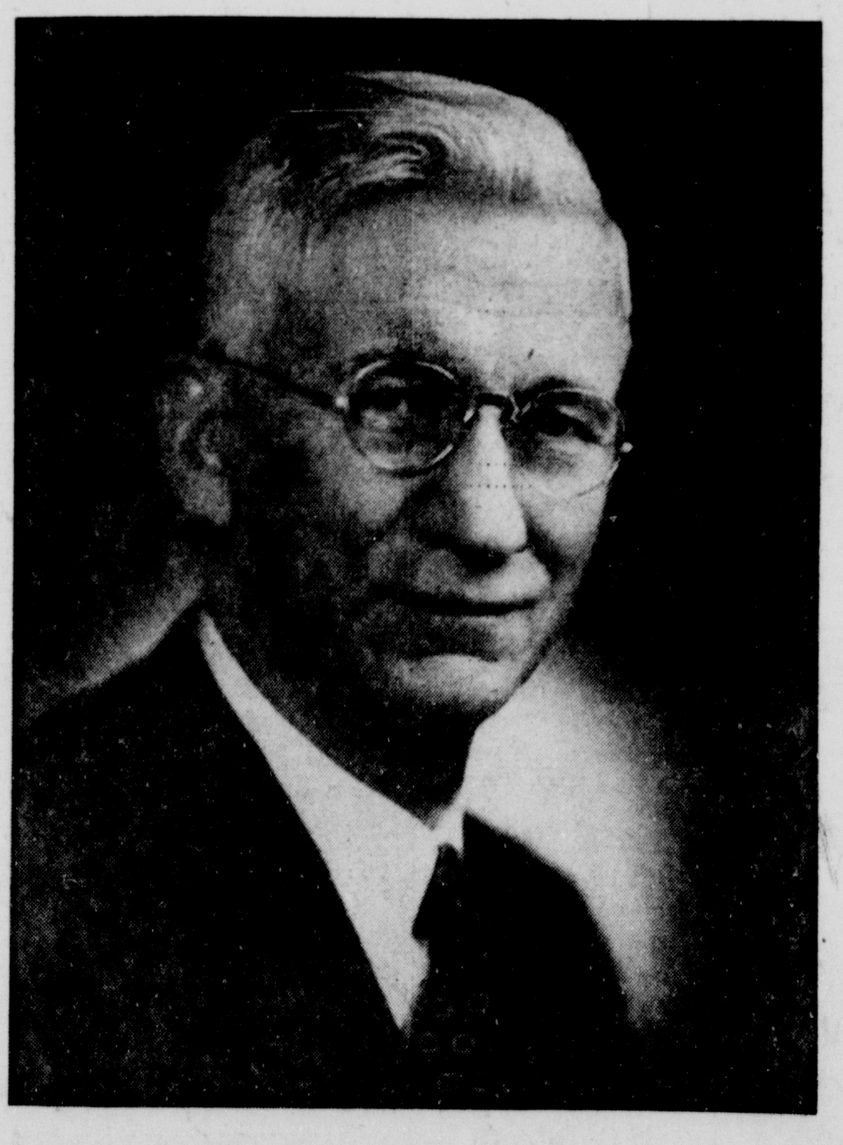

Three partial divorces were granted. Orlean M. Frantz obtained one from Donald H. Frantz; Earl Adam Eisler was granted one from Helen Agnes Eisler; and Donna L. Dixon, from Joseph H. Dixon.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

H Z X G E B E X B J S U V , S G B B X S O ,
E B E X S U N M V X G S U M O N K V Z X X
E F N — B N G G X .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: YOURS HAS THE SUFFERING BEEN, THE MEMORY SHALL BE OURS—LONGFELLOW.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Some of the new leather dress shoes have corrugated crepe soles for added comfort. The soles should be sponged often with suds and water to retain buoyancy.

Social Security Dedicates New Office Here

Regional Chief Speaks At Ceremony

"In dedicating this new office quarters for the Cumberland District office of the Social Security Administration, we are very mindful of the purpose and the responsibility we have to the people who come to us for service," Maurice D. Dewberry, regional representative from Charlottesville, Va., said yesterday.

Key speaker at the formal opening program for the new quarters at 6 Pershing Street, Mr. Dewberry observed that employes of Social Security are carefully trained and carefully selected.

"It is extremely important," he declared, "that staff personnel who serve you in Social Security are all understanding, friendly and kind people. When the citizens seek our service, counsel, advice and help, they most often do so at a time when they are under some emotional stress. They are either retiring or being retired, which represents an important change in their whole way of life, or they are coming to us for service just after the death of a wage-earner in the family.

A Dedicated Service

"It is well to remember," he continued, "that we remember this, and that we in Social Security are always ready to be of every assistance possible. So, in dedicating these quarters, it is timely to note that we are a people dedicated to giving service kindly, promptly and graciously."

Mr. Dewberry also noted that Social Security has grown to a point where almost 90 out of every hundred persons have assurance of security in the later years. The American idea of saving for the future and planning for retirement has been put to work under this system, he explained. Families are now able to stay together, children can be educated and economic stress is kept to a minimum. Old people need no longer fear the idea of being penniless or dependent on their children. "The work," he concluded, "is a good one and a satisfying one, and we in Social Security are dedicated to it."

State's Attorney James S. Getty, one-time manager of the local office, served as master of ceremonies and Mayor Roy W. Eves cut the ribbon across the door as part of the official dedication. Mayor Eves observed that he had been a "stockholder" in Social Security for a number of years and just a few months ago started collecting dividends.

Mr. Getty introduced a number of guests including former managers Henry M. Millhouser and S. Leigh Wolfe. He also introduced James A. Gwinn, present manager. Mr. Gwinn extended a welcome to all people to visit the office, inspect the new spacious quarters and seek any service the staff can provide.

He then presented each member of his staff of eight people, including Wilmer A. Dunn and P. Raymond Shaffer, field representatives; Edna D. Loper and Phyllis P. White, claims representatives; Guinevere E. Ansel, receptionist; James J. Mowbray and Shirley E. Ellsworth, claims stenographers and Henry L. Vogtman, clerk-typist.

Guests Introduced

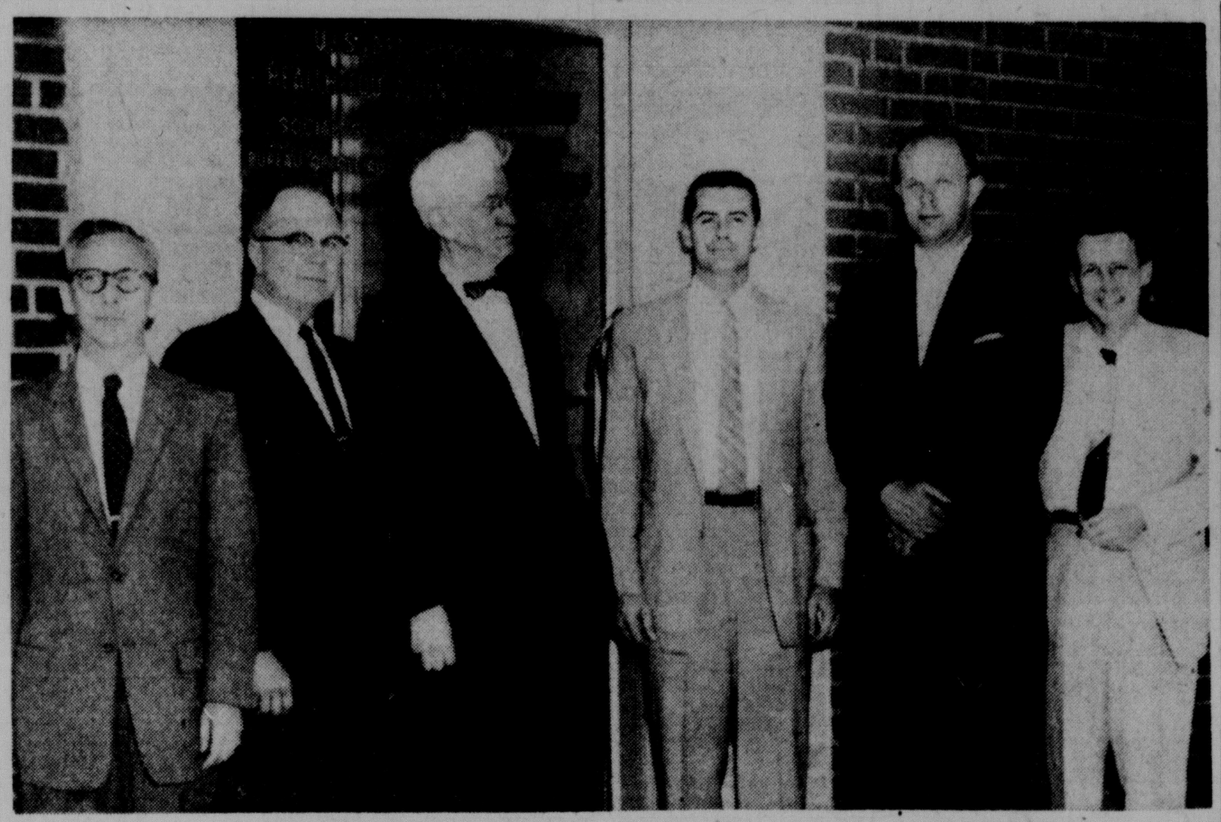

Mr. Getty presented James Orr, president of the board of county commissioners; City Councilmen William V. Keegan, John J. Long, William H. Buchholtz and George Waingold of the Waingold Realty Service who built the new office building, and other guests.

Among those officially invited were former mayor Thomas S. Post, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, and all the former neighbors of the Social Security from the Post Office building, businessmen, professional men and representatives of the press.

The invocation was given by Rev. Paul V. Taylor and the benediction by Rev. Maurice D. Robertson. Pershing Street was blocked off during the dedicatory ceremony, and chairs were arranged on the street for the guests, visitors and spectators.

Following the ceremony, the new premises were inspected and refreshments were served.

The Cumberland office was one of the first established and opened in the Post Office Building here on January 18, 1937, with a manager and one employe.

Among Guests At Dedication Ceremony

Civitan Club Installation Set Thursday

The annual meeting and joint installation of the Cumberland Civitan and Civinette Clubs will be held Thursday evening at Minke's Cottage Inn.

The dinner program will begin at 6:30 p.m. Outgoing Lt. Gov. Robert E. Kinsley, of Hagerstown, will be in charge of the installation of the Civitan officers and he will be assisted by incoming Lt. Gov. Robert F. Moore, of the local club.

Members of the Hagerstown Civinette Club will be in charge of installing officers of the local Civinette Club. Civitan officers for the coming year are:

Richard L. Blake, president; Clifford C. Minke, president-elect; Frank A. Trozzo, vice-president; E. Kenneth Whitney, treasurer; Chester E. Moody, secretary.

Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, chaplain; Fred A. Hutchison, sergeant-at-arms, and Carl H. Nave, director. Civinette officers include:

Mrs. Roseann Blake, president; Mrs. Elsie Nave, vice president; Mrs. Martha Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Doris Kolb, recording secretary, and Mrs. Mary Jane Minke, treasurer.

Robert F. Moore was elected Lieutenant Governor of Zone Seven, Chesapeake District, Civitan International, at Norfolk in May and will assume his duties on July 1.

Zone Seven includes Hagerstown, Chambersburg, Pa., and the local club.

The dinner program will be followed by dancing which will be from 9 p.m. until midnight with music by the Pi Harvey combo.

Potomac Edison 'Dream House' Here Today

The Potomac Edison Company's "dream house on wheels," a specially equipped bus, will be at the Potomac Edison Company offices, 16 Union Street, today until 6 p. m., and tomorrow until noon.

Dates for the visit of the unit were inadvertently announced as Monday and Wednesday instead of Tuesday and Wednesday.

Boy Loses Tip Of His Finger

A seven-year-old Bowling Green boy lost the tip of his right middle finger yesterday when he caught it in a bicycle chain.

Patrick F. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murray, was admitted to Memorial Hospital about 7:30 p. m.

PPG Plant Open House Is Planned

Plans have been completed for the two-day open house program at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's new plate glass plant, according to William P. Lawrence, plant director of industrial relations. Mr. Lawrence is serving as chairman for the affair scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, June 25 and 26.

All Cumberland area residents are invited and children between 12 and 18 years of age are welcome, provided they are accompanied by an adult. Plant tour hours will be from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on both days.

Two Hour Tour

Mr. Lawrence estimates that two hours will be required to view the entire plate glass making operation in the world's most modern glass manufacturing plant.

Special buses will be available near the plant parking area to take visitors to the points where the manufacturing process begins, from which point the tour will proceed on foot. Each tour group will see the raw materials being introduced into the glass melting tank and will continue through the complete manufacturing process following a clearly marked tour route.

Although the tour groups will not be individually guided, employes will be posted at key points on the route to direct visitors and answer questions. In addition, signs and displays at various points will be provided as an aid to the visitor in following the manufacturing process.

To Get Booklet

The distance covered will be one and one-fourth miles and the total elapsed time will be approximately two hours. About two-thirds of the way through the tour, there will be a stop for soft drinks and an opportunity to rest before continuing the tour.

Any visitors who do not care to make the complete tour may leave at this point and take a bus returning to the parking lot.

At the time of departure, all visitors will receive a souvenir booklet describing the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and its Cumberland plate glass plant.

OXNARD, Calif., June 16 (UPI) — Two airmen were killed today in the crash of their F-89 Scorpion Jet near here.

The victims were identified as: Lt. Earl R. Kerns, 23, of Thomas, W. Va., the pilot, and Lt. Milton T. Mickens, 29, Lima, O., the navigator.

The men were on a radar training flight from Hill Air Force Base, Utah, to Oxnard Air Force Base when their plane crashed and burned in a field west of the base here, the Air Force said. Both men lived here.

Two Local Boys Admit Setting Warehouse Fire

Two youngsters have admitted that they set a fire which did considerable damage last Thursday on the third floor of the Montgomery Ward warehouse on Howard Street.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday that the boys, nine and 11 years old, were questioned in his office with their parents and gave statements admitting they set the fire.

Further action is expected to be taken by Juvenile Court authorities. Chief Parker commended Assistant Fire Chief Vincent Wegman and City Police Detective George Furstenberg for their quick and efficient action in apprehending the two lads.

Chief Parker said the boys admitted they were on the third floor in search of pigeons. They said they climbed to an outside roof and up a brick wall to the third floor.

The boys said they used some paper and wood lying on the floor to start the fire. Alert residents phoned in the alarm at 5:39 p.m. when smoke was seen coming through an open window at the rear of the four-story brick structure.

Firemen from Central and West Side stations responded. Chief Parker said the boys attempted to put out the fire but when it got a headstart they decided to leave the premises.

He said the blaze burned about 20 feet of the wall and mushroomed to the ceiling. Live embers dropped onto the second floor. Some water damage was done to mechandise of the company which stores thousands of dollars worth of tires, furniture and other merchandise on the premises.

Race Costly For Pigeons

The ninth old bird race of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club proved to be the most disastrous race in the club's history.

Twelve lofts with 126 pigeons competed but only two birds homed the first day. Five more reported on the second day. A club spokesman said the pigeons evidently hit a terrific storm after having been liberated at 6:15 a. m. Saturday in North Vernon, Ind., 400 miles from Cumberland.

Inspector Shorty Bill from the Town View Loft of Galen Beeman was the winner on an average speed of 700.35 yards per minute. The other first day finisher was No. 280 from the Gilmore Loft of A. A. Ambrose with an average speed of 687.33 yards per minute.

Those finishing the second day were Elsie from the Woodland Loft of Irvin Buskirk, 522.9 yards per minute; Nancy K from the Columbia Loft of R. L. Kiiffner, 504.84 yards per minute; Hesitation from the MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith, 500.32 yards per minute; LaVale Red, also from the MaaArthur Loft, 500.04 yards per minute, and Mr. Berry from the Excello Loft of M. M. Green, 483.60 yards per minute.

The next race will be the Captain J. J. McAtee Memorial Race, a 500-mile flight from Vincennes, Ind.

Legion Installation Will Be Held Tonight

Officers of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, and its auxiliary unit will be installed this evening during a meeting at the post home in Ridgeley.

The installation will begin at 8 p. m. Bonn Brown, of Elkins, third vice commander of the Department of West Virginia, American Legion, will install the officers of the post. Commander is William Knieriem. Mrs. Ethel Ritchie heads the auxiliary unit. After the meeting a buffet luncheon will be served.

190 Attend Girl Scout Day Camp

A total of 190 Girl Scouts and Brownies attended the opening day of Girl Scout Day Camp in Constitution Park yesterday, according to Mrs. George J. Miller, council president.

At a meeting of the Girl Scout Board last night, Mrs. Miller complimented the camp committee, staff and directors upon the record enrollment and the program that has been arranged

The board decided to hold its next regular meeting at the new Girl Scout camp near Flintstone on July 9 at 4 p.m.

Miss Olive Hurlburt reported that 200 girls have already registered for established camp which opens Sunday, June 29. There are vacancies for a total of 24 girls, six for the final period July 20 to August 1; and 18 for the first period which ends July 11.

The final period at established camp will emphasize training of a patrol of eight girls and an alternate patrol of eight, for attendance at the National Girl Scout Round-Up at Colorado Springs in 1959. A Roundette, with patrols from councils of six areas, will be held at the local camp this fall.

Miss Hurlburt, executive director, also reported that work is about completed for opening of the established camp and improvements are being made every weekend. Volunteers are welcome on weekends and evenings, who wish to help with various projects at the campsite. Several volunteers are needed this Saturday and Sunday, she observed.

The board, in reply to a letter from Community Chest officers regarding distribution of funds, reaffirmed its position on the distribution of the surplus. The Girl Scouts board has taken the position that this surplus was donated to the nine member agencies of the Community Chest and should be distributed on a percentage basis, earmarked for capital expenditures or emergencies, and not to be deducted from future budgets of the United Fund.

Police Station Busy With Sale Of Bicycle Tags

Business was rather brisk at Police Headquarters yesterday when approximately 175 local youngsters pedaled in for their new bicycle tags.

Chief R. Emmett Flynn said yesterday that the new tags, which cost the cyclist 25 cents, must be displayed by July 1.

Bicycles, he said, must be equipped with lights on front and back and also have a horn or bell or other warning device. Sirens are not allowed.

A "must" on each bicycle is brakes in first class condition, the chief added. Tags are on sale through Friday from 10 a. m. to noon and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Episcopal Drive Reports $735,782

Some $735,782 or 43 per cent of the $1,700,000 goal was reported over the weekend toward the Episcopal Advance Fund campaign now being conducted throughout the Diocese of Maryland.

The $1,700,000 will be placed in a revolving fund from which Episcopal missions and parishes may borrow money at low interest rates for much-needed improvements.

William L. Wilson, this city, is chairman of Area 1, which is Allegany County. This area has reported a total of $11,446. The "A" Division, led by Dr. Leslie R. Miles of Lonaconing, has reported $5,117. "B" Division, led by Harry F. Goss, this city, reports $6,329.

Heavy Balloting Is Predicted Here Today

Intensive Campaign Precedes Election

Citizens of Cumberland will use voting machines today to elect a mayor and four councilmen and vote for or against the proposed $500,000 Urban Development bond issue.

The polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. and will be located in the same spots as in the June 3 primary election.

A heavy vote—70 per cent or better—is predicted for the election, based on the intensive campaigning staged here during the past two weeks.

Voting machines have been set up so that the first lever to pull will be FOR or AGAINST the bond issue planned to help finance the Cumberland Thruway and the Industrial Boulevard.

Take Office July 7

For candidates, there will be 10 levers, and voters may choose between Roy W. Eves, incumbent mayor, and J. Edwin Keech, South Cumberland businessman, for the position of chief executive of the city.

Levers 3 A to 10 A are for the eight candidates for City Council.

The candidates are William H. Buchholtz, incumbent; Philmore F. Fleming, William V. Keegan, incumbent; G. Ray Light; John J. Long, incumbent; Lucile Roeder, Keith T. Sisk and George H. Tederick.

The administration to be elected today will take office on July 7 at 10 a. m. and will serve for four years.

Voters are advised that they will not be electing four commissioners today but will name four council members. The council members will decide among themselves who will be the commissioners in charge of major city departments.

Office Open Today

City Hall sources pointed out it has been a tradition that the top vote getter receives first choice of jobs, but it need not work out that way.

The mayor is required to spend six hours a day on his duties and is paid $3,600 a year. Council members will get $1,800 a year and are not required to spend any specific amount of time on their duties.

The City Registration Office will be open from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. to advise voters if they are registered and where they may vote. Either PA 2-3290 or PA 2-7270 may be used to call the office.

Housing Group Files Action For Property

A condemnation suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland for a 40-foot lot on the east side of Lamont Street needed for the third low rent housing project here.

Attorney Matthew J. Mullaney filed the petition in behalf of the housing authority. This is one of about four properties still needed for the project to be located in an area bounded on the north by Thomas Street, on the south by Cresap Street, on the east by Oldtown Road and on the west by Rosewood Alley.

Owners of the property listed as defendants in the condemnation suit are Cora Snyder, Hanover and Centre streets; Raymond H. Snyder, and Mabel Snyder, his wife, 444 Columbia Street; Naomi Snyder, Ellerslie; Harriett Wolfe and John Wolfe, her husband, of Ellerslie.

Four local firms also were listed as defendants because they hold unreleased judgment liens on the property. They are the Liberty Trust Company, McKaig's, the Carl F. Schmutz Company and the Times and Alleganian Company.

The petitioner has attempted to purchase this Lamont Street property but has been unable to reach agreement.

MRS. WILLIAM J. EDWARDS

Mrs. Edwards, City Official, Dies At Home

Mrs. Josephine Edwards, 77, of 225 Columbia Avenue, commissioner of water and electric light, died yesterday morning at her home.

She was appointed to the City Council March 10 to succeed her husband, William J. Edwards, who died on March 2.

Mrs. Edwards had been in ill health for some time and was unable to attend some recent council sessions.

The Mayor and Council yesterday paid respects to Mrs. Edwards. Mayor Roy W. Eves announced her death during the council meeting. He expressed regret and a moment of silence was observed. Later, council moved that a resolution of respect be prepared.

A native of Old Stone House at the foot of Martin's Mountain, Mrs. Edwards was born October 30, 1880 and was a daughter of the late Hilliary F. and Elmira (Hendrickson) Willison.

She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Woman's Civic Club.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Blanche W. Huerta, of Arlington, Va., a grandson, Edward George, this city, and a number of nephews and nieces.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home where relatives will receive friends from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Californian Waives Right To Extradition

Joseph Eugene Mojkowski, 23, of Pasadena, Calif., yesterday waived extradition to California at a hearing before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The Californian had surrendered here June 10 to State Trooper Kenneth Messman and had informed the trooper that he was wanted in Pasadena for a burglary, which he said he had committed about eight weeks ago.

Mojkowski had been confined in the County Jail since June 10 and was taken by Trooper Carlton W. Lewis before Judge Harris when he expressed a desire to waive extradition to his home state.

Sgt. E. G. Jones of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department flew from Los Angeles to Pittsburgh yesterday and then completed his journey to Cumberland by bus yesterday evening. He plans to return the prisoner to California today by plane.

Woman Receives Suspended Sentence

A Lonaconing woman was found guilty in Juvenile Court here yesterday of a charge of neglecting her six-year-old daughter.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said she admitted she had been running around with men other than her husband. Her only defense, he added, was her husband's treatment.

Magistrate Anderson suspended a six-month sentence to the Reformatory for Women on condition the woman discontinue her association with other men and devote her time to her daughter. She was placed under the supervision of the Welfare Board.

Jobless Pay Extension Takes Effect Thursday

BALTIMORE (AP)—The unemployed in Maryland who have exhausted their 26 weeks of compensation may start filing claims on Thursday for an additional 13 weeks.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Department of Employment Security, said Monday that Maryland will put the temporary extension into operation simultaneously with effect of the federal law.

Congress offered to loan the states money to extend the jobless benefits. The Maryland Legislature accepted it in special session last Friday.

It has not been decided how the state will repay the money.

Kimble said his department is hiring 70 more employes to process the extended benefits. About 18,000 persons had received the maximum 26 weeks.

Kimble explained that they still will have to be unemployed Thursday to be eligible for the new weekly payments. The program is not retroactive and will expire next April 1.

Kimble said those seeking the new benefits are to report on the same day of the week as formerly assigned them when claiming regular compensation.

This applies to the office in Baltimore City and all the counties except six. The exceptions and the dates for filing first claims are La Plata June 25, Pocomoke City June 25, Leonardtown June 26, Prince Frederick June 27, Kitzmiller June 30 and Snow Hill July 2.

Marine Dies Of Injuries After Car Crash

Spine Injury Fatal To Douglas Wilds

Pvt. Douglas L. Wilds, 22, of Newport, Tenn., a Marine who was critically injured in an auto crash near Romney Saturday night, died about 8:10 p. m. yesterday in Memorial Hospital.

Attaches said he had sustained a fracture of the spine when he was thrown from the car he was driving east on U. S. Route 50, about four miles east of Romney.

A companion, George Brown, also 21, stationed with Wilds at Quantico, Va., sustained abrasions of the face, arms and chest. He was treated at the hospital and kept overnight.

Sgt. W. Frank Bowley of the Romney detachment of State Police, said the two Marines were descending Ebenezer Mountain and while rounding a right turn the car went off the north berm.

After Pvt. Wilds lost control, the car careened back across the highway and struck a shale bank, throwing the victim from the auto.

Police said the car bounced back to the north shoulder and Brown was tossed out of the vehicle. There were no witnesses to the accident, police said.

The two Marines were admitted to the local hospital about 10:50 p. m. Saturday.

A native of Newport, Tenn. he was a son of Jake M. and Oran (McClure) Wilds. Surviving, besides his parents, are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth (Farmer) Wilds and three brothers. The body was taken to the George Funeral Home.

Lt. McDiffitt Is Assigned To Citadel

Lt. Lillian McDiffitt has arrived here to serve as an assistant at the Salvation Army Citadel during the summer, according to Capt. Daniel Biggs, commander.

Lt. McDiffitt came here from Hagerstown, where she has been stationed for about a year. She is a native of Fairmont, W. Va.

She will be primarily responsible for assisting with youth work and the general program of the Citadel and will be in charge when Capt. and Mrs. Biggs are on vacation.

Lt. McDiffitt is scheduled to leave here for New York in September, when she will begin nurse's training at a Salvation Army hospital.

Commencement exercises will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Citadel for the annual Bible School which opened last Monday. Attendance has averaged 65 students a session.

The Bible School and the Citadel's Sunday School will hold a joint picnic Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Celanese Park.

Two young people from the Citadel have been selected as junior counselors for the Salvation Army's summer camp near Hedgesville, W. Va.

George Price Jr. and Carol Capel will serve at Camp Tomahawk during the camping season from June 23 to August 4.

Appeals Court Affirms Harris

The Maryland Court of Appeals has affirmed a decision of Judge Morgan C. Harris in quashing a petition for a writ of error filed by an inmate of the Maryland House of Correction.

Elmer J. Carder had filed the petition for a writ of coram nobis or writ of error. Last October 26, Judge Harris filed an opinion and order of court that the writ be quashed.

On December 30, Carder filed an appeal and pauper's oath and all of the papers in the case were dispatched to Lloyd Young, clerk of the Court of Appeals.

While in Cumberland, Mr. Yun will be a guest of Howard Buchanan, 921 Braddock Road.

Regional Chief Speaks At Ceremony

"In dedicating this new office quarters for the Cumberland District office of the Social Security Administration, we are very mindful of the purpose and the responsibility we have to the people who come to us for service," Maurice D. Dewberry, regional representative from Charlottesville, Va., said yesterday.

Key speaker at the formal opening program for the new quarters at 6 Pershing Street, Mr. Dewberry observed that employes of Social Security are carefully trained and carefully selected.

"It is extremely important," he declared, "that staff personnel who serve you in Social Security are all understanding, friendly and kind people. When the citizens seek our service, counsel, advice and help, they most often do so at a time when they are under some emotional stress. They are either retiring or being retired, which represents an important change in their whole way of life, or they are coming to us for service just after the death of a wage-earner in the family.

A Dedicated Service

"It is well to remember," he continued, "that we remember this, and that we in Social Security are always ready to be of every assistance possible. So, in dedicating these quarters, it is timely to note that we are a people dedicated to giving service kindly, promptly and graciously."

Mr. Dewberry also noted that Social Security has grown to a point where almost 90 out of every hundred persons have assurance of security in the later years. The American idea of saving for the future and planning for retirement has been put to work under this system, he explained. Families are now able to stay together, children can be educated and economic stress is kept to a minimum. Old people need no longer fear the idea of being penniless or dependent on their children. "The work," he concluded, "is a good one and a satisfying one, and we in Social Security are dedicated to it."

State's Attorney James S. Getty, one-time manager of the local office, served as master of ceremonies and Mayor Roy W. Eves cut the ribbon across the door as part of the official dedication. Mayor Eves observed that he had been a "stockholder" in Social Security for a number of years and just a few months ago started collecting dividends.

Mr. Getty introduced a number of guests including former managers Henry M. Millhouser and S. Leigh Wolfe. He also introduced James A. Gwinn, present manager. Mr. Gwinn extended a welcome to all people to visit the office, inspect the new spacious quarters and seek any service the staff can provide.

He then presented each member of his staff of eight people, including Wilmer A. Dunn and P. Raymond Shaffer, field representatives; Edna D. Loper and Phyllis P. White, claims representatives; Guinevere E. Ansel, receptionist; James J. Mowbray and Shirley E. Ellsworth, claims stenographers and Henry L. Vogtman, clerk-typist.

Guests Introduced

Mr. Getty presented James Orr, president of the board of county commissioners; City Councilmen William V. Keegan, John J. Long, William H. Buchholtz and George Waingold of the Waingold Realty Service who built the new office building, and other guests.

Among those officially invited were former mayor Thomas S. Post, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, and all the former neighbors of the Social Security from the Post Office building, businessmen, professional men and representatives of the press.

The invocation was given by Rev. Paul V. Taylor and the benediction by Rev. Maurice D. Robertson. Pershing Street was blocked off during the dedicatory ceremony, and chairs were arranged on the street for the guests, visitors and spectators.

Following the ceremony, the new premises were inspected and refreshments were served.

The Cumberland office was one of the first established and opened in the Post Office Building here on January 18, 1937, with a manager and one employe.

Among Guests At Dedication Ceremony

Among the official guests at yesterday afternoon's formal dedication ceremony and open house at the new Social Security Building, 6 Pershing Street, were (left to right) Henry M. Millhouser, district manager from 1942 to 1946; Maurice D. Dewberry, Charlottesville, Va., regional representative in charge of 61 offices; Mayor Roy W. Eves, who formally dedicated the new quarters; James A. Gwinn, present district manager; State's Attorney James S. Getty who was manager from 1949 to 1953; and S. Leigh Wolfe who served as manager a short time early this year.

Patrick F. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murray, was admitted to Memorial Hospital about 7:30 p. m.

PPG Plant Open House Is Planned

Plans have been completed for the two-day open house program at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's new plate glass plant, according to William P. Lawrence, plant director of industrial relations. Mr. Lawrence is serving as chairman for the affair scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, June 25 and 26.

All Cumberland area residents are invited and children between 12 and 18 years of age are welcome, provided they are accompanied by an adult. Plant tour hours will be from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on both days.

Two Hour Tour

Mr. Lawrence estimates that two hours will be required to view the entire plate glass making operation in the world's most modern glass manufacturing plant.

Special buses will be available near the plant parking area to take visitors to the points where the manufacturing process begins, from which point the tour will proceed on foot. Each tour group will see the raw materials being introduced into the glass melting tank and will continue through the complete manufacturing process following a clearly marked tour route.

Although the tour groups will not be individually guided, employes will be posted at key points on the route to direct visitors and answer questions. In addition, signs and displays at various points will be provided as an aid to the visitor in following the manufacturing process.

To Get Booklet

The distance covered will be one and one-fourth miles and the total elapsed time will be approximately two hours. About two-thirds of the way through the tour, there will be a stop for soft drinks and an opportunity to rest before continuing the tour.

Any visitors who do not care to make the complete tour may leave at this point and take a bus returning to the parking lot.

At the time of departure, all visitors will receive a souvenir booklet describing the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and its Cumberland plate glass plant.

Two Local Boys Admit Setting Warehouse Fire

Two youngsters have admitted that they set a fire which did considerable damage last Thursday on the third floor of the Montgomery Ward warehouse on Howard Street.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday that the boys, nine and 11 years old, were questioned in his office with their parents and gave statements admitting they set the fire.

Further action is expected to be taken by Juvenile Court authorities. Chief Parker commended Assistant Fire Chief Vincent Wegman and City Police Detective George Furstenberg for their quick and efficient action in apprehending the two lads.

Chief Parker said the boys admitted they were on the third floor in search of pigeons. They said they climbed to an outside roof and up a brick wall to the third floor.

The boys said they used some paper and wood lying on the floor to start the fire. Alert residents phoned in the alarm at 5:39 p.m. when smoke was seen coming through an open window at the rear of the four-story brick structure.

Firemen from Central and West Side stations responded. Chief Parker said the boys attempted to put out the fire but when it got a headstart they decided to leave the premises.

He said the blaze burned about 20 feet of the wall and mushroomed to the ceiling. Live embers dropped onto the second floor. Some water damage was done to mechandise of the company which stores thousands of dollars worth of tires, furniture and other merchandise on the premises.

Race Costly For Pigeons

The ninth old bird race of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club proved to be the most disastrous race in the club's history.

Twelve lofts with 126 pigeons competed but only two birds homed the first day. Five more reported on the second day. A club spokesman said the pigeons evidently hit a terrific storm after having been liberated at 6:15 a. m. Saturday in North Vernon, Ind., 400 miles from Cumberland.

Inspector Shorty Bill from the Town View Loft of Galen Beeman was the winner on an average speed of 700.35 yards per minute. The other first day finisher was No. 280 from the Gilmore Loft of A. A. Ambrose with an average speed of 687.33 yards per minute.

Those finishing the second day were Elsie from the Woodland Loft of Irvin Buskirk, 522.9 yards per minute; Nancy K from the Columbia Loft of R. L. Kiiffner, 504.84 yards per minute; Hesitation from the MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith, 500.32 yards per minute; LaVale Red, also from the MaaArthur Loft, 500.04 yards per minute, and Mr. Berry from the Excello Loft of M. M. Green, 483.60 yards per minute.

The next race will be the Captain J. J. McAtee Memorial Race, a 500-mile flight from Vincennes, Ind.

190 Attend Girl Scout Day Camp

A total of 190 Girl Scouts and Brownies attended the opening day of Girl Scout Day Camp in Constitution Park yesterday, according to Mrs. George J. Miller, council president.

At a meeting of the Girl Scout Board last night, Mrs. Miller complimented the camp committee, staff and directors upon the record enrollment and the program that has been arranged

The board decided to hold its next regular meeting at the new Girl Scout camp near Flintstone on July 9 at 4 p.m.

Miss Olive Hurlburt reported that 200 girls have already registered for established camp which opens Sunday, June 29. There are vacancies for a total of 24 girls, six for the final period July 20 to August 1; and 18 for the first period which ends July 11.

The final period at established camp will emphasize training of a patrol of eight girls and an alternate patrol of eight, for attendance at the National Girl Scout Round-Up at Colorado Springs in 1959. A Roundette, with patrols from councils of six areas, will be held at the local camp this fall.

Miss Hurlburt, executive director, also reported that work is about completed for opening of the established camp and improvements are being made every weekend. Volunteers are welcome on weekends and evenings, who wish to help with various projects at the campsite. Several volunteers are needed this Saturday and Sunday, she observed.

The board, in reply to a letter from Community Chest officers regarding distribution of funds, reaffirmed its position on the distribution of the surplus. The Girl Scouts board has taken the position that this surplus was donated to the nine member agencies of the Community Chest and should be distributed on a percentage basis, earmarked for capital expenditures or emergencies, and not to be deducted from future budgets of the United Fund.

Police Station Busy With Sale Of Bicycle Tags

Business was rather brisk at Police Headquarters yesterday when approximately 175 local youngsters pedaled in for their new bicycle tags.

Chief R. Emmett Flynn said yesterday that the new tags, which cost the cyclist 25 cents, must be displayed by July 1.

Bicycles, he said, must be equipped with lights on front and back and also have a horn or bell or other warning device. Sirens are not allowed.

A "must" on each bicycle is brakes in first class condition, the chief added. Tags are on sale through Friday from 10 a. m. to noon and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Episcopal Drive Reports $735,782

Some $735,782 or 43 per cent of the $1,700,000 goal was reported over the weekend toward the Episcopal Advance Fund campaign now being conducted throughout the Diocese of Maryland.

The $1,700,000 will be placed in a revolving fund from which Episcopal missions and parishes may borrow money at low interest rates for much-needed improvements.

William L. Wilson, this city, is chairman of Area 1, which is Allegany County. This area has reported a total of $11,446. The "A" Division, led by Dr. Leslie R. Miles of Lonaconing, has reported $5,117. "B" Division, led by Harry F. Goss, this city, reports $6,329.

Heavy Balloting Is Predicted Here Today

Intensive Campaign Precedes Election

Citizens of Cumberland will use voting machines today to elect a mayor and four councilmen and vote for or against the proposed $500,000 Urban Development bond issue.

The polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. and will be located in the same spots as in the June 3 primary election.

A heavy vote—70 per cent or better—is predicted for the election, based on the intensive campaigning staged here during the past two weeks.

Voting machines have been set up so that the first lever to pull will be FOR or AGAINST the bond issue planned to help finance the Cumberland Thruway and the Industrial Boulevard.

Take Office July 7

For candidates, there will be 10 levers, and voters may choose between Roy W. Eves, incumbent mayor, and J. Edwin Keech, South Cumberland businessman, for the position of chief executive of the city.

Levers 3 A to 10 A are for the eight candidates for City Council.

The candidates are William H. Buchholtz, incumbent; Philmore F. Fleming, William V. Keegan, incumbent; G. Ray Light; John J. Long, incumbent; Lucile Roeder, Keith T. Sisk and George H. Tederick.

The administration to be elected today will take office on July 7 at 10 a. m. and will serve for four years.

Voters are advised that they will not be electing four commissioners today but will name four council members. The council members will decide among themselves who will be the commissioners in charge of major city departments.

Office Open Today

City Hall sources pointed out it has been a tradition that the top vote getter receives first choice of jobs, but it need not work out that way.

The mayor is required to spend six hours a day on his duties and is paid $3,600 a year. Council members will get $1,800 a year and are not required to spend any specific amount of time on their duties.

The City Registration Office will be open from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. to advise voters if they are registered and where they may vote. Either PA 2-3290 or PA 2-7270 may be used to call the office.

Housing Group Files Action For Property

A condemnation suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland for a 40-foot lot on the east side of Lamont Street needed for the third low rent housing project here.

Attorney Matthew J. Mullaney filed the petition in behalf of the housing authority. This is one of about four properties still needed for the project to be located in an area bounded on the north by Thomas Street, on the south by Cresap Street, on the east by Oldtown Road and on the west by Rosewood Alley.

Owners of the property listed as defendants in the condemnation suit are Cora Snyder, Hanover and Centre streets; Raymond H. Snyder, and Mabel Snyder, his wife, 444 Columbia Street; Naomi Snyder, Ellerslie; Harriett Wolfe and John Wolfe, her husband, of Ellerslie.

Four local firms also were listed as defendants because they hold unreleased judgment liens on the property. They are the Liberty Trust Company, McKaig's, the Carl F. Schmutz Company and the Times and Alleganian Company.

The petitioner has attempted to purchase this Lamont Street property but has been unable to reach agreement.

MRS. WILLIAM J. EDWARDS

Mrs. Edwards, City Official, Dies At Home

Mrs. Josephine Edwards, 77, of 225 Columbia Avenue, commissioner of water and electric light, died yesterday morning at her home.

She was appointed to the City Council March 10 to succeed her husband, William J. Edwards, who died on March 2.

Mrs. Edwards had been in ill health for some time and was unable to attend some recent council sessions.

The Mayor and Council yesterday paid respects to Mrs. Edwards. Mayor Roy W. Eves announced her death during the council meeting. He expressed regret and a moment of silence was observed. Later, council moved that a resolution of respect be prepared.

A native of Old Stone House at the foot of Martin's Mountain, Mrs. Edwards was born October 30, 1880 and was a daughter of the late Hilliary F. and Elmira (Hendrickson) Willison.

She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Woman's Civic Club.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Blanche W. Huerta, of Arlington, Va., a grandson, Edward George, this city, and a number of nephews and nieces.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home where relatives will receive friends from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Californian Waives Right To Extradition

Joseph Eugene Mojkowski, 23, of Pasadena, Calif., yesterday waived extradition to California at a hearing before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The Californian had surrendered here June 10 to State Trooper Kenneth Messman and had informed the trooper that he was wanted in Pasadena for a burglary, which he said he had committed about eight weeks ago.

Mojkowski had been confined in the County Jail since June 10 and was taken by Trooper Carlton W. Lewis before Judge Harris when he expressed a desire to waive extradition to his home state.

Sgt. E. G. Jones of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department flew from Los Angeles to Pittsburgh yesterday and then completed his journey to Cumberland by bus yesterday evening. He plans to return the prisoner to California today by plane.

Woman Receives Suspended Sentence

A Lonaconing woman was found guilty in Juvenile Court here yesterday of a charge of neglecting her six-year-old daughter.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said she admitted she had been running around with men other than her husband. Her only defense, he added, was her husband's treatment.

Magistrate Anderson suspended a six-month sentence to the Reformatory for Women on condition the woman discontinue her association with other men and devote her time to her daughter. She was placed under the supervision of the Welfare Board.

Jobless Pay Extension Takes Effect Thursday

BALTIMORE (AP)—The unemployed in Maryland who have exhausted their 26 weeks of compensation may start filing claims on Thursday for an additional 13 weeks.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Department of Employment Security, said Monday that Maryland will put the temporary extension into operation simultaneously with effect of the federal law.

Congress offered to loan the states money to extend the jobless benefits. The Maryland Legislature accepted it in special session last Friday.

It has not been decided how the state will repay the money.

Kimble said his department is hiring 70 more employes to process the extended benefits. About 18,000 persons had received the maximum 26 weeks.

Kimble explained that they still will have to be unemployed Thursday to be eligible for the new weekly payments. The program is not retroactive and will expire next April 1.

Kimble said those seeking the new benefits are to report on the same day of the week as formerly assigned them when claiming regular compensation.

This applies to the office in Baltimore City and all the counties except six. The exceptions and the dates for filing first claims are La Plata June 25, Pocomoke City June 25, Leonardtown June 26, Prince Frederick June 27, Kitzmiller June 30 and Snow Hill July 2.

Marine Dies Of Injuries After Car Crash

Spine Injury Fatal To Douglas Wilds

Pvt. Douglas L. Wilds, 22, of Newport, Tenn., a Marine who was critically injured in an auto crash near Romney Saturday night, died about 8:10 p. m. yesterday in Memorial Hospital.

Attaches said he had sustained a fracture of the spine when he was thrown from the car he was driving east on U. S. Route 50, about four miles east of Romney.

A companion, George Brown, also 21, stationed with Wilds at Quantico, Va., sustained abrasions of the face, arms and chest. He was treated at the hospital and kept overnight.

Sgt. W. Frank Bowley of the Romney detachment of State Police, said the two Marines were descending Ebenezer Mountain and while rounding a right turn the car went off the north berm.

After Pvt. Wilds lost control, the car careened back across the highway and struck a shale bank, throwing the victim from the auto.

Police said the car bounced back to the north shoulder and Brown was tossed out of the vehicle. There were no witnesses to the accident, police said.

The two Marines were admitted to the local hospital about 10:50 p. m. Saturday.

A native of Newport, Tenn. he was a son of Jake M. and Oran (McClure) Wilds. Surviving, besides his parents, are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth (Farmer) Wilds and three brothers. The body was taken to the George Funeral Home.

Lt. McDiffitt Is Assigned To Citadel

Lt. Lillian McDiffitt has arrived here to serve as an assistant at the Salvation Army Citadel during the summer, according to Capt. Daniel Biggs, commander.

Lt. McDiffitt came here from Hagerstown, where she has been stationed for about a year. She is a native of Fairmont, W. Va.

She will be primarily responsible for assisting with youth work and the general program of the Citadel and will be in charge when Capt. and Mrs. Biggs are on vacation.

Lt. McDiffitt is scheduled to leave here for New York in September, when she will begin nurse's training at a Salvation Army hospital.

Commencement exercises will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Citadel for the annual Bible School which opened last Monday. Attendance has averaged 65 students a session.

The Bible School and the Citadel's Sunday School will hold a joint picnic Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Celanese Park.

Two young people from the Citadel have been selected as junior counselors for the Salvation Army's summer camp near Hedgesville, W. Va.

George Price Jr. and Carol Capel will serve at Camp Tomahawk during the camping season from June 23 to August 4.

Appeals Court Affirms Harris

The Maryland Court of Appeals has affirmed a decision of Judge Morgan C. Harris in quashing a petition for a writ of error filed by an inmate of the Maryland House of Correction.

Elmer J. Carder had filed the petition for a writ of coram nobis or writ of error. Last October 26, Judge Harris filed an opinion and order of court that the writ be quashed.

On December 30, Carder filed an appeal and pauper's oath and all of the papers in the case were dispatched to Lloyd Young, clerk of the Court of Appeals.
